Connections in high places.
They are vital in peace.
And in war.

Border roads on high ranges, linking strategic defence outposts They are lifelines for our defence system. Providing the essential logistics.

Helping to lay these roads, under very arduous conditions, are a range of BEML earthmovers.

In this, as in many other vital sectors, BEML has been first in the field. Moving earth, making way for progress. With its range of earthmovers dozers, dumpers, scrapers, graders, shovels

BEML's involvement goes far beyond merely supplying the equipment for border road construction. Or for power projects. Or irrigation. Or mining.

It lies in the reservoir of technology in earthmoving that BEML has developed. Technology that is on call, to meet the challenges of tomorrow.

Zirconia alloy steel tubes that carry precious nuclear fuel...high-cost tubes, demanding an exceptional finish. To create such a finish, Carborundum Universal created a special grinding tool

A special waterproof cloth belt.

It is capable not only of grinding to exacting levels, but of withstanding coolants...both features imperative for this critical application.

What sets Carborundum Universal apart

Not just making India's widest range of abrasives, super and electrocast refractories, but an awareness that they provide something more: essential services...

Not the wheel, but the precise dimension. Not the belt, but the finish Not the heating element, but the exact firing temperature...

All this involves technology of the highest order. Creative technology. It's what Carborundum Universal is all about.

Carborundum Universal : a quarter-century of providing essential services for industry.

Now,
Engineering Components in Fibreglass Reinforced Thermoplastics

Now, Fibreglass reinforces all thermoplastics—Polystyrene, Polypropylene, Nylon, Polycarbonate, Polyethylene, ABS and others—to give you the latest engineering material, Fibreglass Reinforced Thermoplastics (FTP).

Special industrial plastics are expensive and, often, difficult to obtain. General-purpose unreinforced plastics are good enough only for consumer use. Now, FTPs enable moulding of engineering components not feasible in plastics so far.

Fibreglass Reinforced Thermoplastics, now manufactured in India
- are far stronger than other engineering plastics
- replace metal parts economically
- are as easy to process as other plastics.

How FTPs score over other materials:
- Lower cost—faster production and no finishing...less expensive than metals, volume-for-volume
- Superior mechanical and creep properties—thinner, lighter and stronger sections possible... shorter moulding cycles, speedier production...long, maintenance-free performance
- Better thermal properties—improved heat distortion temperature and lower coefficient of linear thermal expansion
- Improved electrical properties—higher arc resistance and good dielectric strength
- Excellent resistance to chemical as well as environmental corrosion
- Lower shrinkage—consistent quality
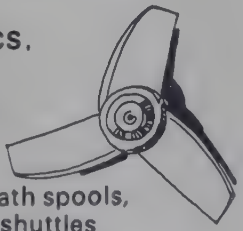
- Greater flexibility in design and production—one-piece moulding eliminates assembly

Some popular applications of FTPs:



Textile: Dye bath spools, bobbins, pirns, shuttles

Electricals & Electronics: Switch boxes, coil forms, circuit breaker parts, motor cooling fans, airconditioner fans and blowers, motor end-covers, power tool housings

General: Chairs, luggage, sports goods, rifle and pistol butts, business machine covers,

Rural economy gets a taste of electronics...
...as Keltron makes inroads where tracks never were.

Stepping out of lengthy speeches the concept of rural industrialisation moves into the very heart of Kerala. Touching the lives of thousands of villagers. Skilled, semi-skilled and educated unemployed.

It calls for vision, courage and dynamism to take sophisticated electronics to economically backward areas. This is what Keltron has been doing. Thrusting modern factory roofs into the rural skyline. Transforming industrial wastelands. Initiating the beginnings of an industrial culture.

By setting up major factories—Keltron Component Complex, Keltron Power Devices and Keltron Controls—in the backward districts of Cannanore, Trichur and Alleppey, Keltron practises what others preach Bringing to the countryside a new hope. Arousing new expectations.

Keltron's commitment to larger societal goals and to self-reliance are reflected in several other of its pioneering programmes. For instance

The initiation of an all-women's co-operative movement that already covers over 20 co-operative societies assembling 62 lakhs worth of Keltron radios

The development of hundreds of ancillary industries within Kerala to supply material worth crores to Keltron's manufacturing units

A rehabilitation scheme for the physically handicapped and mentally retarded offering them work opportunities. To produce P.C Cards for Keltron radios and assemble wire trees for TV sets

Keltron The first name in State Electronics Corporations is also the last word in electronics capability With unmatched innovative ability And link-ups with the world's leading names in electronics technology like Sprague and Controle Bailey.

Keltron—above all a harbinger of opportunity for people no matter who they are

A ROOF IS JUST A ROOF, EXCEPT...

...when it is a Ramco roof. All asbestos cement roofs look alike. But Ramco asbestos cement sheets are the choice of leading architects and builders. And that sets them apart. Because these people are very demanding... About strength and durability. Fire and corrosion resistance. Weather proofing... In short, they look for permanent protection with minimum maintenance. Ramco gives them all that. Stringent quality control and modern plants ensure that Ramco performs best. A roof is a roof... But leading architects and builders know the exception – Ramco !

to fertilizers for growing more foodgrains

Chemical fertilizers have taken the nation several million tonnes ahead in foodgrain production. And, with the increasing emphasis on growing more food, additional fertilizer projects are also being planned—to ensure a steady supply of quality fertilizers. A process in which Taylor is fully involved. Taylor instruments are controlling the complex process of fertilizer manufacture in almost all the major plants in the country.

Today, the Taylor range of electronic and pneumatic instruments are serving to improve quality, cut costs and increase productivity in almost every major industry—from fertilizers, chemicals, paper and sugar to cement, steel and power. That's right ! Taylor India is very much a part of the growth of the nation, the process of progress.

In the process, Taylor is fully involved.

CONSTITUTION

THE Indian Constitution was adopted by the Constituent Assembly on 26th November, 1949, and came into force on 26th January, 1950. The preamble embodies the resolve to secure for all citizens: Justice—social, economic and political; Liberty—of thought, expression, belief, faith and worship; Equality—of status and of opportunity; Fraternity—the assurance to uphold the dignity of the individual and unity and integrity of the nation.

India is a Sovereign Socialist Secular Democratic Republic with a parliamentary form of government elected on the basis of universal adult franchise.

THE UNION & ITS TERRITORY: India is a union of 22 States and 9 Territories. These are: STATES:— Andhra Pradesh, Assam, Bihar, Gujarat, Haryana, Himachal Pradesh, Jammu and Kashmir, Karnataka, Kerala, Madhya Pradesh, Maharashtra, Manipur, Meghalaya, Nagaland, Orissa, Punjab, Rajasthan, Sikkim, Tamil Nadu, Tripura, Uttar Pradesh and West Bengal. UNION TERRITORIES — Andaman & Nicobar Islands, Arunachal Pradesh, Chandigarh, Dadra & Nagar Haveli, Delhi, Goa, Daman & Diu, Lakshadweep, Mizoram and Pondicherry.

CITIZENSHIP: (ART. 5-11): Single and uniform citizenship is ensured throughout India. All those who were domiciled in India at the commencement of the Constitution and all those born in India or, either of whose parents were born in India, or, all those who were residing in India for at least five years preceding the commencement of the Constitution became citizens of India.

Special provision, however, had to be made for those who migrated from Pakistan and those of Indian origin who reside abroad.

FUNDAMENTAL RIGHTS: (ART. 12-35): All citizens, individually and collectively, are guaranteed the following basic freedoms:

1. The right to equality meaning equality before the law; prohibition of discrimination on grounds of religion, race, caste, sex or place of birth; equality of opportunity in matters of employment; and abolition of titles (ART. 14-18).

2. The right to freedom meaning freedom of speech and expression, freedom to assemble peaceably and without arms, freedom to form associations or unions, freedom to move freely throughout the territory of India, freedom to acquire, hold and dispose of property and freedom to practise any profession, or to carry on any occupation, trade or business (ART. 19).

These rights are not absolute and it is open to the State to make laws imposing reasonable restrictions on the exercise of the rights on the ground specified in ART. 19(2)-(6). The rights are enforceable by the courts and the reasonableness of the restriction imposed by the State can be challenged in a Court of Law.

The right to freedom includes the protection of the individual in respect of conviction for offences, except under and in accordance with the law for the time being in force and that no person can be prosecuted and punished for the same offence twice and that no person can be compelled to be a witness against himself (ART. 20).

The right to freedom includes the protection of the life and personal liberty of the individual and also the protection that no person can be arrested and detained except under and in accordance with a laws which conforms to the provisions of the Articles of the Constitution (ART. 21-22).

3. The right against exploitation, prohibiting all forms of forced labour, child labour and traffic in human beings (ART. 23-24).

6. The right to property, subject to the State's right to compulsory acquisition for public use in the manner and for such compensation as is to be provided for or to be determined under the law under which the acquisition is to take place. ART. 31B provides for the validation of certain Acts and Regulations by incorporating them in a Schedule (known as 'the Ninth Schedule') whereby their invalidity on the grounds that they are violation of the Fundamental Rights is removed and the Acts and Regulations, if incorporated prior to a challenge to their validity, cannot be challenged in a court on the ground that they violate the Fundamental Rights. Recourse, in recent years, to this Schedule has been frequent to save legislation which was otherwise held invalid by the Courts (See below: Amendment to the Constitution). (ART. 31).

7. By the 42nd Constitutional Amendment laws giving effect to all the directive principles enumerated in part IV are saved from attack on the ground of infringement of fundamental rights contained in ART. 14, 19, and 31 (ART. 31C).

8. The right to constitutional remedies by moving the Supreme Court of India in appropriate proceedings for the enforcement of fundamental rights. (ART. 32).

DIRECTIVE PRINCIPLES OF STATE POLICY: (ART. 36-51): In Part IV certain directive principles of State policy are laid down for the guidance of the legislatures as well as governmental authorities. They relate to (a) Principles of social policy, (b) Principles of administrative policy, (c) Socio-economic rights. The Directive Principles provide for the organisation of village panchayats, for just and humane conditions of work; for a living wage for all workers; for a uniform civil code; for free and compulsory education for children and for promoting the interests of the weaker sections of the people — the Scheduled Castes and Tribes; for raising the level of nutrition; for prohibition of consumption of alcohol; for organising agriculture; for protecting monuments and places of national importance.

The Directive Principles also provide that the State shall take steps to separate the judiciary from the executive in the public services of the State and also contain a statement of the international policy of the Republic.

FUNDAMENTAL DUTIES: (ART.51A): Part IVA has been added by the 42nd Constitutional Amendment specifying the fundamental duties of citizens, to uphold, abide, and protect the Constitution, the National Flag and National Anthem, and the sovereignty, unity and integrity of India, to defend the country and render national service when called upon to promote common brotherhood, protect the cultural heritage and national environment, safeguard public property and abjure violence.

Then, there is a clause-by-clause discussion and voting thereon. A specially important measure may go before a select committee or a joint select committee. A Money Bill has a slightly different passage. After it has been passed in the Lok Sabha it is sent to the Rajya Sabha which has to return it within fourteen days with its recommendations which may be accepted or rejected. (ART. 107-110). All Bills when passed by the Houses must receive the assent of the President and the President may give his assent or withhold assent and return the Bill for reconsideration by the Houses. The Public Accounts Committee ensures that money is spent for the purpose for which Parliament has voted it. The Estimates Committee examines possibilities of economy and reform in financial administration and the manner in which estimates may be presented to Parliament.

The Union Judiciary: (See next column: Administration of Justice.)

Comptroller and Auditor-General is appointed by the President to control, on behalf of the Union and the States, all disbursements and to audit all accounts of moneys administered by Parliament and State legislatures. (ART. 148-150).

THE STATES : The Executive : The Governor : The executive power of each State vests in a Governor, appointed by the President, and is exercised by him either directly or through officers subordinate to him. All executive business and action is taken in the name of the Governor. The powers of the Governor are similar to that of the President in respect of pardons etc. and to suspend etc. sentences. The Governor appoints the Chief Minister and the other Ministers of the Council of Ministers who aid and advise him in the discharge of the executive functions. The duties of the Chief Minister are similar to that of the Prime Minister. The Governor summons the Houses of the Legislature of the States, prorogues them and can dissolve the Legislative Assembly. The Governor can promulgate ordinances when the State Legislature is not in session. The Governor also has the power to give assent to bills passed by the State Legislature and the power to reserve certain bills for consideration by the President. The Governor also makes recommendations for introducing financial bills. The Governor appoints the Advocate-General of the State.

The 22 States have Governors as their heads, the Union Territories of Andaman & Nicobar Islands and Chandigarh have Chief Commissioners, Delhi, Goa, Mizoram and Pondicherry have Lieutenant-Governors, Lakshadweep, and Dadra & Nagar Haveli have Administrators.

The system of Government in the States closely resembles that of the Union.

The State Legislatures : Six States, Andhra Pradesh, Bihar, Karnataka, Maharashtra, Tamil Nadu and Uttar Pradesh have two Houses of Legislature; the others, only one. The two Houses are called the Legislative Assembly (sometimes Vidhan Sabha) and the Legislative Council (sometimes Vidhan Parishad). The former has a duration of six years except during a proclamation of emergency when its duration can be extended one year at a time, while the latter is a permanent body with one-third of the members retiring every second year.

Membership Strength : The minimum strength of an Assembly is 60 and the maximum 500. The minimum strength of a Council is 40, and the maximum one-third of the State Assembly. (ART. 170-171).

Elections : An Assembly is elected directly on the basis of adult franchise with reservation of seats for the Scheduled Castes and Tribes. The composition of a Council is more complicated. About a third are elected by the Assembly, another third by local authorities (municipalities, district boards), about a twelfth by registered teachers in schools not lower than the secondary school standard, and about a twelfth by registered graduates of not less than three years' standing. And the rest are nominated by the Governor from among persons who have distinguished themselves in art, science, literature, co-operation and social service. (ART. 171). Under certain circumstances a person may be disqualified from being a member (ART. 190-193).

Administrative Units: The principal unit of administration in a State is the district under a Collector and Magistrate. A collector is responsible to a Commissioner who heads a Division or to the Board of Revenue depending upon the practice of a particular State. A District Magistrate is responsible for the maintenance of law and order and leads the district police force.

Immunity of Members : Similar provisions as for the Parliament exist in respect of the State Legislatures and members exercising their rights.

Retirement: At the age of 65.

Qualifications: For appointment as a judge of the Supreme Court a person has to be a citizen of India and must have been for at least 5 years a judge of a High Court or of two or more such Courts in succession; or an advocate of a High Court or two or more such Courts in succession for at least 10 years; or, he must be in the opinion of the President an eminent jurist.

Removal: A judge of the Supreme Court cannot be removed from office except by an order of the President passed after an address by each House of Parliament, supported by a majority of the total membership of that House voting, has been presented to the President in the same session for such removal on the ground of proved misbehaviour or incapacity.

Original Jurisdiction: The Supreme Court has an exclusive original jurisdiction which extends to all disputes between the Union and one or more States or between two or more States inter se (ART. 131). In addition to this and more significantly, Article 32 of the Constitution gives an extensive original jurisdiction to the Supreme Court to enforce fundamental rights guaranteed under Part III of the Constitution, by enabling it to issue writs, directions or orders including writs of habeas corpus, mandamus, prohibition, quo warranto and certiorari. The right guaranteed by ART. 32 cannot be suspended except as provided in the Constitution.

Advisory Jurisdiction: The President may consult the Supreme Court on any question of fact or law of public importance.

Appellate Jurisdiction: The Supreme Court can be invoked by a certificate of the High Court concerned or by special leave granted by the Supreme Court, in respect of any judgement, degree or final order of the High Court in cases involving substantial questions of law as to the interpretation of the Constitution. (ART. 132).

Civil Appeals: An appeal also lies from a judgement of a Division Bench of a High Court in a civil proceeding if the High Court certifies that the case involves a substantial question of general importance and which, in the opinion of the High Court, needs to be decided by the Supreme Court. (ART. 133).

Criminal Appeals: An appeal to the Supreme Court lies if the High Court (a) has on appeal reversed an order of acquittal of an accused person and sentenced him to death; (b) has withdrawn for trial before itself any case from any court subordinate to its authority and has in such trial convicted the accused person and sentenced him to death; or (c) certifies that the case is a fit one for appeal to the Supreme Court. Parliament is authorised to confer on the Supreme Court any further powers to hear and entertain appeals from any judgement, final order of sentence in a criminal proceeding of a High Court in Indian territory. (ART. 134).

Apart from these provision is also made for special leave to appeal to the Supreme Court from any judgement, decree, sentence, determination or order from any cause of any matter passed by a Court or tribunal. But leave is at the discretion of the Supreme Court and is not one as of right. (ART. 136).

By the 42nd Constitutional Amendment where cases involving the same or substantially the same questions of law of general importance are pending before the Supreme Court and one or more High Courts the Attorney General can move the Supreme Court to withdraw the cases pending before the High Court or High Courts to itself and dispose of the same. Further the Supreme Court has been empowered to transfer cases from one High Court to another High Court, if it is expedient for the ends of justice so to do. (ART. 139A).

High Court (ART. 214-231): Every State has a High Court of its own except in the case of Assam and Nagaland and Punjab and Haryana who share one each between them. Delhi has a High Court of its own.

Appointment: High Court judges are appointed by the President after consulting the Chief Justice of India, the Governor of the State and the Chief Justice of the High Court. They retire at the age of 62.

Qualifications: To be appointed a person has to be a citizen of the country who has either held judicial office or practised as an advocate for 10 years in any State; or he must be, in the opinion of the President, an eminent jurist.

Removal: Article 124 (4), which lays down the procedure for the removal of a Supreme Court judge, applies to the High Court judges also.

Jurisdiction: The jurisdiction as well as the laws administered by a High Court can be altered both by the Union and State Legislatures. Certain High Courts, like those at Bombay, Calcutta and Madras, have Original and Appellate jurisdictions. Under the Original jurisdiction suits, where the subject matter is valued at Rs. 25,000 or over, can be filed directly in the High Court. Under the Appellate jurisdiction only appeals from lower courts and appeals from suits, filed on the Original side of the High Court, can be entertained. Most High Courts have only appellate jurisdiction. Two important aspects of this jurisdiction are that the High Courts are also empowered to issue writs, directions, orders like the Supreme Court for enforcing the Fundamental Rights and in cases where the petitioner can satisfy the court that he has no other remedy, and there is a contravention of a statutory provision causing substantial injury to the petitioner or there is an illegality resulting in substantial failure (Art. 226 amended by the 42nd Constitutional Amendment). The other aspect is the power of superintendence over all subordinate Courts except those inferior courts whose judgement is not otherwise subject to appeal or revision. (ART. 227)

Subordinate Courts: (ART. 233-237): Except for minor variations, the structure and functions of the subordinate courts are uniform throughout the country. A State is divided into a number of districts, each under the jurisdiction of a principle civil court presided over by a District Judge. Subordinate to a District Judge is a hierarchy of different grades of civil courts.

The constitution and organisation of criminal courts and their procedure are regulated by the Code of Criminal Procedure 1898, as amended from time to time. In every district there is a District Magistrate and under him a number of subordinate magistrates of various grades sitting at various places. These Magistrates try and dispose the cases involving a sentence not exceeding imprisonment for two years.

Sheriffs and Official Assignees are attached to the High Courts of Bombay, Calcutta and Madras.

There are Official Assignees in three States—Maharashtra, W. Bengal and Tamil Nadu. The appointment is made by the Chief Justice of the High Court concerned

In addition to the Official Assignee, a Deputy Official Assignee may also be appointed. Another officer of the court is the Insolvency Registrar who may be vested with the powers mentioned in section 6 of the Presidency Towns Insolvency Act

Tribunals : Part XIVA has been added by the 42nd Amendment. Parliament may set up Administrative Tribunals for the Union and for each State or for two or more States and define the jurisdiction and powers of such tribunals for determining disputes relating to the recruitment and conditions of service of Union Government servants and servants of the States including the employees of any local or other authority within the territory of India or under the control of the Government of India or of a Corporation owned or controlled by Government. (ART. 323A)

ART. 323B provides for the creation of a hierarchy of Tribunals for the determination of disputes, complaints and offences respectively on various matters specified therein.

On 3rd Nov., 1962, a Presidential order was made under ART. 359 suspending the rights conferred by ART. 21 and 22. On 11th Nov., 1962 ART. 14 was added to the Presidential order. Such a Proclamation approved by the Parliament ceases to be in operation after a period of one year unless revoked earlier and may be renewed for a period of one year at a time but in no case beyond a total period of three years. The satisfaction of the President is final and conclusive and justifiable. Consequential provisions regarding Parliament's authority to legislate on such a declaration are provided under the Constitution. (ART. 356-7).

AMENDMENT OF THE CONSTITUTION: (ART. 368). The extent of the power to amend the Constitution and whether all parts of the Constitution were amendable was the subject of several decisions of the Supreme Court. In the last decision, popularly known as the "Fundamental Rights Case" the Supreme Court has held that the power to amend applies to even the Fundamental Rights (which it had previously held to be not amendable) but that Parliament could not amend the "basic features" of the Constitution. ART. 368 was itself amended by the 24th Constitution Amendment which was challenged in the Fundamental Rights case and that amendment was upheld by the Supreme Court. The new ART. 368 contains the procedure for amendment. The amendment can be done only by the introduction of a Bill for that purpose in either the Lok Sabha or the Rajya Sabha and the Bill has to be passed by each House by a majority of the total membership of that House and by a majority of not less than two-thirds of the members of that House voting and after the President has assented to it the Constitution will stand amended. Certain provisions of the Constitution like the provisions relating to the Union Judiciary, the High Courts, the distribution of Legislative Powers or ART. 54, 55, 73, 162 and 241 or of any of the lists contained in the Seventh Schedule in the representation of the States in Parliament and an amendment to any of the provisions of this Article have in addition to the above to be ratified by the legislatures of at least half the States by resolutions to that effect before the Bill can be presented to the President for his assent.

The 42nd Constitutional Amendment has amended ART. 368 to provide that no amendment of the Constitution made before or after the 42nd Amendment shall be questioned in any court on any ground, and further, that Parliament's power to amend the Constitution under ART. 368 shall be without any limitation.

Section 59 of the Constitution (Forty-second Amendment) Act, 1976 has conferred power on the President to remove by an order, any difficulty that may arise during the period of transition from the old provisions of the Constitution to the new provisions as amended.

Amendments made to the Constitution: Till 1980, 44 amendments had been made to the provisions of the Constitution.

The Constitution (45th Amendment) Bill extending reservation of seats in the State Assemblies and Lok Sabha for Scheduled Castes, Scheduled Tribes and Anglo-Indians for a period of 10 years has been passed by the Lok Sabha on Jan. 24, 1980 and okayed by Rajya Sabha on Jan. 25, 1980.

JUSTICE—PRESENT POSITION

Supreme Court: At the beginning of the year 1977 the number of the Supreme Court Judges was 13 excluding the Chief Justice (under the Supreme Court Amendment Act, 1960). The pendency of cases in 1976 was 14,109 against 2,319 in 1960. Therefore, a Bill was introduced to increase the maximum number of Judges to 17 excluding Chief Justice which was passed by both Houses of Parliament and it received the assent of the President on Dec. 31, 1977. During 1979 the working strength remained 15 excluding the Chief Justice.

PHYSIOGRAPHY

THE vast size of India needs no stressing. Reaching from 8° 4′ to 37° 6′ North latitude, and from 68° 7′ to 97° 25′ East longitude, it measures some 3,220 kms. from south to north and some 2,980 kms. from west to east, and covers an area of 3,276,141 sq. kms. (including Sikkim).

Physical Features : India is built on a grand scale. Its physical features fall into three well-marked regions, each of them vast in dimensions: first, the great Himalayan mountain system; secondly, the Indo-Gangetic plain; and thirdly, the plateaux of peninsular India, the Deccan.

The Himalayan system lies between the plateau of Tibet and the Indo-Gangetic Plain, and consists essentially of a complex series of young fold-mountains arranged in more or less parallel ranges which now combine in a mountain-knot, then divide to leave room for intermont valleys like those of Kashmir and Kulu. The highest range, the Great Himalaya, consists of a whole series of giant peaks like Nanda Devi (24,645 feet), separated by deep chasms cut by rivers and glaciers and, occasionally, by high passes over which run the immemorial trade-routes between India and Tibet. South of the Great Himalaya lie other high ranges, and nearest to the plains there are the Sivaliks, the youngest member of the series geologically, which present a massive rampart to the south, broken only by valleys through which run great snow-fed rivers like the Sutlej (a tributary of the Indus), the Yamuna and Kosi (tributaries of the Ganga) and the Ganga itself. At the eastern-most end of the Indian Himalaya the ranges are breached in a spectacular gorge by the Brahmaputra, which rises in Tibet. East and south of the Brahmaputra gorge, the fold-ranges trend generally southward, and form the wild hilly country of Nagaland and other areas on the frontiers of India and Burma.

The Indo-Gangetic Plain occupies what must once have been a hollow between the Himalayas and the old-rock plateaux of the peninsula; a hollow that has been infilled by alluvium brought down by the great Himalayan rivers and, to a lesser extent, by those flowing into it from the Deccan, like the Chambal and Sone. If one includes the level ground along the Brahmaputra in Assam, the Plain as a whole is over 2,400 kms. long, and generally 200-300 kms. wide (rather narrow in Assam). Here is one of the world's really large Plains. To the casual observer it is one great monotony, but actually it has considerable variety, of two kinds: first, the gradual transition from the dune-covered desert-plain of Rajasthan, through the rich, cultivated alluvium of Uttar Pradesh to the swampy Sundarbans along the weaward edge of the Bengal delta; and, secondly, more intimate local variety — for example, the contrast of deeply-gullied terraces of old alluvium and of low-lying flood-plain where the Chambal runs into the Yamuna below Agra.

The dominant landform in the Deccan (that is, in peninsular India) is the plateau, the great stretch of rolling country at some considerable elevation above sea-level. Such is the Maidan of Kamataka or the black-earth plateau of Malwa (or the detached plateau which forms Meghalaya). Most of these plateaux, indeed, almost all of the Deccan, are built of hard old crystalline rock, with here and there ancient sediments. Here lies most of India's mineral wealth, especially iron and manganese ore (with coal in down-faulted basins in the north-east Deccan). In Maharashtra there was a great outpouring of basalt which overlies the crystalline base and gives rise to characteristic stepped landforms. Across the plateaux roll the great east-flowing Deccan rivers, the Mahanadi, Godavari, Krishna and Kaveri, with their tributaries. Each forms a notable delta where it reaches the sea. The Narmada and Tapti, on the other hand, flow westward to the Gulf of Cambay north of Bombay. The great plateaux end in massive mural scarps like those overlooking the Indo-Gangetic Plains or the even more impressive Western Ghats (the so-called Eastern Ghats are puny, broken things in comparison). There are also scarps with the appearance of mountain ranges where one plateau-level descends to another within the Deccan.

Climate: The vastness of India and the variety of its relief are reflected in the wide range of climatic types to be found within it. In the Plains, the desert of Rajasthan contrasts with the humidity of Bengal. The winter snows of the Himalaya contrast with the nearly equatorial heat of Kerala and Tamil Nadu. The last two contrast with each other, for Kerala is wet, with a short dry season, and Tamil Nadu is dry, with a long dry season when much of India is having rain, during the south-west monsoon.

If one seeks a unifying factor in the climate of India, it is to be found in the dominance of the monsoon : that is, in a great seasonal reversal of wind and weather. For most of India except Tamil Nadu, the south-west monsoon of about June to September is a period of rain, very heavy in Bombay and Calcutta, torrentially heavy in Meghalaya (where Cherrapunji has the reputation of being the earth's wettest spot), light by the time Delhi is reached, even lighter (and highly variable) in the desert. The north-east monsoon of ' winter ' is a period of dry weather over most of India except Tamil Nadu, which then has its rainy season; and of cold weather, becoming hot as the south-west monsoon season approaches, in north India.

Vegetation and Soils: Most of India must once, it is thought, have been covered with forest whose nature reflected principally variations in rainfall (or of altitude in the Himalaya) : forest that ranged from tropical rain forest in Kerala through tropical moist deciduous forest in the eastern Plains and north-east Deccan to thorn scrub in semi-arid interior Maharashtra. Forest reserves to some extent preserve this pristine vegetation, though usually in a form modified by man, acting as a destructive agent (for instance, turning thorn forest to poor savana-jungle) or as a constructive agent (replacing 'natural' vegetation with pure strands of desired species like sal or sandalwood). In the Plains, the east coast deltas and western coastal strips, in Tamil Nadu and much of Maharashtra, little 'natural' vegetation of any sort survives.

Human activity over the centuries (indeed, for millennia) has replaced 'natural' vegetation with crops : the kharif rice and rabi wheat of much of the Plains (and, of course, other crops beside, like sugar-cane and mustard) ; the jowar and bajra of the drier parts of the Deccan, except where irrigation has brought in wheat, or rice, or sugar-cane ; the tea of Assam ; the tea and coffee of Kerala and of the hills north of it ; the coconut of the coastal fringes of the South. So, too, the teeming wild life of India, dependent as it is on forest cover, has been fighting a losing battle against man. There is now concern over the survival of a number of species, notably the lion (confined to the Gir forest in Saurashtra), the tiger, the elephant and the rhinoceros. But a number of species of deer are still relatively common, and bird life is generally abundant.

Population (also see Chapter on Population): India is the world's second most populous country. The 1981 Census indicated the total population was 683·81 million, an increase of 24·75 per cent over 1971 Census, as against 547·9 million in 1971 with 24·8 per cent increase over 1961 Census figures. All the States/Territories north of the Vindhyas account for more than 60 per cent of the entire population. There are great variations between one region and another and pressure of population on the land has become excessive, especially in the Plains, the east coast deltas and Tamil Nadu.

A TOURIST'S GUIDE

INDIA has three major seasons: winter, summer and the monsoon.

The winter months (November-February) are pleasant throughout India with bright sunny days. In the northern plains, the minimum temperature at times drops steeply and there is snowfall in the hills. In Maharashtra and the south and in eastern India, however, December and January are pleasantly cool, never really cold.

The summer months (April-June) are hot in most parts of India, and it is during this season that hill resorts such as Simla, Mussoorie, Naini Tal, Kulu, Manali, Dharamsala, Dalhousie, Kangra Valley, Kashmir Valleys, Darjeeling, Shillong, Ootacamund, Kodaikanal, Pachmarhi and Mount Abu provide cool retreats. (See "Meteorology" for average temperatures and rainfalls.)

The south-west monsoon usually breaks about the beginning of June on the west coast and reaches elsewhere later. With the exception of the south-eastern areas, India receives the major share of its rainfall between June and September. The south-eastern areas receive most of the rainfall from the north-east monsoon between November and January.

Clothing: In northern India, where evening and night temperatures drop steeply in winter, woollen clothing is necessary from the middle of November to the middle of February. Winter in other parts of the country is mild and tropical clothing will be sufficient. For those visiting the hill resorts during this time heavy woollens are essential.

During the summer months, only light tropical and cotton clothing are comfortable. Visitors to the hill resorts, however, should carry light woollens.

Medical Facilities: In all the cities and towns there are State-managed and private hospitals and dispensaries. The services of highly qualified specialists and consultants are available in places like Delhi, Bombay, Calcutta, Madras and other large cities. Some of the chemists offer round-the-clock service. (See " Hospitals " in ' Services' for the list.)

Foreign Exchange: The official rates of exchange are as follows: £1 approx. to Rs. 18·95, U.S. $1 equal to Rs. 7·90. To change their money, foreign tourists are requested to deal with authorised money changers and obtain an official receipt to enable them to reconvert their unspent amount on their final departure from India. The actual buying and selling rates, however, differ slightly from these rates.

Indian Currency: No Indian currency can be brought in or taken out of the country except rupee travellers' cheques.

Electric Current: Voltage in most places is 220-240 A.C., 50 cycles, though a few areas have D.C. supply as well. The tourists are advised to check the voltage before using an electric shaver or other electrical gadgets.

ACCOMMODATION : (See "Hotels" in the chapter 'Services' for the list.)

There are modern western-style hotels in all large cities as well as at popular tourist centres. These have been classified on the internationally accepted star system. Hotel charges in India are moderate compared to those of many other countries.

At tourist centres where hotel accommodation is not adequate, there are travellers lodges constructed and run by the India Tourism Development Corporation, a Government of India Undertaking, or tourist bungalows run by the State Governments which offer comfortable lodging and meals.

House boats fully furnished and staffed are moored to the banks of the river Jhelum and Dal and Nagin lakes in Kashmir and are known for their comfort and convenience.

Many centres of tourist interest in India are situated in out-of-the way places. At most of these tourist centres there are Government owned rest houses (semi-hotel establishments) where tourists can stay. These are all close to national highways and convenient for tourists travelling by road. There are more than 70 such low-income group rest houses and bungalows which provide cheap hostel facilities to low-income group people. It is advisable to make reservations in these rest houses sufficiently in advance.

Youth Hostel accommodation is generally available in the hostels of schools and colleges in most places of tourist interest during vacations only, in summer from May to July and in winter during December. However, there is a Youth Hostel in Delhi open throughout the year. Organised camping facilities exist in New Delhi at the Bharat Scouts and Guides ground, near Humayun's Tomb, New Delhi.

The Department of Tourism, Government of India have constructed Youth Hostels at: Amritsar, Aurangabad, Bhopal, Dalhousie, Darjeeling, Gandhinagar, Hyderabad, Indiranagar (Madras), Jaipur, Nainital, Panaji, Panchkula (Haryana), Patnitop, Puri, Trivandrum. Youth Hostels under construction will be situated at Hampi and Pondicherry.

Details for all these places can be had from any of the Government of India Tourist offices.

MODE OF TRAVEL TO INDIA: The overland route from Europe to India passes through France, Germany, Yugoslavia, Bulgaria, Turkey, Iran and Pakistan-Hussainiwalla. On the Indo-Pakistan border, 26 kms. from Amritsar, is the only check-post called Attari.

There is also a rail-cum-sea route to India. Rail connections are available from European countries to Turkey and then to Basra (Iraq). From Basra, there are regular sailings to Bombay.

Travel within India: The Indian Airlines network of services connects more than 70 cities including many centres of tourist attraction. (See air route and tourist map at the end of the book.)

Indian Airlines offers concessional fares for foreigners and Indian residents abroad. The rates are: (a) Discover India fare: $375 for 15 days for travel on all domestic sectors with unlimited stopovers. (b) Youth fare concession: A 25% discount on normal air fare on all domestic sectors is offered to persons below 30 years of age.

The railways in India go almost everywhere and offer concessional Indrail Pass which is inclusive of reservation charges. These passes are issued only on payment of U.S. Dollars and Pound Sterling or travellers' cheques from Railway booking offices at Bombay, Delhi, Madras and Calcutta.

With the introduction of the above concession, all other concessions like student and circular ticket concession remain cancelled.

Motoring in India: Tourists who wish to travel by automobile can obtain full information regarding road conditions, driving regulations, driving licences, 'Triptyque' or 'Carnet', from the recognized Automobile Associations listed below. Private taxis or luxury tourist taxis can be hired though self-driven cars are not generally available in India.

(1) The Automobile Association of Upper India (behind Hindustan Times Bldg.), Lilaram Bldg., 14-F, Connaught Place, New Delhi 110001 (Tel. 42063); (2) Western India Automobile Association, Lalji Naranji Memorial Bldg., Churchgate, Bombay 400020 (Tel. 291085); (3) Automobile Association of Eastern India, 13, P. Traffic circulation is on the left and the price of petrol is Rs. 5·15 per litre (4·5 litres are equivalent to one gallon, approximately) in Bombay, even though the prices vary from place to place, and lubricating oil is approximately Rs. 11 per litre.

Passport/Visa: The Government of India issues three kinds of visas, viz. Tourist, Entry and Transit according to the purpose of visit.

Visas are issued by Indian Representatives abroad. In countries where there are no Indian Representatives or Consular Officers, the nearest British Representatives will advise on the obtaining of Indian visas.

South Africans of Indian origin do not require visas but should be in possession of valid passports or certificate of identity endorsed for India.

Citizens of Commonwealth countries (other than citizens of Sri Lanka and Bangladesh) and of the Republic of Ireland and nationals of Nepal (except when coming from Tibet) require a valid passport without visa. However, holders of U.K. and colonies passports ordinarily resident in Kenya and Uganda and holders of British Subject or British Protected Persons passports require visas. Nationals of Commonwealth countries and of the Republic of Ireland proceeding to India for or in connection with missionary work require special endorsements.

Nationals of Sweden, Finland, Norway, Denmark, West Germany, Yugoslavia, Bulgaria and Iceland holding valid national passports can enter India for a stay of a maximum period of 90 days once within six months without a visa.

Nepalese and Bhutanese when proceeding from their respective countries need no passport or visa.

Individuals without nationality or of undermined nationality (stateless persons, IRO refugees, persons receiving legal and political protection, holders of Nansen passports etc.) should have valid passports, identity documents or sworn affidavits with visas for which they should apply at least two months in advance.

Family passports issued by other Governments are recognised without discrimination.

Citizens of all other countries require a valid passport entry, transit or tourist visa. Collective passports are accepted as valid documents only in respect of family groups where the names of minor children are included in the passports of the parents.

Landing Permits: Tourists who arrive without a visa may be allowed by the Immigration Authorities at the port of arrival to land and stay in India for a period of upto 30 days. These permits are available to foreign tourists once in a continuous period of 6 months. However, a foreign tourist who comes on a continuous journey covering neighbouring countries like Sri Lanka, Nepal, Bangladesh, Afghanistan, Maldives and Burma is allowed to re-enter India on Landing Permit provided he holds a round tour ticket covering India and the neighbouring countries and the total of broken periods of stay does not exceed 30 days. Tourists on 30-day Landing Permits are allowed to visit Lumbini (Nepal) via Nautanwa or Naugarh and return to India by the same route within a period of 48 hours without being required to obtain a fresh visa. Such permission, which will be available for air and sea passengers, may also be made valid for departure from India from a port other than the port of entry. Collective landing permits may also be issued to tourists travelling in organised groups. Temporary landing permits are not issued to tourists entering India by road and to nationals of certain countries.

Foreigners who come on visits not exceeding 3 months for recreational or sightseeing purposes or for attending meetings convened by the Government of India or international bodies should, in their own interest, apply for tourist visas. These may be extended for a further period of 3 months. Foreign tourists and Indians resident abroad visiting India are entitled to the grant of Tourist Introduction Cards which helps them in getting accommodation in Rest House, Dak Bungalows, Railways, Indian Airlines, etc. Only foreign tourists are entitled to All India Liquor Permits which entitle them to buy, consume and possess liquor in States where prohibition exists. The Govt. of Gujarat has also relaxed its prohibition policy for foreign experts working with either Private Sector or Govt. organisations who can obtain liquor permits.

Restricted and Protected Areas: Visitors require special permits to visit areas declared as 'Restricted or Prohibited Areas' for security reasons.

Authority to issue the permits: Restricted Areas: Bonafide foreign tourists intending to visit Darjeeling can get necessary permits from the Immigration Authorities at any one of the four international airports of Bombay, Calcutta, Delhi and Madras. Bonafide tourists intending to visit Darjeeling and Jaldapara for more than 15 days can get the necessary permit from the Foreigners' Regional Registration Offices in Bombay, Calcutta, Delhi and Madras.

Foreign tourists visiting Shillong and Kaziranga Wildlife Sanctuary for touristic purposes for a period of 15 days and 7 days respectively do not require any permit provided they travel upto Gauhati and back by air and travel to Shillong/Kaziranga by the route indicated below: For Shillong: Gauhati-Jorhat-Shillong Road. For Kaziranga: Gauhati-Jhalukbari-N H Diversion-Jorhat-N H 37: Kaziranga.

Other Restricted Areas: Permits are issued by the Ministry of Home Affairs, North Block, New Delhi.

A foreigner resident in India, who wishes to make short trips abroad of not more than 3 months, can obtain "Return Visas" from the Foreigners' Regional Registration Offices or the State Governments. If the visit abroad is of longer duration "No objection to Return" endorsements can be obtained. Such endorsements are valid for one year in the case of missionaries and 6 months in the case of others and within these periods Indian Missions can issue re-entry visas on the strength of such endorsements.

Registration of Foreigners: No registration is required for holders of Transit Visa.

Visitors holding visas for three months or less: No registration. If permission to extend stay beyond 90 days is given, Registration Certificate and Residential Permit should be obtained from the nearest Foreigners' Regional Registration Office.

Visitors holding visas for more than three months: Registration within seven days of arrival and, in any case, before departure if leaving within seven days of arrival in India.

Personal appearance is necessary at the time of initial registration. Tourist Visa holders are exempted from reporting change of address. All others have to report change of address to the registration authorities if they intend to be absent from their registered address for more than 15 days. If this has not been done, visitors have to report to the registration authorities of the town they are visiting unless they stay at a hotel in which case the registration at the hotel is sufficient. Citizens (other than missionaries) of Commonwealth countries and Ireland and nationals of Nepal and Bhutan are exempted from registration formalities.

Departures: Tourists, if they are registered, are exempted from reporting their movements. However, all visitors holding registration certificates have to obtain, before departure exit endorsements from the Registration

Officers of the district in which they were initially registered. The Foreigners' Regional Registration Officers can also grant these endorsements to visitors residing within their jurisdiction. Permits have to be surrendered at the Foreigners' Registration Office in the city and not at the airport. Registration certificates and residential permits are to be surrendered at the port of departure.

Regulations on entry into India: (a) Cholera and Smallpox: Inoculation and vaccination recommended. (b) Yellow Fever: A valid international certificate of vaccination is required for arrivals from infected areas. Any person (including infants) arriving by air or sea without a valid certificate is detained in isolation for the requisite period or to a maximum of six days counted from the time of last possible exposure to infection. This is enforced if the visitor arrives within six days of departure from an infected area or has been in such an area in transit or has come by an aircraft which has been to an infected area, but has not been disinfected in accordance with the procedure laid down in Schedule VI of the Indian Aircraft (Public Health) Rules, 1954 Act or those recommended by W.H.O. A certificate of vaccination against yellow fever is regarded valid only if the vaccine used has been approved by the W.H.O. and if the vaccinating centre has been designated by the health administration for the territory in which that centre is situated. A vaccination certificate is not regarded as valid until ten days after the date of vaccination. The certificate remains valid for a period of ten years. In the event of re-vaccination within ten years the certificate becomes valid immediately.

The following countries and territories are regarded as yellow fever-infected areas: Angola, Botswana, Burundi, Cameroon, Central African Republic, Chad, Congo (Brazzaville), Congo (Democratic Republic), Dahomey, Equatorial Guinea, Ethiopia, Gabon, Gambia, Ghana, Guinea, Guinea-Bissau, Ivory Coast, Kenya, Liberia, Malawi, Mali, Mauritania, Niger, Nigeria, Portuguese Guinea, Rwanda, Sao Tome and Principe, Senegal, Sierra Leone, Somalia, Sudan (South of 15° N), Togo., Uganda, United Republic of Tanzania, Upper Volta, Zaire and Zambia, Bolivia, Brazil, British Honduras, Canal Zone, Colombia, Costa Rica, Equator, French Guiana, Guatemala, Guyana, Honduras, Nicaragua, Panama, Peru, Surinam, Trinidad and Tobago, Venezuela.

Note: When a case of yellow fever is reported from any area of a country, the whole of that country is regarded by the Government of India as infected by yellow fever and is added to the above list.

Visitors leaving for countries which impose health restriction on arrivals from India are required to be in possession of a valid certificate of inoculation and vaccination. There is no health check-up of passengers leaving by air. There is, however, normal health check-up of passengers leaving by sea.

Baggage: All baggage is subject to customs examination. Articles of high value e.g. radios, cameras, binoculars, jewellery, type-writers, transistors, etc. are exempted from duty provided they are entered in the re-export declaration from and re-exported within 6 months.

PLACES OF TOURIST INTEREST — CENTRAL REGION

Sanchi: It is 45 kms. (28 miles) from Bhopal, the Capital of Madhya Pradesh. Sanchi was not directly associated with the life of Buddha, but grew to be an active centre of Buddhism during the time of Ashoka (3rd Century B.C.). The magnificent and relatively well preserved monuments for which Sanchi is famous are all situated atop a hill overlooking woods where "Flame of the Forest" trees bloom fiery red in the summer. The most imposing of the monuments is the Great Stupa (about 150-100 B.C.) — huge semi-circular structure, surrounded by profusely carved gateways and railings depicting scenes from the Buddha's life. In the history of Indian art, the Sanchi stupa occupies a very important place, for it has influenced Hindu and Buddhist sculpture for many centuries that followed.

Khajuraho: Nearly 402 kms. (250 miles) south east of Delhi (flying time 2 hrs. 15 mts.) are the erotic temples of Khajuraho in Madhya Pradesh, belonging to about 950 to 1150 A.D. They are ranked among the world's topmost tourist attractions, and represent some of the most exquisite specimens of Hindu architecture and sculpture in medieval India. The carving in the temples still seem to breathe a life and passion of their own and their beautiful proportions, the vibrant texture of the carvings which enrich their walls and their impressive size testify to the glories of the master builders of those days.

GAME SANCTUARIES/NATIONAL PARKS

Kanha National Park: In the central highlands of India is one of the finest places for seeing Indian swamp deer, chital, blackbuck, Indian bison, sambar and various carnivores. There are also nearly a hundred species of birds in this park. It can be reached by a motorable road from Nagpur (273 kms. or about 170 miles).

Accommodation: Forest rest houses.

Shivpuri National Park: The game preserve of the former rulers of Gwalior State, this 158 sq. km. (61 sq. miles) park is the natural abode of the sambar, chital, nilgai, chinkara and the Indian tiger. It is about 181 kms. (about 112 miles) south of Gwalior.

Accommodation: Shivpuri Hotel, Circuit House and Dak Bungalow.

EASTERN REGION

Calcutta: Calcutta was born with the beginnings of the British rule in India and thus has no ancient monuments to talk about. Victoria Memorial which houses the relics of British rule in India, the Indian Museum treasuring the relics of ancient civilization and the Ashutosh Museum displaying Bengali folk art are some of the places worth visiting. The impressive Howrah Bridge leads to the Botanical Gardens and to Belur Math, the seat of the Ramakrishna Mission.

Bodh Gaya: It is the most sacred of Buddhist centres because it was here that the Buddha attained enlightenment under the 'Peepal' tree. A number of monuments were raised at this site in the subsequent centuries. The Mahabodhi Temple, a magnificent structure with a pyramidal tower of nine storeys, 48·75 m. (160 feet) high, contains a colossal gilded image of the Buddha in the earth-touching posture symbolising the event of enlightenment. The temple was probably built in the 4th century A.D. and restored several times subsequently. Bodh Gaya is 11·26 kms. (7 miles) by road from Gaya railway station which is connected with Patna by rail (92 kms. or 57 miles).

Darjeeling: Hill station in West Bengal lies on the lower slopes of the Himalayas about 600 kms. (370 miles) north of Calcutta. It is 2,167·12 m. (7,110 feet) above sea level. From here, one can view the Himalayas in all their majesty, range upon range of perpetual snow culminating in Kanchenjunga (8,578·90 m. or 28,146 ft. high). The quaint Buddhist shrines and monasteries, the happy carefree faces of the hill-folk and above all the picturesque scenery all around will abide in the visitor's memory.

The Kanchenjunga can always be seen, while the Everest, the highest peak in the world, is visible only on a clear day. Other favourite walks for the visitor are to Birch Hill and Lebong. The former is a reserve forest with an excellent park. Here the visitor will find oak, chestnut, cherry, maple, birch and alder.

Not far from the Birch Hill Park is the Himalayan Mountaineering Institute which provides training in mountaineering in the Himalayas. Tenzing Norkay, who climbed the Everest along with Sir Edmund Hillary, is associated with the Institute. The Observatory Hill, above the church, is known to the Buddhists as 'Rdo-rje-gling', 'the place of the Dorje', the mystic thunderbolt of the Lamaist religion. It is from this that Darjeeling takes its name. The bazaars of Darjeeling are very exciting. There you will find curios, carved wooden boxes, exotic pieces of jewellery, embroidered shawls and art objects. On Saturdays and Sundays, the picturesque hill-folk — Bhutias, Nepalese, Tibetans, Lepchas — throng the market-place with their wares and look most colourful.

Darjeeling can be reached from Calcutta by air upto Bagdogra and from there by road (88 kms. or 55 miles).

Bhubaneshwar: Orissa's new capital, a metropolis of temples, was built around a sacred lake which was once encircled by some 7,000 shrines. Now only 500 remain in decay, presenting a complete picture of Orissan art and history from the 3rd century B.C. to the 16th century A.D. The great Lingaraj Temple is supposed to be "the finest example of a purely Hindu temple in India". Pilgrims come here for blessings and then take a dip in the sacred lake "Bindu Sagar". This 20th century garden city has many other attractions like the nearby Jain and Buddhist rock cut caves of Khandagiri and Udayagiri. The beautifully preserved Asoka's rock edicts at Dhanli, carved around 260 B.C. narrate the horrors of the Kalinga war and Asoka's acceptance of the path of non-violence.

Puri: About 63 kms. (39 miles) by road from Bhubaneshwar, is the sacred city of Puri dominating Orissa's sea coast in all its secluded splendour. It is one of the 'Char Dham', the four most holy places of pilgrimage in India, the three others being Badrikedarnath in the north, Rameshwaram in the south, and Dwarka in the west. Every year, in the month of June, as many as two hundred thousand visitors and pilgrims flock to Puri to watch the Car Festival, when the images of the Jagannath ('Lord of the Universe') Temple are taken over a distance of one mile to the garden shrine of Gundicha Mandir. The gigantic car 11 m. (35 ft.) long and 14 m. (45 ft.) high with 16 wheels — each 2·13 m. (7 ft.) in diameter — is used for carrying the deities. It is a unique sight to see thousands of devotees vying with each other to pull the chariot.

Modern Puri has been built more or less along the beach which stretches east to west. The sea is shallow for about a mile from the beach, but the surf breaks with a rare violence on the shore. From early morning the beach is thronged with people who sport or bathe in the roaring but harmless waves.

Konarak: The Sun Temple of Konarak, on the seashore, about 66 km. (41 miles) from Bhubaneshwar is stupendous in proportions and truly amazing in its ornamentation. Standing in lonely splendour among the sand dunes, built in 1250 A.D. and dedicated to the Sun God, the temple is in the architectural image of the mythical chariot of the Sun rushing through the blue heavens. The twelve pairs of wheels of the chariot are the last word in sculptural artistry and the seven horses in front, straining to pull the massive weight, are superbly executed. Intensely lovely are the thousand and one figures — musicians, lovers, couples in embrace, floral designs, the enormous horses and elephants flanking the temple, scenes of the battle and the chase — all masterpieces.

Traveller's Lodge at a short distance from the temple is a very comfortable place to stay in, but tourist prefer to visit Konarak in a one-day trip from Bhubaneshwar.

Chilka Lake: About 96 kms. (60 miles) south of Bhubaneshwar is this great lake, famed for its rich bird life and a favourite resort for fishermen. Its scenery is of great natural beauty and many people travel there to watch the everchanging light at dawn, at noon, at sunset, in winter and in summer, in sunshine and in the rains.

Hyderabad-Secunderabad: The twin city linked together by the Hussain-Sagar (lake), is the capital of Andhra Pradesh. It is a centre of Muslim culture and learning and the fifth largest city in India. Standing on the banks of the river Musi, it was till 1948 the capital of Hyderabad State of Nizam, one of the richest men in the world. The Salar Jung Museum crammed with curios from all over the world, old manuscripts, costumes and ancient weapons is a living proof of the riches. Trapezoid in shape the city is surrounded by a stone wall. At the junction of wide avenues stand the Char Minar, a stately rectangular white building with four tall minarets often referred to as the " Arc de Triomphe " of the East. It is the famous landmark of Hyderabad and curiously made more famous by a brand of cigarettes of the same name said to be one of the strongest, cheapest and most satisfying kind on the market. To the south of Charminar lies the Chaumahalla Palace and to the west the Mecca Masjid, the principal mosque of Hyderabad. Built entirely of stone and richly decorated in coloured and polished plaster it boasts of an interior that can hold ten thousand worshippers at a time.

The Falaknuma Palace, the Osmania University and the beautifully laid out river gardens are some of the recent additions to the city that blend well with the old.

The tombs situated 8 kms. (5 miles) out of the city, are of Qutbshahi kings who ruled in the 16th and 17th centuries. Next to it is the massive Golconda Fort. It is surrounded by a strongly built wall of solid blocks of granite, with eighty-seven bastions at the angles, on which there are still some of the old guns. Now in ruins it was once famous as the diamond mart for the nearby mines.

NORTHERN REGION

Delhi: Like Rome, the capital of the Indian Republic, is an ' eternal city ', and with a history even more chequered and ancient. In the ancient days, the city shifted its site at least seven times and the ruins of all these townships are still there for anyone to see.

There are today two Delhis — the old city of the Mughals built by Shah Jahan, the Emperor who built the Taj, and the new city built by the British in 1931. While Old Delhi evokes a distinctly oriental atmosphere, New Delhi has wide avenues and imposing office buildings. Both the cities are rich in monuments and mosques; such as the Red Fort, the Jantar Mantar Observatory, Humayun Tomb, the Parliament House, the Rashtrapati Bhavan and many more.

Agra: The city of the world famous Taj Mahal has many other historical sites of interest like the fort of the Mughals, the ruins of Fatehpur Sikri — a city built by Akbar — a Mughal Emperor. It also has numerous and fabulous tombs of eminent personalities. Special tourist bus and trains run from New Delhi for a day's journey.

Chandigarh: Now a Union Territory and also the capital of the Punjab and Haryana, the youngest of the Indian capital cities, it is a striking example of modern town planning conceived by Le Corbusier and Maxwell Fry. Advanced styling is adapted to the local climatic needs making it an unique city in the whole of India.

Amritsar: City in the Punjab, is the religious capital of the Sikhs. It was founded in 1577 around a sacred pool, from which the city takes its name " Pool of Nectar ". The Golden Temple stands in the centre of this pool. The marble based temple has bronze sides and dome which are heavily covered with pure gold leaf. These reflect the tropical sun into the still waters of the pool, illuminating it and creating an atmosphere of awe and respect. There are a few more of the Sikh and Hindu temples worth seeing, but none surpass the peaceful aura of the Golden Temple.

Almora: In U.P. (133 kms. or 83 miles from Kathgodam Railway Station) is the main town in Kumaon Hills. Perched at an elevation of 1,706·88 m. (5,600 ft.) it is about two miles in length like a saddle, and is said to have been founded four hundred years ago by Raja Kalyan Chanda. Almora has moderate rainfall, temperate climate, the temperature seldom rising above 31°C (88°F), even during the summer days, and comparative freedom from fog. Within easy distance of Almora are many Himalayan peaks — Seehee Debi, Bandnee Debi and Binsar being the chief ones. Binsar Hill also known as Jhandi Dhar is only 21 kms. (13 miles) from Almora and the bridle path leading to it, passes through enchanting jungle scenery.

Accommodation: Available at the Government circuit house for which an advance booking has to be made.

Pindari Glacier: Can be reached from Almora at a distance of 120 kms. (75 miles) in eight stages, attaining an altitude of 3,963 m. to 4,267 m. (13,000 to 14,000 ft.). The most suitable time for this trip is either May-June or September-October.

Naini Tal: Hill station also in Kumaon Hills, is attractively situated around a mountain lake 1,935·48 m. (6,350 ft.) above sea level. A shady avenue skirts the lake. On either side of the lake rise lofty hills dotted with beautiful villas and bungalows. There are a number of picnic spots around from where one can have a magnificent view of the snow peaked Himalayan mountain range. Nainital District has a chain of lakes lying close to one another, the prettiest amongst them being lake Naini itself. They are a veritable paradise for the angler. Besides fishing, one could also do swimming, yachting, boating, riding, skating and trekking.

Kashmir: The Great Mughals, who were connoisseurs of the good things of life, described Kashmir as 'the earthly paradise.'

Indeed, it is difficult to imagine anything more lovely. It is a vast, rich, green valley criss-crossed by streams and rivulets and encircled by stupendous snow-clad mountains — 'an emerald set in pearls'. Nature has adorned it with lakes of limpid waters, bubbling springs by hill-sides, upland pastures and springy meadows. Clothing the valley is a vast expanse of paddy fields and forests alive with a variety of birds and animals. To enhance its natural beauty, pleasure gardens were laid out by the Great Mughals at many places in Kashmir.

Here you can stay in luxury in a floating hotel called the 'house-boat'; glide gently on the placid waters of the Dal Lake in a shikara; play golf on perhaps the world's highest golf-course; enjoy a variety of water sports; or, if you are adventurous, go trekking or hunting. Also, you can take back home some of the exquisitely embroidered, carved, chiselled or painted handicrafts for which Kashmir is known the world over.

Srinagar: Is a central place from where excursions and pleasure trips to all parts of the valley can be planned. It is itself a picturesque place with lakes, gardens and monuments along the river Jhelum.

Srinagar is an ancient city believed to have been first built by Emperor Asoka in the third century B.C. The Jhelum flows through the heart of the city, dividing it into two parts which are connected by nine bridges. A trip down the river in a swiftly gliding shikara would give the visitor a feel of the city's picturesque balconies, busy ghats, mosques and temples.

Gulmarg: Is about 46 kms. (29 miles) from Srinagar, a huge grassy bowl, known for its golf-course. The last 6·4 kms. (4 miles) of the journey are covered either by a pony or on foot and, with special permission, by jeep also. At the end of the climb, the visitor is rewarded with a magnificent view of Gulmarg which has numerous walks and picnic spots.

Pahalgam: In the lovely Lidder Valley, about 97 kms. (60 miles) from Srinagar is known for its exquisite scenery, springs and streams. It is also the base for treks to higher points like Amarnath and Sheshnag.

Kulu and Kangra Valleys: Well-known for its picturesque landscapes and historic temples, lies in Himachal Pradesh. 33·7 kms. (21 miles) from Kangra is the famous temple of Jwala-Mukhi, built up against a rocky cliff. An inflammable gas issues forth from a cleft in the cliff, creating an atmosphere of reverence. Kangra has several tea gardens while Kulu is well-known for the fruit orchards. The winding narrow roads flanked and shaded by pink blossomed apricot trees, huge rhododendrons and blue and purple iris in different seasons lead to the hilltops that look down on a gorgeous alpine scenery. These valleys are favourite vacation places as the summer is never uncomfortably hot and offer sports like golf, tennis, swimming, hiking and trout fishing.

Here the simple and unsophisticated people are a contented lot with few needs and fewer worries. These happy-go-lucky people hold fairs and festivals throughout the year and it would be wise to check and be there on a festival.

Allahabad: (Also called Prayag): City in U.P. situated at the confluence of the Ganga, the Jamuna and the unseen Saraswati. The confluence is the holiest bathing place for Hindus. Every 12 years, Kumbha Mela (religious fair) is held attracting over four million pilgrims during the four weeks. The last one was held in February 1965. A smaller fair occurs every six years — Adha Kumbhi. The old Mughal fort contains an underground temple where well carved images are seen and the pilgrims worship at a small tree taking it to be the Eternal Banyan Tree (Akshaya Vata). 104·6 kms. (65 miles) from Allahabad is Kosambi, where the ruins of an ancient capital are being excavated.

Banaras: Now known as Varanasi, is more than a holy city of the Hindus; it represents a way of life. For more than a thousand years this centre of Hindu pilgrimage has lived a rich life haloed by tradition on the banks of the great river Ganga which reaches Varanasi in a graceful curve. For more than a thousand years great masses of people have come here from every corner of the country to receive spiritual sustenance.

The oldest city in the country and perhaps the oldest living city in the world, Varanasi has about 1,500 temples besides countless minor shrines which are thronged with pilgrims all the year round.

Jaipur: Capital of Rajasthan State, it was planned and built by an astronomer-prince in the 18th century, when there were few planned cities even in Europe. "I have seen Jaipur, and now I can die" was how Max Lerner, a famed traveller, felt after having an eyeful of this beautiful pink city. Comparing it with Venice and Paris, he named Jaipur along with them as the three most beautiful cities of the world. But he found something more in Jaipur — a dream quality about the fabric of its delicate gossamer structure, its lattice work and pink terracotta. This picturesque city — a fantasy in stone — set in the heart of Rajasthan is encircled by rugged hills crowned with medieval fortresses reminiscent of the days when the valiant Rajputs fought fierce battles and long drawn out wars to save their beloved land from invading alien hordes. The city palace in the centre of Jaipur is now a museum of Rajput and Mughal miniature paintings, an armoury and rare manuscripts. The Hawai Mahal Palace of the winds — has so many windows with perforated screens that the breeze sweeps through them. Maharaja Jai Singh who built the city in 1727 was also a great astronomer. He built an observatory with instruments of his own design. About 11·2 kms. (7 miles) away is Amber palace perched on the slopes of a steep hill and surrounded by a lake. A majestic elephant takes the visitor up the slopes and into this mysterious palace that possesses the world's best chamber of mirrors. Jaipur pottery, brassware, sculpture, ivory and sandalwood work and jewellery have enjoyed a great reputation from ancient times.

Udaipur: In Rajasthan, is the romantic city of lakes with island palaces. The sprawling marble palaces with coloured glass of amber and pale jade reflect in the steel blue waters of the lake Pichola. Hundreds of green parrots lend colour to the early morning skies. Surrounded by wooded hills the city is aptly called the ' City of Dreams '. The Jag Nivas palace with fountains and gardens and apartments with courts, has now been turned into the Lake Palace Hotel and offer the visitor a unique and unforgettable stay.

About 112·6 kms. (70 miles) from Udaipur is Chittorgarh. The ruins of this abandoned capital of Mewar speak eloquently of the many grim and glorious deeds of Rajput heroism and sacrifice which have almost become a myth.

Mount Abu: In Rajasthan (3,822 ft. above sea level) is famous for its Dilwara group of Jain temples (11th-13th century A.D.). Having the most intricate and finest marble carvings in India, these beautiful temples nestle among the lush green mango trees. Hills surround them on all sides and the scenic beauty is very enchanting. Abu is known for its variety of birds and the flowering trees in its jungles. It is reached by rail and road from Ahmedabad.

SOUTHERN REGION

Madras: Capital of Tamil Nadu is the gateway to a pleasant land, the city of an ancient civilization exemplified in its many monuments of the past with a rich heritage of culture. Although being carried along on the stream of progressive development yet remaining largely unspoilt, Madras is one of the more attractive cities of India. Perhaps the first claim to fame for Madras is its wonderful foreshore of fine sandy beach stretching from the harbour to the limits of the city at the Adyar river and then beyond for many miles to the south. It is a source of pride to the people, for it is considered to be the second longest beach in the world. There are delightful gardens along its whole length with many varieties of flowers.

Speaking of culture the visitor instantly feels the difference between the rest of India and the south in this city which can be the starting point for an introduction to the Dravidian culture. The many invasions of the aliens never quite reached upto the south and the pureness of this culture remains intact. The temples, the music and the dance all vibrate in its original form and one should never leave Madras without seeing a Bharat Natya dance performance. Much of the poses and stances of this dance are depicted in the sculptures of the South Indian temples.

Mahabalipuram: 59·5 kms. (37 miles) out of Madras are some of the ruins of the great Pallava Empire. The shore temple, a little gem of a shrine, stands poised on the very shore, the waves beating against it. The cave temples are store-houses of art. The so-called pagodas are carved out of rocks in the form of temple chariots and are the chief glory of Mahabalipuram.

Conjeevaram (Kanchipuram): The city of temples, the Banaras of the South, is about 72 kms. (45 miles) to the south-west of Madras. The place is divided into three parts, Shiva Conjeevaram, Vishnu Conjeevaram and Pillayar Paliyam, a testimony to the part played by all the main Hindu religious sects in the history of the city.

There are over a thousand temples in all, amongst them is the temple of Kailasnath, believed to be 1,200 years old and contains some excellent 7th and 8th century paintings on the walls. More of these wall paintings are seen in the Vaikunthanath Perumal Temple which is also over 1,000 years old.

It is a one-day excursion trip from Madras, but one can stay at the Traveller's Lodge.

Pondicherry: 167 kms. (104 miles) by road from Madras. The atmosphere of a sleepy French provincial town still prevails here. It was returned to India in 1954 after the French rule of 250 years. The main attraction of this place is the ashram of the philosopher Aurobindo Ghose.

Auroville 'the City of Dawn' is being built on the outskirts of Pondicherry. It will be the first 'World City' where any national can have a home.

Kanya Kumari or Cape Comorin: In Tamil Nadu, named from the temple of Kumari (an attribute of Parvati) is at the southern-most tip of the Indian peninsula. Here the Arabian sea and the Bay of Bengal meet the Indian Ocean. According to a legend Siva married the Goddess Parvati, daughter of King Himalaya on the rocks where the temple now stands. Offshore are the two rocks where Swami Vivekananda sat in meditation before he left for the United States. Now on them stands a huge and imposing memorial to the Swami.

Ootacamund: Ooty for short, is a hill station in Tamil Nadu. Over 2,286 m. (7,500 ft.) above sea-level, Ooty has a temperate climate. The rainfall rarely exceeds 1,016 mm. (40 in.) so that Ooty has excellent weather throughout the year, and during the season from April to June, it ranks amongst the gayest resorts in India. It reposes in an amphi-theatre surrounded by four great hills. On the slopes of the hills are residential and office buildings. At the bottom of the valley enclosed by them is Ooty's artificial lake which could pass for a natural one. Conceived by Sullivan in 1823 and meant for irrigation, it turned out to be so lovely that it was preserved for its sheer beauty. The lake provides facilities for boating and fishing. West of this are the Wenlock Downs — an expanse of undulating springy turf embellished with woods and streams. Here are also the golf-links. These downs are the home country of the Ootacamund Hunt.

The terraced Botanical Gardens, a landmark in Ootacamund, were laid out by an expert from London's Kew Gardens, over a century ago. It has many rare trees and flowering plants. Ooty's flower, fruit and vegetable shows are attended by people from all over the Nilgiris, and here the fashionable jostling with the tribal folk present a colourful spectacle.

Kodaikanal: Famous hill station on the Palni Hills in Tamil Nadu, it is about 2,343 m. (7, 688 ft.) above sea-level and has a temperate climate. The place affords plenty of scope for such recreations as walking, hiking, boating, fishing, hill climbing and golf. For the more adventurous there is big game hunting. Kodaikanal is the delight of the gardener and flowers are in bloom all the year round. The long winding road up the hill reminds one of the road up to Sorento in Italy. The greenery on the way is breathtaking. The different waterfalls make Kodaikanal a truly beautiful vacation spot. A man-made lake with a three-mile shady promenade around it is the popular place in the evenings. Kodaikanal has a hint of a place somewhere on the continent with chalet-type houses perched at random on the slopes of the Palni Hills.

Cochin: In Kerala it is one of the important ports on the west coast of India and, yet it is very different than a typical commercial port. Shady lagoons, wooded islands, ancient palaces and churches are encircled by canals of palm fringed shimmering backwaters. In fact Cochin is a cluster of islands and towns linked by bridges.

In Mattancheri is the community of Jews that came to Kerala as early as the 1st Century A.D.

A side trip down the west coast to Alleppey and then on to Quilon on the backwaters, offers breathtaking scenery. Lush vegetation and palm thatched villages are dotted with churches in Portuguese colonial style.

Trivandrum: The sea-side capital of Kerala is built like Rome, on hills. Many parks and lovely buildings with their gabled roofs, stand on low hillocks, while the restful valleys below are adorned with coconut groves. Trivandrum means "the place of the sacred snake Anant". The imposing temple of Sri Padmanabhaswami is dedicated to the Hindu God Vishnu, his image reclining on Sheshnag, the enormous hooded serpent.

A long drive from Alleppey to Trivandrum via Quilon has a very picturesque scenery along the west coast of India.

Mysore: It has a quiet charm so characteristic of a university town. For long the seat of an ancient ruling family, it has a good deal of colour and glamour. Besides palaces and gardens this place is famous for its ivory and sandalwood carvings and cast metal statuettes.

EXCURSIONS OUT OF MYSORE

Srirangapatna: The city of Lord Ranganath — takes its name from the imposing temple of Vishnu. This quiet island-town on river Kaveri 16 kms. (10 miles) from Mysore, is reminiscent of many battles and past glories. On special occasions devout Hindus pass through this place to bathe in the river and to worship in this shrine.

Tipu Sultan, son of Hyder Ali, inherited a large dominion from his father. Srirangapatna was its capital and it became the centre of diplomatic manoeuvres against the rising power of the British. Tipu's summer palace in the midst of an exquisite garden on the river bank has large panels with paintings depicting battle scenes and processions that recall episodes from his and his father's life. The walls, pillars, arches and roofs are covered with an amazing variety of painted designs made gorgeous by a liberal use of gold.

Sravana Belgola: Wedged in between two hills, which rise abruptly from a flat plain, Sravana Belgola dominates the countryside for four miles with its 17·37 m. (57 ft.) high Jain colossus of Lord Gomateswara, shaped out of a single rock. This monolithic statue was carved in 983 A.D.

The town, a flourishing centre of Jain pilgrimage, abounds in monuments that recall the achievements of a bygone age. It is about 100 kms. (62 miles) from Mysore.

Belur: 56·3 kms. (35 miles) from Sravana Belgola is Belur, 800 years ago a flourishing capital of the Hoysala kings. Its chief place of interest is the 12th century temple of Chenna Keshava, a manifestation of Vishnu. Its outer walls are decorated with an amazing variety of carvings. No description can do justice to the infinite patience and skill with which the sculptors fashioned the intricate details of the scroll work, the niches, the elephants, the miniature turrets and human figures and gods. The interior of the temple also displays a profusion of artistic skill lavished on the pillars, ceilings, doorways, and bracket figures.

Halebid: 12·8 kms. (8 miles) from Belur, it was the metropolis of the ancient Hoysala rulers. The Lord Siva temple built about the same time as the Belur Temple has every inch of its outer wall covered with friezes of great variety. Remarkable for artistic skill are the sculptured elephants, horses, mythical beasts and birds, the scroll work of infinite beauty and variety, and the big panels of gods and goddesses of the Hindu pantheon running all round the walls.

Usually all these places are visited from Mysore in a day and a half's trip with a night stop at the comfortable Traveller's Lodge at Hassan.

Bijapur: Town in Karnataka State, capital of the old Adilshahi Sultans of Bijapur, is rich with the remains of palaces, mosques and tombs. Gol Gumaz the vast mausoleum of Mohammed Adil Shah (17th century) has a dome which is the second largest in the world with St. Peter's at Rome bigger by merely 15 feet. The Whispering Gallery inside the dome is so constructed that a soft whisper at one point of the gallery can be heard most distinctly at the opposite point. Jama Masjid of Bijapur is the greatest mosque in the south and also one of the finest in India.

WESTERN REGION

Bombay: Arriving by sea or by air, one is struck by its natural setting — the far-away blue outlines of the majestic Western Ghats, the calm sea dotted with fishing boats, the palm-fringed beaches and on the outskirts smoke rising from a thousand chimneys in the mill area — a reminder that Bombay is one of the largest industrial cities of the East.

A cosmopolitan city, it owes its prosperity to the industry and enterprise of its population of eight million. Bombay is a city of contrasts where the rich and the poor, the educated and the illiterate, the modern and the ancient co-habit. It is the largest city in India which has grown out of seven islands. Over the years the islands merged into one another by reclamation of land from the sea.

Excursions Around Bombay: About 38·8 kms. (15 miles) to the north of the city is Juhu, the palm-fringed natural beach, ideal for bathing. Juhu has good hotels, while shacks and villas along the beach can also be rented.

Some 15 kms. (6 miles) across the Bombay harbour, on a small island are the famous cave temples of Elephanta. Five in all, these cave temples date back to the eighth century. The main cave, dedicated to Siva, has huge sculptures and panels in relief. The most striking of the images is the Maheshmurti, a 6 m. (19 ft.) high, three headed bust hewn from a single rock representing the triple aspect of the Hindu Divinity.

There are a number of rock-cut monuments around Bombay. The more well-known among them are the Kanheri group of Buddhist caves and the series of shrines and monasteries known as Karla, Bhaja and Bedsa.

Aurangabad: In Maharashtra is where Emperor Aurangzeb built a replica of the Taj, Bibi-ka-Maqbara, a mausoleum for his wife. It has its own splendour and grace quite different than the Taj.

Close to Aurangabad is Daulatabad. " City of Fortune ", built in the 14th century by a Sultan of Delhi, who was mad enough to try to move here the whole population of Delhi, which is some 1,813 kms. (700 miles) away.

Ajanta-Ellora: An hour and a half's flight from Bombay is Aurangabad, the starting point of a journey to two of the world's famous rock-cut temples — Ajanta and Ellora, the most remarkable monuments of their kind in the world. These monasteries and shrines have been hewn out of living rock by generations of sculptors. Ajanta, 170 kms. (66 miles) from Aurangabad, lies in a narrow gorge and contains a breathtaking picture gallery of frescoes. It is believed that these caves were cut in stages between the 2nd century B.C. to about 7th century A.D.

The Ellora caves situated 38·8 kms. (15 miles) from Aurangabad are excavated in the face of a hill and run north to south for a mile and a quarter. The crescent-shape hill has Buddhist, Hindu and Jain cave temples with a unique collection of sculptures. These caves are about a thousand years old.

Ahmedabad: Is the second largest textile centre in India. It contains numerous monuments of the fifteenth and sixteenth centuries, amongst them are the Shaking Minarets which are architectural wonders. Mahatma Gandhi's ashram is situated on the banks of the river Sabarmati. A 45-minute Son-et-Lumiere show brings the ashram alive giving its history and an insight into the life of Mahatma Gandhi.

Goa: Cradled among the picturesque hills of the western ghats, its panoramic beauty, its smiling green valleys and its luxuriant tropical vegetation, its quaint houses and the ruins of old and historic buildings which bring ancient splendour to life, all combine to make it an earthly paradise. Once a Portuguese possession in India, Goa has numerous beautiful beaches, where one can sun-bathe, swim or just laze away in the vast expanse of dazzling white sands fringed with swaying palm trees.

The remnants of the Portuguese civilization can be seen in the old Goa. Among the still surviving ancient Portuguese churches is the Basilica and the Convent of St. Francis Xavier, built in the 16th century, where the body of St. Francis Xavier, patron saint of Goa, is enshrined in an exquisitely carved glass and silver-casket.

GAME SANCTUARIES/NATIONAL PARKS

Gir Forest: Roaming the dry open shrub land of the Gir Forest is a population of about 200 lions and cubs. The Gir is the last remaining habitat of the Asian lion. The best time to see them is from December to May. Wild bear, panther, sambar, blue bull and deer of different varieties also live in this forest along with a number of varied birds. The nearest airport is Keshod, 86·9 kms. (54 miles) by road from Sassan Gir. Keshod is connected with Bombay by weekly air service during the season. Accommodation: Forest Bungalow (Sassan Gir).

ARECANUT INDUSTRY

ARECANUT is one of the most important commercial crops of India. It plays an important role in the religious, social and cultural life of our people irrespective of caste, creed or social status. Betelnut (processed arecanut) varieties are numerous in India and can be broadly classified into unboiled, boiled and coloured varieties.

LOCATION OF THE INDUSTRY

Kerala, Karnataka and Assam account for nearly 90 per cent of the total area and production. It is also cultivated to a smaller extent in Meghalaya, West Bengal, Tamil Nadu, Maharashtra, Andhra Pradesh and Goa. The state-wise break-up of the area under arecanut cultivation is given below:

Number of persons employed: About four million.

Ranking in the World Market: India ranks first in the world both in the area and production of arecanut. The main arecanut producing countries in the world are India, Bangladesh, Sri Lanka and Malaysia.

GENERAL

RESEARCH

A new high yielding variety 'Mangala' has been released from the Central Plantation Crops Research Institute's Regional Station at Vittal, South Kanara for cultivation. This variety, an introduction from China, gives 70 per cent more yield than that of the best local ones, besides being an early bearer.

Pilot trials conducted have shown that fat, alcohol, etc. can be extracted and products like chewing gum, tooth paste etc. can be prepared from arecanut kernel. The liquid obtained while boiling tender nuts ('Kali') can be utilised for tanning leather. Hard board, wrapping paper, cushioning materials etc. can be made out of arecanut husk. Arecanut leaf-sheath can be used for making gin washers, packing cases, soles and heels in shoe making etc. Arecanut husk is also an excellent poultry litter.

Considering the present trend in production, internal consumption and export no further expansion of area is contemplated for the crop. However, attention is given for increasing returns from the existing plantations through adoption of intensive cultivation practices and intercropping of suitable crops like cocoa, pepper etc.

The Directorate of Cocoa, Arecanut and Spices Development of the Department of Agriculture, Government of India, is situated at 1/500, Cannanore Road, Calicut-673 005, Kerala.

Marketing: Besides the Central Arecanut Marketing and Processing Co-operative Ltd., Mangalore an inter-state organisation set up for procurement and marketing of the crops, there are 24 co-operative marketing societies and 37 regulated markets in Kerala, Karnataka, Tamil Nadu, Maharashtra and Goa for better marketing of the commodity.

Publications: 1. Indian Cocoa, Arecanut and Spices Journal (Quarterly) brought out by the Directorate of Cocoa, Arecanut and Spices Development, Calicut-673 005, Kerala. 2. Journal of Plantation Crops (Half Yearly) brought out by Indian Society for Plantation Crops, Central Plantation Crops Research Institute. Kasaragod 670 124.

AUTOMOBILE INDUSTRY

AFTER independence in 1947 the Government of India decided to stop assemblies of foreign cars and to encourage local manufacturers.

The automobile industry depends upon its ancillaries for the manufacture and supply of over 50 per cent of the 5,000 components that go into making an automobile.

LOCATION OF THE INDUSTRY : Of the 32 manufacturers of automobiles, including tractors and two-cum-three wheelers, 12 are in Maharashtra, 5 in New Delhi, 5 in Tamil Nadu, 2 in Karnataka, 2 in Andhra Pradesh, with Gujarat, Haryana, Uttar Pradesh, Rajasthan, Punjab and West Bengal having one each. The location of the 168 automobile ancillary manufacturing units is: 63 in Maharashtra, 37 in Tamil Nadu, 25 in Delhi, 10 in West Bengal, 9 in Haryana, 7 in Gujarat, 7 in Karnataka, 5 in Punjab, 3 in Andhra Pradesh, 1 in Madhya Pradesh and 1 in Rajasthan.

Licensed Capacity at the end of 1980 was 136,950 commercial vehicles, 129,400 passenger cars, 15,000 jeeps and 1,579,378 other vehicles.

Defence Vehicles : The Defence establishments manufacture Shaktiman trucks through an agreement with M.A.N. of West Germany and Nissan 1-ton trucks and Nissan (Jonga) jeep type vehicles. The vehicle factory at Jabalpur was established in 1969 for the manufacture of 6,000 Shaktiman 3-tonne trucks and 7,200 Nissan trucks and petrol vehicles per annum. From the information available the current rate of production of Nissan trucks and Nissan petrol vehicles is 200 nos. and 100 nos. per month, respectively.

The production for 1980-81 is expected at Rs. 5,000 million. The total installed capacity is at Rs. 6,000 million. In the export field, automobile ancillary industry has achieved great progress. The total exports for 1978-79 and 1979-80 were placed at Rs. 490 million and Rs. 600 million respectively.

EXPORTS

The export performance of commercial vehicles continues to show improvements as can be seen from the following information :

Tractor Industry : Agricultural tractors have played an important role in increasing the agricultural production in the country. There are 14 licensed units out of which 13 are progressively raising their production and the remaining unit is likely to go into production within a year or so.

During 1980, the production of tractors was expected at 67,370 reflecting considerable increase over the 1979 level of 60,239. The demand for tractors is estimated at 85,000 by 1983-84, and no capacity gap is envisaged in this industry in the near future.

The industry is facing severe pressures because of critical supply position in respect of major inputs like power, pig iron, coal, furnace oil etc. Government has allowed the imports of certain critical items at reduced rate of customs duty to ensure the attainment of targeted production level.

Besides meeting domestic demand, the tractor industry is exporting annually around 1,000–1,500 tractors to African and South East Asian countries, Nepal and Afghanistan.

CASHEW-NUT INDUSTRY

BRIEF HISTORY

THE Cashew tree (Anacardium Occidentale), a native of South America was introduced into India by the Portuguese who planted the first saplings on the west coast during the sixteenth or seventeenth century to check soil erosion. Finding a congenial home it grew extensively and is known as 'Feringi Mango' (Feringi meaning Portuguese).

Despite its early introduction the commercial value of the cashew-nut was discovered only in the nineteen twenties when some enterprising processors sent the nut abroad. There was an immediate demand for the cashew kernel in raw or roasted form, which marked the beginning of the cashew industry.

The cashew "apple" when ripe, is juicy and sweet and rich in vitamin C. The juice is used in the preparation of syrup, squash, jam, candy and wine.

The cashew-nut shell liquid is a brown viscous oil and is an important raw material in the manufacture of insulating varnishes, paints, typewriter rolls, oil and acid proof cold setting cements, industrial flooring tiles, automobile brakelinings and also in the plastic industry.

Area Under Cashew: The Kerala State Co-op. Marketing Federation announced in February, 1977, it would extend cashew cultivation to another 28,000 hectares by providing long-term loans through land mortgage banks. At present about 100,000 hectares are under cashew cultivation with an annual yield of about 150,000 tonnes. The federation also announced a proposal to organise cashew apple processing units in Kerala. The State was losing about Rs. 200 million a year by wasting the cashew apple.

LOCATION OF THE INDUSTRY

Out of about 300 processing factories in the country about 200 are in Kerala State and the others in Tamil Nadu, Karnataka, Andhra Pradesh and Maharashtra.

Public Sector: The Kerala State Cashew Development Corpn. Ltd., Quilon, opened its first factory in July, 1970 by taking over a factory owned privately. By the end of 1974, the number of factories taken over increased to 34.

Ranking in the World Market: India accounts for about 60-65 per cent of the world export of cashew kernels.

PRODUCTION AND CONSUMPTION

The yearly local production of raw cashew-nuts, according to the Directorate of Cashew-nut Development, is 140,000 tonnes. The trade estimate of availability of raw nuts for processing is, however, placed at around 100,000 tonnes.

IMPORTS

The domestic supply of raw nuts is inadequate to meet the total requirements of the processing factories. The shortfall is made-up by importing raw nuts. This is being done by the Cashew Corporation of India Ltd., which was set up as a subsidiary of State Trading Corporation.

Import of raw cashew nuts from Tanzania and Madagascar during 1979-80 amounted to 24,326 tonnes valued at Rs. 116·25 million.

EXPORTS

The Cashew Export Promotion Council (Chittoor Rd., Ernakulam South, Cochin 682016, Kerala) was set up in 1955.

India had the monopoly in the exports of processed cashew kernels until Tanzania, Mozambique and Kenya set up their own units.

Export Duty: There is one per cent ad valorem cess on exports of cashew kernels. The tariff value for cashew kernels fixed for the purpose for the year 1980-81 (July-June) was Rs. 2,500 per quintal.

Export of Cashew Kernels: Cashew kernel exports fetched Rs. 1,179 million in 1979-80, an increase of about 47 per cent over the earnings in 1978-79. Quantitatively, the export was higher by about 40 per cent.

GENERAL:

According to the study made by GATT, a good average crop from a mature plantation tree is around 10 kgs. in East Africa and 50 kgs. in India.

In Africa, the average yield of kernels is about 21 to 24 per cent of raw nut weight, while in India it is slightly higher. Indian processors claim to be able to get upto 80-90 per cent whole kernels, while the mechanical processing plants in Africa record upto 55 per cent.

The labour intensive technology in the cashew industry in Kerala in which the operations are done manually, accounts for the investment per worker being as low as about Rs. 300. Over 90 per cent of the workers are women.

CEMENT INDUSTRY

BRIEF HISTORY

CEMENT, though it may not have been known by that name, is an ancient building material. Evidence of its use is believed to have been found in the Indus civilisation of Mohanjodaro. The Greeks are also known to have made extensive use of it, but it is to the Romans that the credit must go for having evolved concrete from cement.

Although cement was first manufactured in India near Madras in 1904, it was not until 1914 that the foundations of a stable Indian cement industry were really laid. In October 1914, the first bag of cement was packed at Porbandar by the Indian Cement Company Ltd. (Agents: Tata Sons & Co.). This company then had a capacity of only 1,000 tonnes. At the end of 1980, there were 59 units in the country and their aggregate capacity was 24·68 million tonnes.

LOCATION OF THE INDUSTRY

The State-wise break up of the units is as follows: Andhra Pradesh 7, Assam 1, Bihar 6, Gujarat 6, Haryana 2, Himachal Pradesh 1, Jammu & Kashmir 1, Karnataka 6, Kerala 1, Madhya Pradesh 7, Maharashtra 2, Meghalaya 1, Orissa 2, Rajasthan 5, Tamil Nadu 8, Uttar Pradesh 2 and West Bengal 1.

Public Sector: Out of 59 units, 12 are in the public sector. The break-up of these units is as follows:

Assam: Cement Corpn. of India Ltd., Bokajan; Himachal Pradesh: Cement Corpn. of India Ltd., Rajban; Jammu & Kashmir: J. & K. Minerals Ltd.; Karnataka: Visvesvaraya Iron & Steel Ltd., and The Cement Corpn. of India Ltd., Kurkunta; Madhya Pradesh: The Cement Corpn. of India Ltd., Mandhar; Meghalaya: Mawmluh-Cherra Cements Ltd.; Orissa: The Industrial Development Corpn. of Orissa Ltd., Hira Cement Works; Tamil Nadu: Tamil Nad Cements Corpn. Ltd., Alangulam and Ariyalur; Uttar Pradesh: The U. P. State Cement Corpn. Ltd., Churk and Dalla.

Expansion: Production capacity is expected to increase to 27·86 million tonnes by the end of 1980-81.

Number of Persons Employed: About 90,000 including workers in quarries.

Contribution to Gross National Product: In 1979 it was Rs. 5,658 million (Approx.).

Ranking in the World Market (1978): India is the 7th largest cement producer in the world. The first six countries are the USSR, Japan, USA, Italy, West Germany and France.

PRODUCTION AND CONSUMPTION

In 1979 production was 18·3 million tonnes as against 19·6 million tonnes in 1978. Capacity utilisation in 1979 was 81·7 per cent as against 90·2 per cent in 1978.

Cement factories are largely concentrated in the southern and western regions of the country because high grade limestone is more abundantly available there. This has led to regional imbalances.

The northern region contributed 16·8 per cent to the total production and consumed 29·0 per cent in 1978. While the eastern region produced 15·7 per cent and consumed 17·2 per cent. The corresponding figures for the western region were 30·3 per cent production and 26·3 per cent consumption. The southern region accounted for 37·2 per cent of production and 27·5 per cent of consumption.

Exports: During 1979 export of cement amounted to 0·05 million tonnes. In view of the shortages of cement in the country, Government has virtually banned export of this commodity from 1978 in order to augment supplies for the domestic market.

Imports: To meet the growing internal demand, the Government imported 1·39 million tonnes of cement in 1979 from South Korea, Poland, North Korea, Japan and Indonesia. Government has taken a decision to stop imports of cement, except where firm commitments have been made. Cement is being imported at a cost of Rs. 820 per tonne.

GENERAL

While the capacity utilisation in the calendar year 1978 was 90 per cent, it dropped to 81·7 per cent in 1979. The utilisation of capacity has been low mainly on account of inadequate infrastructural facilities, namely, poor quality and short supply of coal, inadequate supply of wagons, power cuts and trippings.

Mini Plants: Government has approved schemes for setting up of mini cement plants for a total capacity of nearly 2·35 million tonnes but the response from entrepreneurs to set up such mini plants has not been encouraging despite the package of incentives offered by Government. The Cement Manufacturers' Association offers services to mini cement plants and they are eligible to become members of the Association. The Cement Research Institute and the Regional Research Laboratory, Jorhat are offering vertical shaft technology. Indigenous technology for putting up mini cement plants based on Rotary Kiln is also available.

Establishment of mini cement plants has certain advantages such as exploitation of scattered and small size deposits of cement grade limestone, dispersal of manufacturing capacity over the country thereby helping to rectify regional imbalances, reducing burden on railway transportation, and creation of new employment potential especially in rural, hilly and other inaccessible areas.

Additional Capacity and Production: In view of the wide gap between the rising demand and the installed capacity for cement manufacture in the country, Government have issued upto 1-9-1980 industrial licences/letters of intent for installing additional capacity of the order of 30·00 million tonnes, partly by expansion of the existing units and partly by establishment of new ones. Some more applications for industrial licences/letters of intent are under consideration of Government.

Demand: The domestic demand for cement for 1980-81 is estimated at 27 to 28 million tonnes and the demand is likely to increase, even on a conservative estimate, at 8 per cent annually.

Training and Research: Almost all cement factories have well equipped laboratories. The major research for development of the industry is being done by the Cement Research Institute of India. The Institute has a well-equipped laboratory with training facilities for scientists, at NH2, Ballabgarh 121004 (Haryana). The CRI have undertaken intensive research in specialised fields connected with cement.

COCOA INDUSTRY

BRIEF HISTORY

ORIGINALLY believed to be growing in tropical America, the cocoa tree (Theobroma cacao) was planted by the French in their possessions in the 1870s. But it was not commercially exploited in India till the last decade.

Location of Plantations: Cocoa is grown in India over an area of about 18,000 hectares largely as a mixed crop in coconut and arecanut gardens. Cocoa is grown in small areas in Andhra Pradesh, Maharashtra, Orissa, Goa and Andaman and Nicobar Islands. The major cocoa growing state is Kerala followed by Karnataka and Tamil Nadu.

Though there are two popular varieties — Criollo and Forestero—only the latter has been recommended for cultivation in India because of its wider adaptability and better performance.

PRODUCTION

The estimated production of cocoa beans was about 800 tonnes in 1979-80 and about 1,500 tonnes in 1980-81.

Consumption: The maximum grinding capacity of the major industries in India is about 3,000 tonnes, but only slightly more than one third of this is utilised at present.

Exports: Cocoa is exported as cocoa powder, chocolates, cocoa butter etc. to the Middle East, Nepal, U.K., Indonesia and Singapore. During 1977-78 India exported cocoa products weighing 1,208 tonnes valued at Rs. 19·82 millions.

Imports: The demand for cocoa was being met in the past partly by import. The annual import of cocoa beans has been between 400 and 1,100 tonnes. India imported about 808 tonnes of cocoa beans and cocoa products valued at Rs. 30·74 million during 1977-78 and 705 tonnes valued at Rs. 27·33 million during 1978-79.

Marketing: Cocoa is purchased both by Government agencies and manufacturing industries. The existing practice is to procure the produce as wet beans or pods. The beans are then processed.

The Kerala and Karnataka Governments make the purchases through co-operatives viz. Kerala State Co-operative Marketing Federation, Cochin and the Central Arecanut Marketing and Processing Co-operative Ltd., Mangalore respectively. These organisations have a network of primary societies in the major producing centres.

GENERAL

Development: The Government of India has constituted the Indian Arecanut and Cocoa Development Council, made up of State and Central Government officials and representatives of growers, traders and farm workers. It periodically reviews the ongoing development programmes and advises the Government of India on future needs. The development programmes are implemented through the Directorate of Cocoa, Arecanut & Spices Development, functioning at 1/500, Cannanore Road, Calicut-673005, Kerala.

The important development measures undertaken include establishment and maintenance of progeny orchards of high yielding cocoa trees, training of farmers and extension workers in the scientific cultivation of the crop and primary processing of the produce and production and distribution of quality seedlings.

Research: The agronomic research work on cocoa is undertaken by the Central Plantation Crops Research Institute, Kasaragod, and by the Kerala Agricultural University. The Central Food Technological Research Institute, Mysore, carries out research work on the processing of cocoa beans and finished products.

Processing Firms: The following are the important processing firms: 1. M/s. Cadbury India Ltd., Cadbury House, Bhulabhai Desai Road, Bombay-400026; 2. M/s. Sathe Biscuits and Chocolate Co., Bhavanipeth, Pune 411002; 3. Kaira District Co-operative Milk Producers Union Ltd., Anand 388001; 4. Dr. Writers Chocolates and Canning Co., Bhavanishankar Road, Dadar, Bombay 400028.

COFFEE INDUSTRY

BRIEF HISTORY

ABOUT 400 years ago coffee became established as a beverage in Arabia from where it eventually came to Europe and to London in 1692.

The plant is believed to have been introduced in India by a Muslim saint who came from Mecca and made his home in Karnataka.

The coffee plant usually reaches heights ranging from 4·57 to 6·09 metres. The fruit is red and contains two interlinked seeds which when roasted and ground, produce the coffee powder.

LOCATION OF THE INDUSTRY

Coffee Arabica and coffee Canephora (Robusta) are the two types of coffee grown on a commercial scale in India. The total area under coffee in the country is 192,248 hectares — 103,349 hectares Arabica and 88,899 hectares Robusta.

Statewise hectarage: Karnataka 104,547; Kerala 51,708; Tamil Nadu 32,909; Andhra Pradesh 1,990; Assam 734; Others 360 (Maharashtra, Orissa, Mizoram, Andamans and Madhya Pradesh).

Of 90,772 coffee estates 51,310 are registered and 39,462 un-registered. Of these 88,753 are small holdings of ten hectares and below. Karnataka has in all 28,797 estates.

Number of persons employed: About 250,000.

Ranking in the World Market: Indian coffee contributes about 1·7 to 2 per cent of the World trade in coffee. In 1979, the total World exports were 3,711,420* tonnes of coffee of which India exported 62,215* tonnes valued at Rs. 1,687·87* million. India occupied 14th place in the World Coffee Trade in 1979.

COIR INDUSTRY

BRIEF HISTORY

THE word 'coir' has a historical background. The fact that it is derived from the Malayalam word 'kayar' meaning cord, shows that this material first became known as a product of the Malabar coast. As early as the 11th century A.D. Arab writers have mentioned coir and referred to the use of this material for ships, cables and rigging.

However, it was in England that coir was first put to practical use. About 125 years ago three partners of a London carpet firm registered their patents for the manufacture of coir fabrics suitable for floor coverings.

The development of the coir industry in India began in 1859.

LOCATION OF THE INDUSTRY

The coir industry is one of the foremost cottage industries in Kerala employing lakhs of people in all the different processes such as retting of coconut husk, extraction of fibre, spinning of yarn, and manufacture of coir products. Rich with backwaters the facilities for retting of husks are abundant there. While spinning activities extend over the length of the coastal belt of Kerala State, the manufacturing sector is localised mostly in Alleppey, Shertallai and suburbs.

Tamil Nadu and Karnataka are the other major producers of coir in India. In Tamil Nadu the industry is concentrated in Kanyakumari, Salem and Dharmapuri districts. Recently extraction of coir fibre by mechanical process has accelerated the growth of the industry in Tanjore district also. Kanyakumari district is the chief centre of production of muppiri coir yarn and Salem and Dharmapuri of coir rope.

In Karnataka a number of units are in operation for the mechanical extraction of fibre, besides two rubberised coir producing units. In West Bengal, production of coir rope is carried on power operated machines. A rubberised coir producing unit is also in existence in this State. In Orissa there is a rubberised coir producing unit and a few defibering units. A few coir producing units are also in existence in other coconut producing States, viz. Andhra Pradesh, Gujarat, Maharashtra, etc.

State-wise breakup of industrial establishments engaged in the production of coir products, viz. coir mats, mattings, rugs, and carpets etc., as per the records available with the Coir Board, is given below:

Kerala: 3,504; Tamil Nadu: 112; Karnataka: 49; West Bengal: 14; Andhra Pradesh: 11; Maharashtra: 6; Orissa: 5; Goa: 8; U.P.: 1; Gujarat: 4; Lakshadweep: 1; Haryana: 1; Pondicherry: 1. Total: 3,717.

No. of persons employed: About 450,000.

Ranking in the world market: The total volume of coir entering the world trade is about 150,000 tonnes. Raw fibre alone accounts for 98,100 tonnes while coir yarn and processed coir goods account for only 51,900 tonnes. India's share is as follows: Coir yarn 95 per cent, coir manufactures 55 per cent, coir cordages and ropes 95 per cent.

PRODUCTION AND CONSUMPTION

India and Sri Lanka are the only two countries where widespread commercial production is undertaken even though coconuts are grown in abundance elsewhere.

Country	Thousand tonnes
India	178·0
Sri Lanka	102·9
Tanzania	8·5
Bangladesh	5·8
Thailand	4·0
Philippines	2·5
Burma	2·2
Kenya	2·0

Of the estimated production of coir fibre at 178,000 tonnes during 1978-79 white fibre (retted fibre) accounted for 146,000 tonnes and brown fibre (unretted fibre) accounted for 32,000 tonnes.

The All-India estimated annual production of coir and coir products of different types is: coir fibre — 178,000 tonnes, coir yarn — 125,600 tonnes, coir products — 28,200 tonnes, ropes — 34,000 tonnes, curled coir — 2,500 tonnes, rubberised coir goods, 1,500 tonnes.

COTTON AND COTTON TEXTILE INDUSTRY

COTTON

BRIEF HISTORY: The writings of Marco Polo in the 13th century A.D. and of Tavernier in the 17th century stand testimony to the degree of excellence and perfection achieved by the textile industry in India.

Originally, all cotton cultivated in India grew on the perennial type of plant known as G. Arborium Var Neglectum, which was of Forma Bengalenses in north and western India and of Forma Indicum in central and south India. It is believed that the ' webs of the woven wind ' — the world-famous Dacca muslin was made from Forma Bangalenses.

Until about the middle of the 18th century Indian textiles reigned supreme in foreign markets. But during the Industrial Revolution in the West, Indian cloth began to lose its overseas market. Realising the significance of the revolution the East India Company changed its role of an exporter of cloth to an exporter of cotton and encouraged a wider cultivation of cotton in India. Thus began the cultivation of cotton as a commercial crop.

Area Under Cultivation: India has the largest area in the world under cotton cultivation, which is about one fourth of the total world area.

The area ('000 hectares) under cotton cultivation during last three years was 1976-77: 6,885; 1977-78: 7,866; 1978-79: 8,087.

PRODUCTION

The production of cotton during 1978-79 season amounted to 7·93 million bales. With a carry over of 1·80 million bales and imports amounting to 0·03 million bales, the total supply in the cotton season 1978-79 worked out to 9·76 million bales.

The production ('000 bales of 170 kgs. each) of cotton, during last three years, was 1976-77: 5,839; 1977-78: 7,246; 1978-79: 7,927.

GENERAL

Yield per Hectare: In spite of India having the largest area under cotton cultivation, the production accounts for about one tenth of the world cotton output. Indian production has been on an average one bale (170 kgs.) per hectare, against 4 bales produced in Egypt.

The Hybrid-4 is credited with a record yield of 8,700 kgs. of kapas per hectare in Bellary district of Karnataka. The Research: Established in 1924, the Cotton Technological Research Laboratory at Adenwala Road, Matunga, Bombay 400019, offers facilities for fibre testing and spinning quality evolution of cotton with the result that a large number of improved varieties have been evolved and extended for commercial cultivation.

The laboratory also offers training in cotton technology to sponsored candidates from the textile industry.

COTTON TEXTILES

Brief History: The cotton textile industry was the base on which Indian industrialisation was built more than a hundred years ago.

The industry was started largely as a spinning enterprise and gradually developed into a full-fledged composite one. The first power-mill in Bombay was set up by a Parsi pioneer, Mr. Kavasji Nanabhai Davar, in 1854.

No. of Persons Employed: It provides direct employment to about 1,150,000 (18 per cent of all factory labour totalling 6·30 million), indirect employment runs into several millions.

Capital Investment: Estimated at Rs. 13,000 million and the annual value of the output amounts to Rs. 36,000 million.

Cotton Textile Export Promotion Council: (Address: Engineering Centre, Mathew Rd., Bombay 400004). It is an autonomous body and a non-profit making organisation and was set up in 1954 for the promotion of exports of mill-made cotton yarn and piece goods, cotton manufactures and all hosiery and readymade garments.

GENERAL

Per Capita Availability: The estimated per capita availability of cotton cloth in 1979 was 10·19 metres as against 10·21 metres in 1978, 9·57 metres in 1977 and 11·26 metres in 1976. The slight fall reflects the growth in population and the fractional decline in production.

Readymade Garments: India's exports of readymade garments had picked up swiftly in recent years. The export value was hardly Rs. 140 million in 1971-72. It rose to Rs. 1,450 million in 1975-76, Rs. 2,571 million in 1976-77 and Rs. 3,384 million in 1979-80.

National Textile Corporation Ltd. (Details in the chapter on 'Govt. of India Undertakings'.) A public sector undertaking. DAIRY INDUSTRY

MILK and milk products contribute about Rs. 8,933 million to the national income. Of the 230 million cattle and buffaloes, only 81 million (35 per cent) are milch animals. Besides, the milk yield is 157 kgs. a year in the case of a cow and 504 kgs. a year in the case of buffalo. The highest average daily milk production per animal in milk, both for cows and buffaloes, is in Punjab which is only 2·28 kgs. and 3·99 kgs. per day respectively. The average annual milk production per cow is 4,154 kgs., in U.S.A., 3,959 kgs. in U.K. and 3,902 kgs. in Denmark.

India now ranks fourth in the world in the matter of milk production with about 29 million tonnes (1979-80). Nearly 60 per cent is marketed and the balance is used for home consumption or feeding calves.

Per Capita Consumption: The per capita consumption of milk and milk products varies from State to State.

The per capita availability of milk (1979-80) was estimated at around 120 gms. (4·2 oz.) per head.

Dairy Plants: The total number of dairy plants in operation during 1979-80 was estimated to be 190 comprising 94 plants handling liquid milk, 30 milk product factories and 66 pilot milk schemes/rural dairy centres with an average throughput of some 6·2 million litres per day. The capacity utilisation has been estimated at 66 per cent. Recently there has been a spurt in milk production particularly in Maharashtra and Gujarat due to the Operation Flood Programme. This project aims at covering a population of 2·0 million milch cattle and buffaloes spread over 18 milk sheds in selected States.

The Operation Flood 1, was launched on July 1, 1970, and completed by June 30, 1981. Already 1·3 million rural milk producers and their families benefit from it. Action centres in 18 rural milk sheds in ten States have been created, where the infrastructure for the procurement of rurally produced milk, its processing — its marketing in the four major urban milk markets — has been developed, with facilities for marketing the inputs needed for increased milk production to the milk producers. The two-tier cooperative organisations of the milk producers thus being created, in each of the rural action centres, will own and operate a feeder balancing dairy, a cattle feed compounding factory, the animal health care facilities, the artificial insemination and the extension services, and will be linked to a modern milk transportation system. Simultaneously milk processing and distribution by the modern dairies in the four major cities is being expanded.

Under Operation Flood II, in addition to the four major milk markets, modern milk marketing will now be organised in the other 144 cities in the country which had a population of over 100,000 in 1971. It is estimated that in these cities 52·9 million people, on an average, consume 7·8 million litres of milk per day and the equivalent to 2·0 million litres of milk daily in the form of milk products. The demand for milk in these cities is expected to increase to 11·2 million litres per day while that for milk products to 2·8 million litres (milk equivalent) per day by 1985, when the urban population involved will have increased to 65·1 million.

Most of the milk districts identified by the National Commission on Agriculture lie within 25 contiguous milk shed areas of potentially high and economic milk production. Under Operation Flood II, within each of these 25 milkshed areas (155 districts), a Cluster, Federation will be established of Milk Producers' Union; each Union usually will be comprised of 200-600 village cooperative societies. Thus, in all the 25 clusters to be formed (4 districts will have independent action centres) by 1985, some 115 million improved milch animals will be covered. Most of these clusters will be built around the 18 core action centres created under Operation Flood 1. The country's milk production of 68·7 million litres daily in the pre-project period is projected at 103·2 million litres daily in 1985 through the integrated milk production enhancement programmes envisaged in the programme. Average per capita milk consumption would thus rise from the present 107 gms. daily to 144 gms. daily in 1985.

The Objectives of Operation Flood II: (i) To enable some ten million rural milk producers' families to build self-sustaining dairy industry by mid-1985. (ii) To enable the milk producers to rear a National Milch Herd of some 15 million cross-bred cows and upgraded buffaloes by mid-1985. (iii) To erect a National Milk Grid which will link the rural milksheds to the major demand centres with urban populations totalling some 150 million. (iv) To erect the infrastructure required to support a viable national dairy industry; including a national frozen-semen system; vaccine production and delivery systems; indigenous development of dairy processing and conservation methods with enlarged facilities for indigenous design and manufacture of dairy equipment; provision of manpower development programmes, ad-interim programmes to supply butter-oils as a medium-priced cooking medium and extruded foods as the basis for infant supplementary feeding programmes, and erection of a Management Information System. (v) To enable milk and milk products to form a nutritionally adequate diet — currently estimated at an average per capita availability of 180 grams of milk daily, which is to be achieved for a population of 750 million during the 1980's.

During 1976-77 (provisional), 24,000 co-operative dairy societies were operating. State level federation is functioning in Gujarat. Also in certain states, there are State Dairy Development Corporations as in Gujarat, Punjab, Rajasthan, Madhya Pradesh, Karnataka, Tamil Nadu, Andhra Pradesh, Uttar Pradesh and Bihar.

Vaccine Plants: Behring Institute, a division of Hoechst Pharmaceuticals Ltd., has set up a factory in Bombay to manufacture vaccine for foot and mouth diseases among cattle. The annual capacity is 3 million doses which can be increased to 10 million doses if necessary. The Bhartiya Agro Industries Foundation, Pune has established a Foot and Mouth Vaccine plant at Vagholi, Pune with a capacity to produce 3·2 million quadrivalent doses expandable to 10 million doses. Indian Veterinary Research Institute has established another Foot and Mouth Vaccine Plant at Bangalore which will go into production in 1980. The Indian Dairy Corporation, Vadodara, is currently in the process of setting up the largest vaccine plant (for Foot and Mouth disease) in India at Hyderabad to have a final capacity of 25 million quadrivalent doses. The technology to be used is most sophisticated BHK cell techniques obtained through technical collaboration with Wellcome Foundation of U.K. The plant is expected to go on stream in 1982.

DRUGS & PHARMACEUTICAL INDUSTRY

BRIEF HISTORY

THIS industry has grown considerably since 1947 both in the Private and the Public Sectors. In 1947 the Public Sector in the drugs industry was non-existent. In the early fifties the indigenous production of drugs and pharmaceuticals amounted to Rs. 350 million. It is consisted mainly of galenicals produced from medicinal plants and herbs and formulations of imported bulk drugs. On the whole, the industry had to depend largely on import of diverse chemicals, both basic and intermediates.

Present Structure : At present, the industry consists of 137 units in the 'organised sector', 5 'Govt. run units' and about 3,000 units in the 'small scale sector'. There are 26 companies with direct foreign equity above 40 per cent. 20 out of these 26 have a direct foreign equity exceeding 50 per cent. Of the 26 foreign companies with direct foreign equity above 40 per cent, one is a branch of a foreign company and two are companies with cent per cent foreign holding.

Production : Most of the drugs including the important life-saving medicines covering wide range of antibiotics, e.g. Penicillin, Streptomycin, Tetracyclines, Chloramphenicols, Erythromycin, etc., Sulpha drugs including long acting ones, e.g. Sulphasomidine, Sulfamoxole, Sulfadimidine, Phthalyl-Sulphathiazole etc., anti-T.B. drugs e.g. INH, PAS, Thiacetazone, Ethambutol etc., Vitamins, e.g. A, B_1, B_2, B_{12}, C, D, E, P & K, Folic Acid etc. Steroids, e.g. Prednisolone, Hydrocortisone, Betamethasone, Dexamethasone, Nandrolone, Norethisterone, Testosterone, Methyl Testosterone etc., and a host of other synthetics, phyto-chemicals and biological products are now manufactured within the country. The overall production of drugs and pharmaceuticals for the year 1978-79 was Rs. 2,000 million in terms of bulk drugs and Rs. 10,500 million in terms of finished formulations.

Output of other popular drugs (tonnes during 1978) was as follows: Ampicillin: 10. Erythromycin: 46. Analgin: 274. Paracetamol: 157. Phenyl/Oxyphenyl Butazone: 73, Frusemide: 2, Amidopyrin: 16. Prednisolone: 1, Thiacetazone: 13. Chloroquin: 45. Amodiaquin: 25. Quinine: 23. Metronidazole: 55. Halogenated Oxyquinolines: 195. Chlorpropamide: 6. Caffeine: 80. Ephedrine: 31, Procaine: 21. Piparazine aud its salts: 74. Phenobarbitone: 23. D.E.C. Citrate: 23. Pheniramine: 8. Xanthinol Nicotinate: 9, Insulin: 1410 MU.

Expansion : The indigenous production of bulk drugs during 1979-80 was of the order of Rs. 2,260 million and of formulations Rs. 11,500 million. It has been estimated that the total requirement of bulk drugs by 1982-83 is expected to be Rs. 6,250 million which is likely to result in formulations worth Rs. 18,750 million. Thus additional production of bulk drugs worth Rs. 3,990 million and formulations worth Rs. 7,250 million have to be organised during the period 1980-81 to 1982-83. The investment needed for the above additional production has been estimated at Rs. 3,500 million for bulk drugs and Rs. 500 million for formulations.

New Drug Policy : Government's decisions on the recommendations made in the Report of the (Hathi) Committee on Drugs & Pharmaceutical Industry submitted in April, 1975 were announced in the Parliament on March 29, 1978. The decisions include the allocation of a leading role to the Public Sector, fostering the growth of the Indian (including small-scale) sector and regulation of the activities of foreign drug firms in India, as well as rationalisation of pricing and profitability. Twenty-five drugs have been earmarked for production exclusively by the Public Sector and 23 for production by the Indian sector including the Public Sector while 66 items have been left open for licensing for all sectors.

The New Drug Policy provides that all foreign companies with the exception of those involved in the production of 'high technology' bulk drugs, should reduce their foreign equity holdings to 40 per cent. Sixty-six per cent of the balance of the equity currently held by the foreign companies, not in the 'high technology' category, should be divested in favour of Government financial and public sector institutions and the rest in favour of Indian investors. Under the New Drugs Policy, foreign companies would be entitled to formulation licences only for production linked to 'high technology' bulk drugs and grant of such licences to them is subject to the company concerned agreeing to supply 50 per cent of the production of such bulk drugs to non-associated formulations, simultaneously limiting the value of formulation of five times the value of total bulk drug production.

Bulk Drugs Import & Distribution : In the case of 26 bulk drugs, imports are being made by State Chemicals & Pharmaceuticals Corpn. of India Ltd. on the basis of foreign exchange released by the Government. These are being distributed by the State Chemicals & Pharmaceuticals Corpn. of India Ltd. by IDPL as per the Pricing Policy determined by the Ministry of Petroleum, Chemicals & Fertilizers.

Price Control : Control over the prices of drugs was first introduced in the country in 1963. The retail prices of drugs then prevailing were frozen and it was provided that prior approval of the Government should be obtained for any increase in prices.

Later in June, 1966, an order was promulgated under which approval of government for fixing prices of new drugs had to be taken, and, marking of retail prices on containers of drugs was made compulsory.

A comprehensive order was issued in May, 1970, designed to :

1. bring down the prices of those essential drugs whose prices generally remained very high ;
2. provide sufficient incentives to the industry to maintain and facilitate its growth from the basic stage and to develop research facilities and expansion in a planned manner ;
3. promote diversification of entrepreneurship in the future development of this industry and thereby provide better opportunities for Indian personnel with requisite technical qualifications ; and,
4. curb excessive profits.

In order to give relief to the drug manufacturing units with a turnover not exceeding Rs. 5 million per annum, they were exempted from the requirement of obtaining government approval for the prices of their formulations. This continues under the new drugs policy.

The order was amended effective from May 1, 1975 to provide that no retailer shall sell any formulation to the customer at a price exceeding the retail price of that formulation in the price list approved by the Central Government or the price displayed on the label of the container of the formulation whichever is less, plus local taxes, if any payable.

In order to give effect to the Pricing provisions of the New Drugs Policy, Government of India have issued on 31st March, 1979, the Drugs (Price Control) Order, 1979 (DPCO, 1979) replacing the Drugs (Pricing Control) Order, 1970. As envisaged under the New Drugs Policy, the Order brings under control three categories of formulations clamped as Category I, II and III formulations. The DPCO, 1979 provides that the ceiling on mark-up of Category I formulations shall be 40 per cent, Category II formulations 55 per cent and Category III formulations 100 per cent. Formulations which are not included under any of these three categories have been exempted from price control. In respect of Category I and II formulations, the DPCO, 1979 provides for Leader Prices, based on the prices of efficient major manufacturers, which would be the ceiling prices for all manufacturers of such formulations including those in the small-scale sector. Prices which are lower than the Leader Prices which were frozen and any revision thereof required Government approval, have now been allowed to go up to the Leader Prices Level, by deletion of clause 12(2) of the DPCO, 1979. Prices can go up to leader level only for those formulations which have the same compositions and are marketed in the same packs as those notified as leaders. The DPCO enables leader to be identified in Category III also.

Under the DPCO, 1979 all bulk drugs which are used in the production of price controlled formulations have been placed under price control. In this respect, DPCO, 1979, has improved upon DPCO, 1970 under which firms could declare prices of bulk drugs which had not been categorised as essential under that Order and were obliged to seek Government approval only when they sought to increase these declared prices.

Research and Development : A premier role is played in Research and Development by the laboratories in the public sector. In Indian Drugs and Pharmaceuticals Ltd., the main objectives have been stabilisation and updating of available technologies, development of new processes in drugs and pharmaceuticals, solution of day-to-day problems and import substitution. While the R & D unit of IDPL at Antibiotics Plant, Rishikesh has facilities for conducting R & D work in various disciplines like mycology, microbiology, biochemistry, organic chemistry, pharmacology etc., and also for the development of newer and better formulations, their R & D unit at Synthetic Drugs Plant, Hyderabad has R & D facilities in the disciplines of chemistry, biology and pilot plant divisions etc.

During the year 1977-78, a tetracycline derivative was prepared by IDPL and this was taken up for pharmacological testing after initial tests had shown a promising potential. Five pilot plant projects, viz. Diazepan, Furazolidone, Glybenclamide, Thiamine Mononitrate and Trimethoprim were also successfully completed. During 1978-79, IDPL successfully developed processes for N-Methyl piperazine, Frusemide, Trimethoprim, Aminophylline, Theophylline and Neomycin sulphate.

The Research Laboratory of Hindustan Antibiotics Ltd., was established in 1955 with activities directed towards product development, import substitution etc. Its notable achievement has been the discovery of two new antibiotics namely Hamycin and Aureofungin. It also discovered an Enzymatic process for the production of 6-APA from Penicillin G first crystals.

In the private sector also, there are a number of drug research centres of which those of Bengal Immunity (managed by the Govt. w.e.f. May 18, 1978), Sarabhai, Ciba-Geigy and Hoechst are important. These research units have contributed significantly improving the existing technology, development of new processes and drugs and import substitution of several raw materials and intermediates.

At present, almost all types of instruments required for the production of bulk drugs are available indigenously and in most cases, technologies are also available in India except for some antibiotics where the latest available technologies have to be obtained from international sources.

In spite of these encouraging developments, overall investment in R & D in India is insignificant as compared to the very high order of such investment in certain advanced countries of the world. In order to correct this imbalance, the New Drugs Policy has made it obligatory on the part of foreign drug companies, having a turnover in drugs in excess of Rs. 50 million per annum, to invest on R & D facilities within the country at least 20 per cent of their net block and further to spend at least 4 per cent of their sales turnover as recurring expenditure on R & D facilities. Besides this, the foreign drug companies have also been asked to undertake transfer of technology laterally to public sector units where national interests justify the setting up of additional capacity.

ELECTRONICS INDUSTRY

BRIEF HISTORY

THE Electronics Industry in India is increasingly playing an important role in the national development. This industry in India nucleated during the early 1950's with the manufacture of radio receivers by a few private firms. Since then, it has not only grown in total volume, but also has diversified enormously. In fact, there is hardly any major sector of economy in which electronics does not find some use. The trend has been towards growth of professional electronics and self reliance in many of the high technology sophisticated fields.

Even a brief survey of developments in the country indicates the vital support offered by the electronics industry. More than 80 per cent of India's population is now covered by the mass communication media like radio and television. The defence preparedness is now based on the indigenously manufactured radars and other sophisticated systems, the process control instrumentation is being increasingly used for economic running of different processes and manufacturing industries like fertilizers, petrochemicals, etc. Indigenously produced computers are being used in some cases. Electronics plays a pivotal role in the control of nuclear reactors and optimal distribution of power through the grids. The launching of the first Indian satellite was testimony of our ability to design and implement complex projects involving myriad of electronic systems.

Growth of Electronics: During the last ten years, the production of electronic equipment and components has increased tremendously. Table 1 gives a profile of the production of electronic items over the last five years. During the last few years many technical entrepreneurs have started electronics industry in the small scale sector. The commercial viability of such small scale units was demonstrated through the successful manufacture of items in consumer electronics and instrumentation area. The private sector is also responsible for substantial export of electronic items, and has entered into areas like radio frequency cables, microwave components, digital instruments, control equipment, etc.

Export of electronic items increased from Rs. 396 million in 1978 to Rs. 466 million in 1979.

Consumer Electronics: The main items in this sector are radio, TV, tape recorders, record players and public address systems. The total production in this sector increased from Rs. 1,573 million in 1978 to Rs. 1,790 million in 1979 registering a growth of about 14 per cent. The total production of radio receivers increased from 4·12 million in 1978 to about 5·13 million in 1979. The small-scale sector played an important role in the growth of radio manufacture. In order to encourage the production of low cost radio receivers the government has reserved this item for production in the small-scale sector and exempted them from excise duty. Currently, the ownership of the radio receivers is estimated to be about one set for every 35 persons in the country. The production of TV receivers in 1979 was around 311,000. A wider base for tape recorder industry and cassette radio combinations has been established in the past few years. The production of record players has increased, there has been an increase in the production of amplifiers and PA systems. Production of electronic calculators has also increased, both in quantity and variety.

Telecommunication Equipment: During the last few years the demand for sophisticated telecommunication equipment has been rising.

It has become possible to supply indigenously developed microwave equipment for the second satellite earth station at Dehradun. A 6-hop 4 GHz broadband 1,800-channel system, meeting the CCITT specifications has also successfully completed evaluation trials. The 6 GHz equipment meeting similar performance is now in production. Many other equipment such as narrow band and medium capacity systems, microwave instruments, microwave antennae, UHF communication systems, crossbar switching equipment, multiplex equipment, etc., are in continuous development and production in the public sector.

Direct trunk dialling by subscribers (STD) is now in operation between more than 70 pairs of cities. The telex network connects over 12,400 subscribers in about 50 cities. In the area of international communications, the first satellite link was established through Intelsat IV in 1971. The second satellite earth station in Dehradun near Delhi was commissioned in February 1977. The overseas service has taken another major step with the installation of a SPG international exchange at Bombay and direct dialling facilities between Bombay-London and Delhi-London.

The development and production activities in the telecommunication field and VHF/UHF communication are continuing in the Indian Telephone Industries, Bharat Electronics Limited, Hindustan Teleprinter Limited, Hindustan Cables Limited and Electronics Corporation of India Limitted (for details see Government of India undertakings). There are plans to supplement these efforts in some of the newly set up State Electronics Development Corporations. Research and Development in telecommunication is continuously being carried out in the Telecommunication Research Centre under the Ministry of Communications.

Seven satellite earth stations are being planned to establish faster and reliable communication even in remote areas. In the next phase, there will be 32 earth satellite stations to be installed under this plan.

Another noteworthy development is the execution of communication and telemetry systems for offshore oil wells near Bombay.

Computers and Data Processing Equipment: The first computer in India started its operation more than 16 years ago. Since then, there has been a rapid growth in terms of computer installations and throughput. At present there are about 500 computer systems installed in the country, including about 100 systems manufactured by Electronics Corporation of India Limited, Hyderabad. It is estimated that about 15 large size and 250 medium size and 400 mini-computers will be required in the next three to four years. A wide variety of computer peripherals will also be required to support these new installations.

The present indigenous manufacturing programme for peripherals is for low-speed devices. Two public sector companies have undertaken the development work for a variety of peripherals like consol keyboard printers, card readers, dot matrix printers, cassette drives, magnetic tape drives, visual display units and direct entry devices. The production of some of these items will be started shortly.

In order to gain experience in development and application of computer and related technologies two national centres namely, National Centre for Software Development and Computing Techniques (NCSDCT) and National Informatics Centre (NIC) have been up with the assistance of UNDP. NCSDCT is functioning at the Tata Institute of Fundamental Research at Bombay. The primary objectives of this centre are to develop software tools and computing techniques to support the growth of a major self-reliant computer and associated semiconductor industry. The National Informatics Centre at Delhi was set up for developing methodologies relating to large data bases and their development. Experiments of data communication are also in progress. The Department of Electronics is also setting up regional computer centres at various locations in the country.

Considering the importance of maintenance and efficient operation of wide variety of computers already installed in the country, and to be installed, the Department of Electronics has set up a Computer Maintenance Corporation in the public sector. This corporation is responsible for coordinating and implementing all aspects of system design and maintenance of computers. It will also stock and ensure continuous and fast supply of spares for the systems in operation.

Another notable development is the efforts made to generate computer software for exports. With the highly skilled software personnel available in the country, there is considerable potential for building up this industry, especially for exports. India has started exporting computer software to countries in the West, USSR and Eastern Europe.

Control and Industrial Electronics: With the accelerating progress in technology, industrial processes have become increasingly complex. It is vital to run them with adequate and sophisticated instrumentation and control systems, so that operational cost, efficiency and quality are optimised. In the field of instrument servo components, two of the prominent groups are Servo Control Division at ECIL and Control Guidance & Instruments Division of SSTC. Indigenous production of servo components has been established with the manufacture of servo and hysteresis motors, synchros and rate gyropackages. There are about 70 units engaged in the manufacture of process control instruments. The types of instruments produced cover temperature measurement using mercury, resistance and pyrometric methods, gauges for pressure measurement, strain gauge instrumentation and a variety of analysers. Instrumentation Limited (for details see Government of India Undertakings) is producing a wide variety of pneumatic instruments. The items manufactured in the field of industrial electronics cover a wide variety of drives, numerical control machines, dielectric, induction, furnaces, etc. The development in this field has been rapid and the basic components like thyristors and high power silicon diodes are being manufactured. New areas in industrial electronics like pollution monitoring equipment and agro-electronic instruments are growing rapidly.

Instruments: A wide variety of instruments like test and measuring, analytical, nuclear, geoscientific etc. are being manufactured in the small scale sector. The test and measuring instruments manufactured include instruments like digital multimeter, admittance bridge, oscilloscopes, communication test equipment and TV test instruments. The analytical instruments manufactured include pH meters, conductivity meters, spectrophotometers and calorimeters. The production of nuclear instruments like GM counters, phase analysis equipment, reactor control instruments, whole body counters is mainly concentrated at ECIL, Hyderabad. The present manufacturing base for geoscientific and related instruments is quite modest, although the demand for these instruments is growing due to the increasing activity in oil and mineral exploration.

Medical Electronic Equipment: One of the spin-offs due to increasing sophistication in electronics is the emergence of a new area called bio-medical engineering or medical electronics. In India, though the field of medical electronics is still in its infancy, it has made a significant start. New equipments in increasing numbers are currently being used in many hospitals. The production of medical electronics equipment is mainly in the small and medium scale industries both in the public and private sectors. X-ray equipment constitutes the major share of the equipment manufactured. Some of the other equipments currently being manufactured are electro-cardiograph, respirator, foetus heart detector, hearing aid and stimulator.

Components & Materials: In the field of components, the production has risen from mere Rs. 65 million in 1965-66 to Rs. 1,360 million in 1979. However, as compared to consumer grade components, the production of professional components is lagging behind. Consumer grade components in addition to meeting the local demand are also being exported.

In the area of electron tubes, the production includes that of receiving and transmitting tubes, magnetrons, x-ray tubes, TV picture tubes and mixie tubes. In the area of semi-conductor devices, most of the production is of germanium and silicon discrete devices. As regards integrated circuits, Bharat Electronics Limited (BEL) is producing TTL ICs with indigenous know-how. Hybrid microcircuits are made by BEL and ITI. The planned Semiconductor Complex near Chandigarh will be manufacturing MOS LSI, bipolar LSI and LED's.

In the area of passive components, different varieties of resistors and capacitors are manufactured. About a dozen manufacturers are making coaxial, rack and panel and printed circuit connectors. Relays are also being produced in a fairly wide range. ITI Bangalore, makes telephone type relays for its telecommunication equipment switches which include rotary wafer, push button, toggle, snap-action, etc. are also being produced by more than 25 manufacturers. Other components like crystals, transducers, magnetic components, printed circuit boards are also being manufactured. In so far as materials are concerned, the electronic component industry still depends on imports to the tune of over 60 per cent. The production of some ultra-pure materials has been established at Special Materials Plant, Hyderabad. A wide variety of soft and hard ferrites are already under production catering to most of the requirements. Except some special plastics like PTFE, DAP and polycarbonate, etc., others are being locally manufactured.

FERTILISER INDUSTRY

IT was in the Third Plan that the industry received a big boost. As against the allocation of Rs. 11,500 million in the Fifth Plan the actual expenditure on the schemes in the first four years of the Plan was about Rs. 15,000 million. Most of the capacity developed in the fertiliser field is based on naphtha but in view of the increasing pressure on naphtha, Government has decided that new plants would be based either on coal or fuel oil heavy petroleum fractions depending on the suitability of the locations, availability of raw materials, demand considerations, etc. In pursuance of this policy, two large-sized coal-based plants are under implementation at Talcher and Ramagundam each consuming about 1 million tonnes of coal per annum. Following the discovery of oil in the Bombay High Bassein structures and in the context of the availability of quantities of gas for fertiliser production, the Government has revised the entire feedstock policy. The new policy formulated in January 1978, envisages setting up of future fertiliser plants based mainly on gas and coal, preference being given to gas-based plants. Use of fuel oil shall not be permitted, while Naphtha can be allowed if an existing plant at an inland location can be expanded quicker, with lower capital cost.

There are more than 60 fertiliser factories of various sizes in the private and public sectors.

Public sector : Following are the public sector units :-

For effective management the Government has reorganised the Fertiliser Corporation of India and National Fertilisers Ltd. into five companies with effect from April 1, 1978. The Cochin Division produces urea and NPK complex fertilisers.

Madras Fertilisers Ltd., Manali, Madras 600068 (Tamil Nadu), with an annual capacity of 176,000 tonnes of nitrogen and 112,000 tonnes of phosphates commenced production in November, 1971. It is a joint venture in which the Government of India holds 51 per cent of the equity capital while the remaining 49 per cent is equally shared between Amoco India Incorporated of USA and the National Iranian Oil Co. of Iran.

Indian Farmers' Fertilisers Co-operative Ltd. (IFFCO), have ammonia/urea complex at Kalol and NPK at Kandla both in Gujarat. In addition one ammonia/urea complex at Phulpur, U.P. is under construction.

STATE SECTOR: Bihar State Superhosphate Factory, Dhanbad; Associated Industries, Assam; Hyderabad Fertiliser & Chemicals, Hyderabad; Maharashtra Agro Chemicals, Maharashtra.

PRIVATE SECTOR: The major private sector units in production, under implementation and approved in principle are mentioned with their capacity in Table III.

Production & capacity: In terms of production and capacity, fertiliser industry, as a whole, has made rapid strides. Indigenous production in this sector meets about 65-70 per cent of the demand. The Fourth Plan and the first four years of the Fifth Plan recorded a very significant growth in the development of capacity and production. High nutrient fertilisers like urea, DAP urea, ammonium phosphate & NPK complex fertilisers are being produced in large quantities as compared to ammonium sulphate and superphosphate produced at the initial stage.

During 1975-76, India hit the annual production target for fertiliser for the first time in 10 years. Production in 1975-76 of over 1·5 million tonnes of nitrogen represents approximately a 30 per cent increase over that of 1·185 million tonnes in 1974-75. The production of nitrogenous fertilisers (in terms of tonnes) during 1976-77, 1977-78, 1978-79, 1979-80 was 1·9 million, 2 million, 2·170 million and 2·26 million respectively.

The production of phosphatic fertilisers increased from 480,000 tonnes in 1976-77 to 670,000 tonnes in 1977-78, and to 770,000 tonnes in 1978-79. Production in 1979-80 was 7·57 million tonnes. However, the consumption of fertilisers has also been increasing during the past few years and imports have been necessary to bridge the gap between demand and production (Table II gives production of N and P_2O_5 fertilisers during the last few years).

The total installed capacity of nitrogenous fertilisers at the end of 1979-80 was 3·891 million tonnes of which 2·838 million tonnes was in the Public Sector, 1·294 million tonnes in the Private Sector and 215,000 tonnes in the Co-operative Sector (The unit-wise capacity is given in Table III).

At present total capacity of 2·280 million tonnes of Nitrogen and 208,000 tonnes of P_2O_5 is being installed. By 1985-86 Nitrogen capacity would increase to about 6·85 million tonnes. The capacity of P_2O_5 would increase to about 1·53 million tonnes when the 2 plants under implementation are completed. A few more phosphatic projects are under consideration (The break-up of the capacity under implementation is given in Table III).

TABLE II

Total Production ('000 tonnes)

Year	Nitrogen	P_2O_5
1974–75	1,185	327
1975–76	1,535	320
1976–77	1,900	480
1977–78	2,000	670
1978–79	2,170	770
1979–80	2,226	757

The total installed capacity of nitrogenous fertiliser industry (in terms of plant nutrient N) as at the end of 1976-77 was of the order of 3·028 million tonnes. The share of public sector and co-operative sector units was 1,760,000 tonnes.

The capacity under implementation stage is estimated at 2·070 million tonnes. In addition to this, the capacity approved in principle, amounted to 1·637 million tonnes.

The break-up of the existing capacity in both the sectors as well as that under implementation stage is set out in Table III.

Phosphatic Fertilisers: The total production of both straight and complex phosphatic fertilisers which shows a marginal fall from about 331,000 tonnes in 1974-75 to about 323,000 tonnes in 1975-76, due to high prices in the inputs were covered in the subsequent years and the production increased to about 670,000 tonnes of P_2O_5 in 1977–78, 770,000 tonnes in 1978-79 and 757,000 tonnes in 1979-80. The installed capacity of phosphatic fertilisers in both the sectors is set out in Table III.

Fertiliser types: Table IV shows the production of various types of fertilisers with the number of units and their installed capacity.

Manures and Composts : The Ministry of Agriculture has taken up a very comprehensive programme for the development of organic manures in the country in view of its importance in building up of soil fertility and also because of constraints in the availability of fertilisers. The programme is : (i) Preparation of rural and urban compost ; (ii) distribution of sewage and sullage ; (iii) intensification of green manuring programme ; (iv) establishment of gobar gas plants.

It is proposed to set up 27 compost plants in cities having a population of more than 0·3 million. An ambitious programme for the establishment of 100,000 gobar gas plants had been undertaken.

Energy Equivalent : The energy equivalent of 24 million litres of kerosene can be made available if all the 400 million tonnes of wet cattle dung, now being used as manure, is converted into biogas. Besides conversion of the dung through biogas plants will yield 236 million tonnes of manure of enriched nitrogen quality.

The 1966 census estimated the cattle population in India at 230 million with an estimted 800 million tonnes of wet dung produced annually. However, a recent study by the National Council of Applied Economic Research (NCAER) estimated the availability of wet dung at 1,355 million tonnes. According to NCAER 33 per cent of the total cattle dung — approximately 400 million tonnes — is used as manure and the rest as fuel.

In the rural areas the per capita consumption of cattle dung cake is around 9 kgs. per month. The average rural household therefore consumes 540 kgs. a year. In urban areas the average per capita consumption of dung cakes in 36 kgs. a year.

Urban Compost : Under the technical guidance of the Gujarat Agro-industries Corporation, a compost manure plant has been put up by the Vadodara Municipal Corporation at Atladara. It has an installed capacity to process 125 to 150 tonnes of garbage per day. Such plants are also being put up in various other cities.

CONSUMPTION OF FERTILISERS

The growth rate in fertiliser consumption during 1979-80 decelerated to just 3·9 per cent from 19·6 per cent in 1978-79. In absolute terms, the consumption of fertilisers during 1979-80 is estimated at 5·32 million tonnes. However, there is no mistaking the fact that the Indian farmer is increasingly resorting to the use of chemical fertilisers. This is evident from the fact that the off-take of fertilisers has risen sharply from a low figure of 2·26 million tonnes in 1970-71 to 5·32 million tonnes, in 1979-80.

As stated in Table IV, the consumption has increased substantially during 1976-77, 1977-78, 1978-79 and 1979-80 due to a series of price reductions and favourable weather conditions.

Five States, namely Andhra Pradesh, Maharashtra, Uttar Pradesh, Tamil Nadu and Punjab account for more than 59·81 per cent of total consumption. The States having very low consumption of fertiliser per agricultural land are Madhya Pradesh, Assam, Rajasthan, Jammu & Kashmir, Himachal Pradesh, Orissa, Tripura and Manipur.

The States which showed a sharp increase in consumption of nitrogenous fertilisers during 1976-77 were Uttar Pradesh, Punjab, Haryana, Rajasthan, Maharashtra, Kerala, Gujarat, Goa, West Bengal and Orissa. Other states like Tamil Nadu, Karnataka, Gujarat, Kerala have also registered increase in consumption from 1977-78 onwards.

Pricing: In order to ensure a reasonable return on the investment and facilitating the development and growth of the industry the Government have introduced a system of retention prices of units in the nitrogenous fertiliser industry with effect from November 1, 1977. The system provides for a fair ex-factory retention price per tonne of urea for each plant based on a capacity utilisation of 80 per cent and a combination of values and actuals in regard to the consumption of raw materials and other imports, etc. The retention price system has been introduced also for phosphatic fertilisers with effect from February 1979.

Imports: Higher production of fertilisers in the country has resulted in the saving of foreign exchange which India would have spent on imports. The trend in imports of fertilisers is given in the table below:

('000 tonnes)

Year	N	P	K	Total
1974-75 ..	884	286	437	1,607
1976-77 ..	750	23	278	1,051

1979-80 ..	1,295	237	473	2,005

General: Potassium Fertilisers: To substitute potassium sulphate chloride which is being imported at present, the Central Salt and Marine Chemicals Research Institute in Bhavnagar, Gujarat, has developed a process for manufacturing potassium chloride and potassium schoenite from mixed salts.

The Institute has set up a commercial plant at Kandla in the private sector having a capacity of manufacturing 1,000 tonnes of potassium chloride and 2,000 tonnes of potassium schoenite (epsom salt) annually.

Role of F.C.I. (Training): F.C.I. had initiated a number of scientific and technological programmes for popularising the use of fertilisers: (i) Fertiliser Promotion and Agricultural Research Centre at Calcutta, to demonstrate the use of fertiliser; (ii) a Rice Production Training Centre was set up at Durgapur during 1972-73 to impart right technique of rice cultivation; (iii) the F.C.I. had also taken up studies to assess the efficiency of slow release sulphur coated urea fertiliser, at the instance of FAO for plants under different climatic and soil conditions. With a view to producing fertiliser containing micronutrients, Fertiliser Corporation of India started a training institute which provides refresher courses for all categories of employees. The Corporation also implemented the Indo-German Fertiliser Education project to popularise the use of nitro-phosphate complex fertilisers to be manufactured at Haldia.

Research: Fertiliser Association of India near Jawaharlal Nehru University, New Delhi 110057, has set up a Fertiliser Institute (new Technical Division) which does research on the pathological problems of the industry, holds lectures, group discussions and publishes papers on the research done. The institute also holds courses in marketing from time to time. The FPDIL at Sindri is engaged in providing project and engineering consultancy services for the new projects and diversification programmes besides its important role as a research and development organisation. The P. & D. developed their own know-how for the manufacture of catalysts used in the fertiliser industry and many of these catalysts are put to commercial use.

Consultancy & Engineering Services: FPDIL., FEDO of FACT and EIL are the three Indian organisations engaged in the detailed designing & engineering, erection & commissioning of many of the fertiliser projects set up in the country since 1966. These organisations, especially P. & D. has developed enough expertise in this field. There are other consultancy organisations for specific areas.

Many sophisticated equipments, needed for the industry, are locally fabricated. Now the foreign exchange requirement for the installation of fertiliser plants has come down to about 30 per cent.

FILM INDUSTRY

WITH a total of 714 films produced in 1979 and 742 in 1980 the Indian Film Industry has a claim to the first place in the world in the quantitative terms. With almost every other kind of entertainment out of the reach of the common man, films serve to fill a big gap in the social structure of India.

Revenue: The gross annual earning of the years 1979 and 1980 remained more or less steady at approx. Rs. 5,500 million. More than half of it (approx. Rs. 3,000 million) went straight to the State Governments in the form of entertainment tax. Besides this, Central and State Governments impose a lot of other taxes on film industry, such as excise duty on the completed prints, levy on films exceeding a certain prescribed length, customs duty on raw stock and equipment, show tax and municipal tax, etc. The export revenue for 1979 was Rs. 121,464,016 and for 1980 Rs. 150,741,199.

Colour Films: With a natural bias of the audience towards colour films, number of colour films is on the increase every year. Few Black & White Hindi films have been made during the past few years. All the big regional films are made in colour too.

Employment: The industry has a total capital investment of approx. Rs. 6,947 million including approx. Rs. 6,382 million invested in the cinema-halls. Against this the industry provides employment to about 200,000 persons including about 163,000 persons employed by the cinema-halls.

Film Censorship: Film censorship continues to be ruled by the censorship rules laid down in 1918 and amended from time to time. The last amendment (1978) outlined the objectives of censorship as : (a) The medium of film remains responsible and sensitive to the values and standards of society ; (b) Artistic expression and creative freedom are not unduly curbed and (c) Censorship is responsive to social changes. The new guidelines also state that the board should ensure that films are judged in their entirety from the point of view of their overall impact and that they are examined in the light of contemporary standards of the country and the people to which the film relates.

No. of Theatres and Cinema Houses: The number of cinema-houses is pathetically short of the requirements. With 9,551 cinemas in operation in 1979 (including 3,521 touring cinemas) and 10,782 in 1980 (including 4,155 touring cinemas) the number of cinema-houses per million population was about 11·6 in 1979 and about 12·8 in 1980. This ratio, one of the lowest in the world, gives a handful of people the virtual control over the release of all films. This shortage is also responsible for exceptionally heavy theatre rentals which in turn are the cause of exhorbitant ticket rates. Heavy taxation enhances the ticket rates further.

Finance: Finance for film industry is procured from various sources. Since the person producing a film generally has nothing to guarantee against the borrowed money, it is usually lent on the basis of the saleability of project which in turn is judged by the popularity of stars working in it. Popularity of stars is an unstable factor and a project which was highly saleable when started can turn into a non-saleable one by the time it is completed. This forces many of the films to remain incomplete. Among those completed and released, only a small percentage are really successful. Others lose money or just break even. The risk element, therefore, is high and so are the interest rates — upto 60 per cent per annum.

Among the regional films Tamil, Marathi, Bengali, Malayalam, Kannada, Gujarati and Punjabi showed a considerable increase in 1980 over the previous year. The production of Tamil films during 1980 was 145.

JUTE INDUSTRY

BRIEF HISTORY

THE Indian Jute mill industry, born in 1855 at Rishra on the Hooghly, 21 kms. upstream from Calcutta, was a natural evolution of the centuries old cottage industry of Lower Bengal based on hand spinning and weaving of jute. By 1885 the Indian industry with its supremacy in the international markets firmly established, had 6,700 looms in production. Loomage shot up to 30,685 in 1909, to 50, 354 in 1927 and to 65,762 in 1949. For a decade or so the industry porduced the simplest constructions of sacking cloth. Product diversification continued with webbings, cotton bagging, linoleum hessian, jute carpets and rugs, carpet backing cloth, and decorative jute fabrics gradually added to the range. The industry has already modernised up to the spinning stages of manufacture. This, coupled with the improved technology and other rationalisation measures adopted by the industry, has helped it to increase production without increasing loomage.

LAC INDUSTRY

LAC is a resinous substance secreted as a protective coating by an insect known scientifically as "kerria lacca". The insect, about 0·5 m.m. long, belonging to the family of scale insects and mealy-bugs, is a parasite which lives and thrives on the sap of certain trees, bushes, shrubs and creepers which are called the 'lac hosts'.

There are four crops of lac named after the Hindu months in which the collection of each crop commences. These are 'Baisakhi' and 'Katki' from one strain of the insect (Rangeeni) and 'Jethwi' and 'Aghani' from another strain (Kusmi), each Rangeeni female produces 0·03 g. of somewhat dark lac, while each Kusmi female makes about 0·07 g. of a more valueable light-coloured lac.

LOCATION OF THE INDUSTRY

The lac factories are located in the following five States with the number of units in brackets: Bihar (83), West Bengal (87), Madhya Pradesh (16), Maharashtra (6) and Uttar Pradesh (6). (Total 198 units).

No. of Persons Employed: Bihar: 1,979; West Bengal: 2,209; Madhya Pradesh: 127; Maharashtra: 103; Uttar Pradesh: 95 (Total 4,513).

In addition about 4 to 5 million Adivasis are gainfully employed in the rearing and collection of lac from forests.

PRODUCTION

The lac insect is found in most of the near and far eastern countries but is commercially exploited only by India and Thailand. India's share in world production is about 50 per cent and Thailand's more than 40 per cent.

The all-India production of lac over the last four years (in tonnes) was as follows: 1976–77: 23,870; 1977–78: 20,000; 1978–79: 9,120; 1979–80: 15,253.

The final report issued by the Directorate of Lac Development, Ranchi, puts the total yield of 'Baisakhi' lac crop in 1979–80 at 10,345 tonnes; of 'Jethwi' lac at 294 tonnes; of 'Katki' lac at 3.930 tonnes; and of 'Kusmi' lac at 684 tonnes.

Bihar has the highest production 9,979 tonnes in 1979–80, followed by Madhya Pradesh 2,197 tonnes, West Bengal 769 tonnes and Uttar Pradesh 2,035 tonnes.

CONSUMPTION

India's consumption (in tonnes) over the last three years was as follows: 1977–78: 929; 1978–79: 1,000; 1979–80: N.A.

GENERAL

For the development and marketing of lac, a Directorate of Lac Development has been created under the Department of Agriculture, Government of India with headquarters at Circular Road, Ranchi 834001, Bihar. The Government of India has also constituted the Indian Lac Development Council to advise it on all matters relating to development of lac cultivation, trade and industry.

The Bihar Co-operative Lac Marketing Federation Ltd., Ranchi, supports prices when they fall below economic levels. It is the only lac factory in Public Sector.

Research: To improve the technique of lac cultivation and to find new uses are the responsibilities of the Indian Lac Research Institute at Namkum, Ranchi, Bihar. This institute is under the control of the Indian Council of Agricultural Research and provides training facilities.

Important Uses: Lac is used in the manufacture of French polish, gramophone records, electrical insulating materials, shellac moulded articles, micanite, hats, grinding wheels, adhesives, cements, wood turning, metal enamelling, printing ink etc.

MAN-MADE FIBRE INDUSTRY

BRIEF HISTORY

THE Industry in India is of recent origin. The first unit to manufacture viscose rayon filament yarn, The Travancore Rayons Ltd., was incorporated in 1645. The actual production started in 1950.

In 1664, Robert Hooke predicted the possibility of viscose-fibre, but its reality came into being only in 1884 when the father of rayon industry, Count Hilarie de Chadonnet, produced rayon from nitro-cellulose solution. Commercial production started in France in 1891. But polymer 66 and 6 in nylon was only discovered in Germany in 1938.

In 1941, chemists J. R. Whinfield and J. T. Dickson discovered polyester. I.C.I. developed and produced the fibre commercially in U.K. and became an exclusive licencee for polyester fibre throughout the world except U.S. In the earlier days it was the cellulosic synthetic fibre which made the market, but in the last 20 years the more versatile non-cellulosic synthetic fibres have made tremendous headway.

Position in India

There are about 136,000 authorised powerlooms and 700 knitting machines besides a number of unauthorised powerlooms. The existing textile policy does not encourage further growth as it provides keen competition in cotton industry. Synthetics being durable, reliable and of high quality expanded the market significantly although the prices were 4 to 5 times higher than the cotton textiles. As a result, during the seventies, man-made fibre industry made rapid strides at the cost of cotton textile industry which registered a downward trend.

The particulars of different varieties of the man-made fibres is given in Table 3. Statewise installed capacity of authorised powerlooms and knitting machines is given in Table 2. The major raw material suppliers to this industry are: Gujarat State Fertilizers, producing caprolactum ; I.P.C.L., Bongaigaon Refinery ; J.K. Synthetics producing D.M.T.; I.P.C.L. producing acrylonitrile ; Gwalior Rayon, South India Viscose, Andhra Pradesh Rayon supplying rayon grade wood pulp and Travancore Rayon producing cotton linter pulp.

MINES AND MINERALS

THE total value* of mineral production during 1979 was Rs. 17,420 million compared to Rs. 14,632 million in the previous year. Mineral fuels (coal, lignite, petroleum and natural gas) constituted the leading group with Rs. 14,134 million or 81 per cent (solid fuels 55 per cent and liquid fuels 26 per cent), metallic minerals Rs. 2,058 million or 12 per cent and non-metallic minerals Rs. 1,228 million or 7 per cent of the total value of mineral production during 1979.

In terms of value of output, coal including lignite was foremost with 55 per cent followed by petroleum and natural gas 26 per cent, iron ore 6 per cent, limestone 4 per cent, copper ore, manganese ore, gold, phosphorite, zinc concentrates and chromite one per cent each, while all the other minerals together accounted for the remaining 3 per cent.

The index of mineral production (quantum index) with base 1970 = 100 was 149 during 1979 showing an increase of 5 points over the previous year. Among fuels, the index of both coal mining including lignite and petroleum and natural gas increased by 2 and 24 points respectively. The index of metal ore mining increased by 2 points from 147 in 1978 while that of non-metallic mining declined to 137 during 1979 from 141 in the previous year.

Statewise analysis: Statewise analysis indicated that Bihar occupied the leading position accounting for about 26 per cent of the total value of mineral production in 1979 followed by Madhya Pradesh 15 per cent, West Bengal 10 per cent, Assam 9 per cent, Gujarat 8 per cent and Andhra Pradesh 5 per cent, while the rest was accounted by all the other States including Bombay High.

The value of mineral production (Rs. million) in each State for 1979 was: Bihar 4,499, Madhya Pradesh 2,545; West Bengal 1,766; Assam 1,497; Gujarat 1,336; Andhra Pradesh 902; Orissa 761; Rajasthan 548; Maharashtra 506; Karnataka and Tamil Nadu 312 each; others 481; Bombay High off-shore 1,956.

MINERAL FUELS

Coal and Lignite: The most important coalfields are Raniganj in West Bengal and Jharia and Bokaro in Bihar. The best coking coal comes from Giridih, Jharia nd Raniganj. Other States in which coal is found are Madhya Pradesh, Orissa, Andhra Pradesh, Maharashtra, Assam, Uttar Pradesh and Jammu & Kashmir.

The total all-India proved, indicated and inferred eserves of all types of coal, including lignite, stand at 5,773 million tonnes with seams of 1·2 metres and above n thickness and generally up to a depth of 609 metres from the surface. Out of this the reserves of coking coal is placed at 19,396 million tonnes.

India continued to be the sixth largest producer of coal in the world with nearly 104 million tonnes during 1979. The output of coal in million tonnes: 1977: (100·3); 1978: (101·9); 1979: (104·0). The value of coal production during 1979 was Rs. 9,324 million.

The output of lignite in million tonnes: 1977: (3·6); 1978: (3·6); 1979: (3·2). The value of lignite production during 1979 was Rs. 179 million.

The "Integrated Neyveli Project" at Neyveli, S. Arcot district of Tamil Nadu is planned to increase the mine output to 6·6 million tonnes per annum. Output of lignite was 3·3 million tonnes during 1979 which was lower by 10 per cent compared to previous year. Nearly 93 per cent of output was reported from Tamil Nadu and the rest was from Gujarat.

Lignite also occurs at Palana and Khari in Bikaner district of Rajasthan; Nichahom in Jammu & Kashmir; Kutch and Bharuch districts in Gujarat.

METALLIC MINERALS (FERROUS GROUP)

The chief deposits of chromite ore are in Cuttack and Keonjhar districts of Orissa; Bhandara and Ratnagiri districts of Maharashtra; Singhbhum district of Bihar; Mysore and Hassan districts of Karnataka; Krishna district of Andhra Pradesh; and Salem district of Tamil Nadu.

Production and exports respectively in '000 tonnes of chromite: 1977: (353; 167); 1978: (266, 59); 1979: 309; N.A.). Production of ferro-chrome during 1978 was 21,545 tonnes as against 18,068 tonnes in 1977.

Iron ore: The production of iron ore in India during 1979 totalled 40 million tonnes as against 38·16 million tonnes in the previous year.

India is one among the few countries endowed with large reserves of good quality iron ores which can meet the growing demands of the indigenous iron and steel industry and also sustain considerable export trade.

The production from Goa during 1979 was 13 million tonnes as against 9·3 million tonnes during 1978. During 1979, Madhya Pradesh produced 9·5 million tonnes; Orissa 6·4 million tonnes; Bihar 5·9 million tonnes and Karnataka 3·2 million tonnes.

A large deposit of iron ore was recently discovered in Chiria, Singhbhum district of Bihar. Mineral Exploration Corporation Ltd. is carrying out exploratory mining in this area to strengthen the reliability of reserves established earlier.

Production and value ('000 tonnes & Rs. '000) respectively of iron ore: 1977: (42,597: 915,925); 1978: (38,837: 1,011,993); 1979: (39,534: 1,024,510).

The total recoverable reserves of manganese ore as on 1-1-1975 in the country are placed at 79·5 million tonnes. It is estimated that the deposits in the main belt of Nagpur and Bhandara in Maharashtra and Balaghat in Madhya Pradesh alone contain reserves of the order of 20·6 million tonnes.

Yearly output and exports respectively of manganese ore in tonnes: 1977: (1,865,000; 554,375); 1978: (1,619,000; 577,292); 1979: (1,755,079; N.A.).

A new unit with a capacity of 50,000 tonnes of ferro-manganese per annum of Maharashtra Electrosmelt, Chandrapur commenced production in March 1977. With this, there are at present 8 major ferro-manganese plants in the country with total installed capacity of 237,400 tonnes per annum. Of these 3 units are located in Maharashtra, two each in Orissa and Karnataka and one in Andhra Pradesh.

During 1978 the total production of ferro-manganese was 219,993 tonnes as against 193,908 tonnes in 1977.

NON-FERROUS GROUP

Bauxite: India is self sufficient in respect of bauxite which is the chief raw material for aluminium metal. A sizeable quantity also finds an outlet in export market after meeting the indigenous requirements. The all India reserves of bauxite of all grades are placed at 2,190 million tonnes as on 1-1-1975. This enhanced reserve of bauxite is due to the recent discovery of bauxite deposits on the east coast of Andhra Pradesh and Orissa.

* Excluding the value of minor and atomic minerals.

The important deposits of bauxite occur in Palamau and Ranchi districts of Bihar; Mopa and Pernem area in Goa; Surguja, Shahdol, Mandla and Bilaspur districts of Madhya Pradesh; Kolaba, Kolhapur and Ratnagiri districts of Maharashtra; Madurai, Nilgiri and Salem districts of Tamil Nadu; Jamnagar and Kutch districts of Gujarat; Belgaum and South Kanara districts of Karnataka; Kalahandi, Koraput and Sambalpur districts of Orissa and Barda district of Uttar Pradesh. Besides, recently India has made a big headway in discovering huge deposits of bauxite in the east coast covering 25,000 sq. km. area in Koraput district of Orissa and Visakhapatnam district of Andhra Pradesh.

Yearly production and export respectively of bauxite in tonnes are: 1977: (1,519,000; 48,735); 1978: (1,663,000; 1,900); 1979: (1.934,000; N.A.)

Aluminium: There are 7 aluminium smelters owned by five companies of which one is in the public sector at Korba in Madhya Pradesh with an installed capacity of 25,000 tonnes; six in private sector located in Hirakund (Orissa), Alwaye (Kerala), Belgaum (Karnataka), Renukoot (U.P.), Mettur (Tamil Nadu) and Jayakanagar (West Bengal). The recent discovery of bauxite on the east coast of Orissa and Andhra Pradesh has enhanced the prospect of setting up of new alumina/aluminium plants in these areas and there are proposals to set up such export oriented plants. The total capacity of all the aluminium plants in the country is placed at 300,000 tonnes per annum.

Copper: In India at present, there are two copper smelters both in public sector located at Ghatshila in Bihar and Khetri in Rajasthan. The total installed capacity of copper metal is 47,500 tonnes per annum against which the production of electrolytic copper metal during 1978 was 11,682 tonnes.

Production of copper ore during 1979 was 2,173,000 tonnes valued at Rs. 238,702,000.

Malanjkhand Copper Project: The project is being implemented by Hindustan Copper Ltd. at Malanjkhand in Balaghat district of Madhya Pradesh. This will be the country's first large size open-cast mine in hard rock and has been planned for ultimate production of 2 million tonnes of ore, equivalent to about 23,000 tonnes of copper metal per annum. The project will comprise the mine and a matching concentrator plant. The concentrates to be produced at Malanjkhand will be smelted at the Khetri smelter.

Lead and Zinc: Hindustan Zinc Ltd. is actively producing lead zinc ore from its Mochia mine in Udaipur district of Rajasthan. Besides, five projects namely Balaria, Zawarmala, Baroi, Rajpura-Dariba all in Rajasthan and Sargipalli in Orissa are being implemented by HZL. Hindusthan Copper Ltd. was mining in one deposit viz. Bandalmottu in Guntur district of Andhra Pradesh. The production of lead concentrates from these two areas during 1978 was 16,833 tonnes. The concentrates from Rajasthan are sent to Tundoo Lead Smelter while those from Andhra Pradesh are sent to Visakhapatnam.

With the commissioning of Vizag smelter during 1977, there are at present three zinc smelters, the other two being located at Debari in Rajasthan and Alwaye in Kerala. The capacity of Vizag smelter is 30,000 tonnes of the zinc metal and that of Debari smelter has been expanded from 18,000 to 45,000 tonnes during 1977 while that of smelter at Alwaye is 20,000 tonnes. Thus making total capacity of 95,000 tonnes per annum.

Production and value of lead concentrates during 1979 in tonnes and value in Rs. '000 respectively was 20,938 and 48,612; and that of the zinc concentrates 71,677 and 140,280.

NON-METALLIC MINERALS

Apatite and Rock Phosphate: These constitute the principal raw material for production of commercial phosphatic fertilizers. Requirements of rock phosphate were entirely met by imports till 1968. In view of their short supply intensive exploratory programme for the search of phosphate minerals was launched upon by the Government and as a result several workable deposits of phosphorites were discovered in Rajasthan, Uttar Pradesh and Madhya Pradesh. Production of phosphorite has already commenced at Jhamarkotra and Maton in Udaipur district of Rajasthan, Maldeota in Dehra Dun district of Uttar Pradesh and Jhabua district of Madhya Pradesh. The production of phosphorite during 1979 was 644,684 tonnes valued at Rs. 155,481,000 as against 759,500 tonnes valued at Rs. 188,489,000 in 1978.

Asbestos: Naturally occurring fibrous minerals are called asbestos. The commercial varieties fall into two groups viz., the serpentine group found extensively in the serpentine rocks and is commonly called chrysolite variety and the other amphibole group comprised of tremolite, actinolite, anthophyllite, crocidolite and amosite varieties. The chrysolite variety is the most important one from the industrial point of view and is mainly limited to Pulivendla taluk of Cuddapah district of Andhra Pradesh and Singhbhum district of Bihar.

In all there were 12 asbestos cement product manufacturing units in 1978 with a total installed capacity of 673,000 tonnes per annum against which the production was 550,639 tonnes in 1978.

The bulk of the asbestos requirements of the country is met by imports. The trend in the production and imports of asbestos for the last three years is shown in the table below:

(In tonnes and value Rs. '000)

Year	Output	Imports
1977	22,177	67,068
1979	37,816	N.A.

Gypsum: Gypsum is mainly used in the manufacture of Portland cement, ammonium sulphate fertilizer, plaster of Paris and as a soil conditioner of alkaline soils where pulverised low grade gypsum is directly applied. However, due to implementation of 'Rationalisation scheme' of the Sindri Unit of F.C.I. the use of gypsum is gradually being eliminated in the manufacture of ammonium sulphate fertilizer and will be totally eliminated when the scheme is fully implemented.

India has abundant reserves of gypsum in the State of Rajasthan. Other States where gypsum occurs are Andhra Pradesh, Gujarat, Himachal Pradesh, Jammu and Kashmir, Karnataka, Madhya Pradesh, Tamil Nadu and Uttar Pradesh. However, production of natural gypsum is reported from Gujarat, Jammu & Kashmir, Rajasthan, Tamil Nadu and Uttar Pradesh.

The total all India reserves of gypsum as on 1-1-1975 were placed at 1,205 million tonnes, of which Rajasthan's share was 89 per cent.

The value of gypsum produced in Rs. million: 1977: 16·8; 1978: 19·8; 1979: 18·2.

Kyanite and Sillimanite: Are the important refractory minerals having the same chemical composition (Al_2O_3 SiO_2) but differs in physical and crystallographic properties. Singhbhum Kyanite deposits are well known the world over and were at one time the chief source of massive kyanite. The known productive deposits of kyanite are Lapsa Buru deposits in Singhbhum district, Bihar and the Dahegaon-Pimpalgaon deposits in Bhandara district of Maharashtra.

The Indian sillimanite can be used as a refractory without calcination since it shows very little expansion. The occurrences of sillimanite are reported from several States, however, the production comes from only Meghalaya, Maharashtra, Kerala, Tamil Nadu and Madhya Pradesh. Major production of sillimanite is from the famous Sonapahar mines of Khasi Hills district of Meghalaya. Sillimanite sand is recovered as a by-product from ilmenite processing in Kerala and Tamil Nadu.

India occupies an important position both as a producer and as an exporter of kyanite and sillimanite. The trend of their output and exports for the three years are shown in the following table :

(In tonnes)

Year	Kyanite		Sillimanite
	Output	Export	Output	Export
1977	42,123	8,830	15,023	550
1978	30,897	3,575	13,471	151

Limestone: Is an important industrial mineral used in the manufacture of cement, iron and steel, chemicals and a host of other major industries such as paper, sugar, fertilizer, glass, etc.

Limestone occurs in almost all the States of India. From the reserves of various limestone deposits, it is apparent that sufficient resources of flux and cement grade limestone are available.

The production of limestone in thousand tonnes and value in thousand Rupees respectively : 1977 : (30,380 : 626,035) ; 1978 : (30,915 : 674,627); 1979 : (30,586 : 653,818).

Magnesite: Is the chief mineral used in the manufacture of basic refractory bricks for steel making. It is mined in the States of Tamil Nadu, Uttar Pradesh, Karnataka and Rajasthan.

In India major deposits are in Karnataka, Tamil Nadu and Uttar Pradesh. Deposits in Rajasthan and Bihar are also of some importance. The Chalk Hills deposits of Salem district, Tamil Nadu are the largest in India and have been under active production for a number of years. Magnesite deposits in Almora and Pithorgarh districts of Uttar Pradesh are now under exploitation.

Production and export, (in tonnes) respectively : 1977 : (402,007 ; 13,078) ; 1978 : (414,166 ; 6,888) : 1979 : (384,665 ; N.A.).

Mica: Mica is treated as a strategic mineral and India accounts for a big slice of the world trade in it.

The principal mica deposits are concentrated in Bihar, Rajasthan and Andhra Pradesh. During 1979 Bihar accounted for 60 per cent of all India output followed by Andhra Pradesh 30 per cent and Rajasthan 10 per cent. Small output was reported from Tamil Nadu.

The production of crude mica (excluding waste mica) and export of all grades of mica respectively in tonnes are : 1977 : (9,352 ; 23,216) ; 1978 : (9,593 ; 23,582) ; 1979 : (8,896 ; N.A.).

Sulphur: India is practically devoid of deposits of elemental sulphur. Three alternative sources of recovering sulphur and sulphuric acid for reducing the dependence on imports have been adopted. These are : (i) recovery of elemental sulphur from petroleum refinery, (ii) production of by-product sulphuric acid from zinc and copper smelters and (iii) production of sulphuric acid from pyrites. The Madras Refinery Limited is the only plant from where elemental sulphur is recovered during the refining of crude petroleum. The production of by-product of sulphuric acid was reported from 4 smelters of non-ferrous metals — two zinc smelters — each operated by HZL at Debari and Cominco Binani Ltd., at Alwaye and two copper smelters operated by HCL at Khetri and Ghatsila. There was one sulphuric acid plant based on pyrites located at Sindri, owned by FCI.

Production of pyrites was reported only from Amjhore in Rohtas district, Bihar by Pyrites and Phosphates and Chemicals Ltd. The production of pyrites during 1977, 1978 and 1979 was 31,085 tonnes, 63,781 tonnes and 73,536 tonnes respectively. The pyrites produced at the mine is supplied to FCI's Simon-Carve's sulphuric acid plant at Sindri. Another pyrites based sulphuric acid plant with Bulgarian aid was being set up at Sindri. With a view to meeting fully the requirements of the two pyrites based sulphuric acid plants, the PPCL was progressing with a scheme of mine production from the level of 400 tonnes to 900 tonnes per day. A feasibility report for exploitation of Saladipura pyrites deposits in Sikar district of Rajasthan was submitted by Messrs. RTZ Ltd. of U.K. The country's requirements of sulphur are met from imports.

Salt: The total production of Common Salt in the country during 1978 and 1979 was 6,693,500 and 7,037,000 tonnes respectively.

Iodised Salt: Out of the above quantities, a quantity of 165,782 and 209,734 tonnes were iodised during the year 1978 and 1979 respectively at Sambhar Lake in Rajasthan, Kharaghoda in Gujarat and Calcutta in West Bengal for supply to the goitre endemic areas under the National Goitre Control Scheme.

Rare Minerals: Investigations carried out by the Department of Atomic Energy have revealed a number of radioactive mineral deposits in India.

The beach sands of Kerala and Tamil Nadu contain a useful radioactive mineral — monazite, which contains thoria, uranium oxide, phosphate and a large percentage of rare earth oxides. Thorium can be converted into an important atomic fuel of the future. The total reserves of rare earth oxides in the beach sands have been estimated at approximately one million tonnes.

Ilmenite is also recovered from the beach sands of Kerala State and the Mahavalakurichi area in Tamil Nadu. It is now mainly exported to Japan. The present estimated resources of ilmenite in the country are placed at 100 to 150 million tonnes. During 1976, 120,727 tonnes of ilmenite, valued at Rs. 29·94 million, were exported.

India's present overall indicated and inferred reserves of uranium are estimated at about 76,000 tonnes, and of thorium at 500,000 tonnes.

Uranium bearing ores have been discovered in the Singhbhum Thrust Belt of Bihar, and in the Himalayan regions of Himachal Pradesh and Uttar Pradesh. The uranium mine at Jaduguda in the Singhbhum district, worked by the Uranium Corporation of India Ltd., a Govt. of India undertaking, treats about 1,000 tonnes of ore per day in the uranium mill.

Investigation for uranium and other atomic minerals in Andaman and Nicobar group of islands is currently in progress.

It has been estimated that the resources of uranium in India can support about 5 to 10 million KWs of electricity generating capacity.

OILSEEDS AND VANASPATI

OILSEEDS occupy an important place in the Indian economy and rank second (after foodgrains) as a farm commodity group. India is a major oilseeds growing country in the world, accounting for 10 per cent of the total output of vegetable oils and fats.

India is the largest producer of groundnut, rape and mustard and sesamum. It is second in respect of castorseed production, third in coconut production, fourth in cotton-seed and fifth in linseed.

India has a highly developed oil based industry employing more than 10 million persons. However, it is essentially a food-oil industry which accounts for as much as 83 per cent of the total supply of vegetable oils. Among the non-food uses, the bulk is consumed by the soaps and paints and varnishes industry.

Demand & Supply: The area and production of major oilseeds have more or less remained stagnant during the last decade.

This is evident from the fact that in 1962-63, major oilseeds were cultivated in 15·3 million hectares, in 1976-77. the area covered fell to 14·8 million hectares but improved to 15·5 million hectares in 1977–78. In 1978–79 area has gone up to 16 million hectares.

* Production in million nuts.

The production of major oilseeds showed sharp fluctuations—from 10·2 million tonnes in 1975–76 to 7·9 million tonnes in 1976–77. However, in 1977–78, the output improved to 9·0 million tonnes. During 1978–79 production further picked up to 9·5 million tonnes.

The Sixth Plan production target for oilseeds is 12·5 million tonnes.

Imports: With demand for oilseeds running ahead of supplies — the production trends have been unsatisfactory — shortages and soaring prices have become a fixed feature of the oilseeds economy of India. The gap has been partly met by imports.

During 1976–77, imports of edible oils amounted to 170,000 tonnes valued at Rs. 1,006 million. In 1977–78, the quantity of imports rose to 1·288 million tonnes valued at Rs. 7,116 million. However, in 1978–79 both quantity as well as value imported declined to 1·043 million tonnes and Rs. 5,371 million respectively.

Consumption : The per capita consumption of edible oils stood at 3·8 kgs. in 1978–79 indicating no change over the level obtained in 1977–78.

This is considerably less than the nutritional norm of 20 kgs. per annum. The recent trend in per capita consumption of edible oils (kgs.) is as under : 1955–56 : 2·5 ; 1960–61 : 3·2 ; 1965–66 : 2·7 ; 1970–71 : 3·5 ; 1975–76 : 3·5 ; 1977–78 : 3·8 ; 1978–79 : 3·8.

Exports: India's exports of vegetable oils and oilcakes are considerable, though the underlying trend is mixed. The export earnings from vegetable oils (essential and non-essential) and oilcakes are presented below :

Exports of Vegetable Oils and Oilcakes

(Rs. million)

Year	Vegetable oils	Oilcakes
1973–74	379	1,782
1974–75	430	960
1975–76	395	965
1976–77	546	2,344
1977–78	261	1,333
1978–79	189	1,158

Production : Copra : Latest figures of copra production are given below : Production of Copra 371,000 tonnes ; Milling Copra : 322,700 tonnes ; Edible copra : 48,300 tonnes.

No. of crushing units : 1,439 ; Total installed capacity : 1,055 tonnes per shift of 8 hours a day.

GROUNDNUT: Groundnut (shelled) Production in India during 1978–79 stood at 6·4 million tonnes, indicating a rise over the 1977–78 level of 6·1 million tonnes. However in 1979–80 production received a setback and is placed at 5·8 million tonnes.

Exports of groundnut extractions form a lion's share of the total exports of oilseed meals from India, and contribute more than 50 per cent of total world exports. The exports which touched a record figure of 1,248,389 tonnes valued at Rs. 1,648 million during 1976–77 were much lower during 1977–78 (operating under a ceiling prescribed by the Government) at 565,000 tonnes valued at Rs. 872 million.

During 1979–80, 564,000 tonnes valued at Rs. 736 million were exported as against 523,061 tonnes worth Rs. 697 million in the preceding year.

These exports are however, subject to quota restrictions. The ceiling is fixed and relaxed keeping in view the domestic needs. The overall quota for 1977 and 1978 was 750,000 and 800,000 tonnes respectively. From January 1979, the exports of groundnut extractions have been canalised through the State Trading Corporation.

Per Hectare Yield in kgs. of groundnut-in-shell : 1974–75 : 723 ; 1975–76 : 935 ; 1976–77 : 747 ; 1977–78 : 846 ; 1978–79 : 835 ; 1979–80 : 797.

COTTONSEED : Until about the beginning of the sixties cottonseed was used almost entirely as a cattle-feed, but now 65 to 70 per cent of the total production is available for crushing.

Cottonseed production during 1979–80 was placed at 2,400,000 tonnes, marginally lower than the 1978–79 level of 2,500,000 tonnes. Actual crushing of the seed stood at 1,400,000 tonnes in 1979–80 and in 1978–79 it was slightly higher at 1,450,000 tonnes. Cottonseed oil production fell marginally to 170,000 tonnes in 1979-80 from 180,000 tonnes in the preceding year.

Exports : Decorticated cottonseed extractions/expellers, a by-product of scientific processing, have no market in India and have to be exported. The quantum exported during 1978–79 was 214,480 tonnes valued at Rs. 248 million, the corresponding figures for 1979–80 being 194,095 tonnes and Rs. 230 million respectively.

There was considerable decline in the exports during 1979–80 at 194,095 tonnes valued at Rs. 231 million over 1978–79 level of 214,480 tonnes valued at Rs. 248 million.

SOYABEAN: The soyabean crop is steadily catching popular acceptance from farmers in the States of M.P. and U.P. The area increased to about 280,000 hectares during 1978-79 from the 1976–77 level of 125,000 hectares. The production of soyabean with the modest crop of 50 to 60 thousand tonnes in 1976-77 has reached a level of 250,000 tonnes in the current crop year 1978-79. The steady development became possible by sustained efforts made by various institutes, encouragement given by State and Central Governments from time to time, and the interest shown by industry by way of offering best price to the farmers in order to make this crop most economical to them.

With all these efforts it is estimated that its cultivation could be stepped up to about 1 million hectares during the next few years.

Sunflower Oil : With proper techniques of cultivation. yields up to 2 tonnes per hectare can be obtained. The success of sunflower cultivation depends on the availability of high-yielding fresh varieties of seeds as the crop is highly cross polinated. The Government has sanctioned a scheme for producing such seeds.

Under a Central Government programme sunflower has been grown in Andhra Pradesh, Tamil Nadu and Karnataka.

NON-EDIBLE OILS : In 1959 as much as 75 per cent edible oils were used in the manufacture of soap. By 1972 the use of edible oils had dropped to 25 per cent. Efforts have been stepped up to use indigenous sources of non-edible oils such as rice bran oil, mowrah oil, linseed oil, castor oil and solvent oil of groundnuts and minor oils from forest tree seeds. This has not only generated employment in rural India but has saved Rs. 200 million in foreign exchange which would have been spent on the import of 60,000 tonnes per annum of tallow or edible oils.

Inedible castor oil has two significant potentials :

(1) With suitable processing castor oil can be used in the manufacture of soaps to the extent of over 25 per cent thereby relieving to that extent the pressure on other edible oils

(2) Castor oil has great export potential as it is used for conversion and in the lubricant industry. India and Brazil are the only major sources of castor oil in the free world. If India can export the oil-based chemical equivalent of 20,000 tonnes of castor oil, instead of exporting crude castor oil, the additional foreign exchange earnings would be about Rs. 30 million.

Oil-palm : Grown under expert guidance and suitable conditions oil-palm can give higher output of oil per hectare than any other oil-seed crop. For instance, whilst groundnut gives 200 kgs. of oil per hectare in India and 600 kgs. per hectare in most efficient countries, sunflower gives 360 kgs. of oil per hectare and oil-palm gives 1,800 kgs. of oil per hectare in plantations in Malaysia.

Under a State Government scheme in Kerala saplings germinated from the Malaysian red palm oil-seeds have been planted up to 1976 in an area of 2,500 hectares. The yield will be of the following order (i) Red palm oil 4,446 tonnes, (ii) Kernel oil 616 tonnes, (iii) Oil cake 616 tonnes.

A similar project has also been sanctioned by the Central Government for Andaman and Nicobar islands on an area of 2,400 hectares.

Lemon-grass Oil: It is chiefly grown in Kerala. India exports more than Rs. 10 million worth of lemon-grass oil annually. It is mainly used as a base for some perfumes for the soap-making industry.

Mentha Oil: Mentha farming has been encouraged in the country to save foreign exchange used in the import of mentha oil, an important ingredient in most medicines.

The Kumaon region has been found to be the most suitable area for the cultivation of mentha. The present production of mentha oil is about 200 tonnes valued at Rs. 16 million. This has resulted in the saving of Rs. 10 million in foreign exchange.

Palmarosa Oil: India ranks first among nations producing palmarosa oil, and is the chief supplier of this important raw material for perfumery manufacture, earning foreign exchange worth Rs. 3 million annually.

Pine Oil: The first pine oil factory in the country was started at Hoshiarpur in the Punjab. Three others were set up thereafter. It produces pine oil, dipentine and pine tar. This factory is claimed to have resulted in the saving of foreign exchange to the tune of Rs. 3 to 4 million annually. Another factory to produce high quality pine oil is being set up in Jammu.

RESEARCH : The Central Government has sanctioned Rs. 38 million for a comprehensive all India co-ordinated research project on oil-seeds to be conducted under the Indian Council of Agricultural Research.

The centres for conducting research for different oil-seeds are as follows :

Groundnut : The main centres are at Ludhiana in Punjab for northern region, Tindivanam in Tamil Nadu for south-eastern region, and Rajendranagar in Andhra Pradesh for southern region. The sub-centres are located at Mainpuri in Uttar Pradesh, Pollachi in Tamil Nadu, Kadria and Sambalpur in Madhya Pradesh, and Raichur and Dharwar in Karnataka.

Castor: Rajendranagar in Andhra Pradesh is the main centre and Salem in Tamil Nadu and Raichur in Karnataka are the sub-centres.

Sesamum: The main centres are at Coimbatore, Tamil Nadu for southern region ; Jabalpur, Madhya Pradesh for central region; and Sumerpur, Rajasthan for northern region. The sub-centres are at Karimnagar and Visakhapatnam in Andhra Pradesh ; Bhubaneshwar, Orissa ; Urmala, Maharashtra ; and Jhansi, Madhya Pradesh.

Linseed: Kanpur, Uttar Pradesh is the main centre and Patna, Bihar, and Jhansi and Jabalpur in Madhya Pradesh are the sub-centres.

Rapeseed and Mustard: The main centres are at Berhampore, West Bengal ; Kanpur, Uttar Pradesh ; and Hissar, Haryana. The sub-centres are at Purnea, Bihar, Pantnagar, Uttar Pradesh and Gurgaon, Haryana.

VANASPATI

There are 85 vanaspati units in the country with an annual installed capacity of 1·291 million tonnes (based on groundnut oil usage). Taking into account other types of oil being used presently, the effective capacity is 823,000 tonnes. Part of this capacity is utilised by the industry for manufacture of other refined vegetable oils. The production of vanaspati (in tonnes) for the last three years is as follows : 1978 : 657,000 ; 1979 : 638,000 ; 1980 : 505,002.

Government Policy: In order to reduce the regional imbalances in vanaspati capacity, Government has permitted the setting up of new, economically viable units in States which do not have any unit and have a reasonable demand for vanaspati like Himachal Pradesh, Jammu & Kashmir, Assam and Orissa. Encouragement is also given to ensure that uneconomic units are brought to economically viable capacities.

The quantum of imported edible oils for use in vanaspati is fixed at 95 per cent of the industry's requirement so as to conserve the indigenous edible oils for direct consumption.

Public Sector : Government Hydrogenation Factory at Kozhikode, Kerala, Ganesh Flour Mills Co., Delhi and Kanpur, Amritsar Oil Works, Amritsar and Bhavnagar Vegetable Products, Bhavnagar are the factories in the public sector. They have an installed capacity of 105,000 tonnes per annum.

No. of Persons Employed: About 15,000 directly and about 60,000 indirectly.

PAPER INDUSTRY

BRIEF HISTORY

THE word paper comes from Papyrus a reed growing on the banks of River Nile in Egypt, yet the art of paper making is popularly known to have been invented by the Chinese as early as the third or second century before the Christian era. In India the tradition of making paper by hand can be traced only to the 8th Century A.D. Paper making was considered to be one of the premier domestic cottage industries before the commencement of the British rule. In India the first paper factory was started in Bengal in the latter half of the 18th century by a Christian missionary. The hundred years that followed never saw the laying of a firm foundation for the industry. It was only in 1967 that a real beginning was made when a modern paper mill was established at Bali in Bengal.

Private Sector: There has been a steady growth in the paper and paper board industry over the last four years. During the year 1979–80, 11 more units including two large mills at Kurnool and Bhadrachalam (Andhra Pradesh) commenced production and as on 1–1–1980, the actual number of units was 117 with a capacity of 1·51 million tonnes.

There are three rayon grade pulp units and one paper grade pulp factory all in the private sector. The total installed capacity of the three rayon grade pulp units till 1979–80 was 129,600 tonnes per year. During 1976–77, production was 118,000 tonnes and during 1977-78 it was 127,000 tonnes. It declined to 100,000 tonnes during 1978–79. The estimated production in 1979–80 was 125,000 tonnes. Output of pulp grade paper was 22,000 tonnes during 1976–77 and was 24,676 tonnes during 1977–78. During 1978–79 this was around 35,456 tonnes. The estimated production of pulp during 1979–80 was 35,000 tonnes.

Public Sector: National Newsprint and Paper Mills Ltd. (NEPA) at Nepanagar, Madhya Pradesh is the only unit that produces newsprint in the country and is able to meet only 15 per cent of the demand.

Security Paper Mill: At Hoshangabad, 45 miles from Bhopal (Madhya Pradesh), set up in 1968 in collaboration with a British firm manufactures annually 28,000 tonnes of special quality paper for currency and bank notes.

No. of Persons Employed: About 65,000.

Production: Total production of all varieties of paper and paper board during 1979 was 1,009,200 tonnes against 1,005,600 tonnes in 1978.

Newsprint: The country's total requirement of newsprint is estimated at 0·3 to 0·4 million tonnes per annum. So far there is only one public sector company — National Newsprint and Paper Mills in Nepanagar, Madhya Pradesh. Production of newsprint during 1979 was 48,744 tonnes compared to 48,864 tonnes in the previous year. The annual capacity is 75,000 tonnes.

The Hindustan Paper Corporation Ltd. and Messrs. Mysore Paper Mills are implementing newsprint projects for a capacity of 80,000 tonnes and 75,000 tonnes per annum in Kerala and Karnataka States respectively. The project of Messrs. Hindustan Corporation Ltd. is expected to materialise by 1980-81 and that of Messrs. Mysore Paper Mills Ltd. may go into production by 1981–82.

The Government spends over Rs. 650 million every year to import about 0·3 million tonnes of newsprint to meet the demand.

The Central Budget for 1981–82 imposed 15 per cent customs levy on imported newsprint.

Co-op. Paper Mill: The first co-operative paper mill began production in May, 1976, at Pravaranagar near Shrirampur.

The Pravara Pulp and Paper Mills makes paper from bagasse, wheat chaff and old gunny bags. It has a capacity of 25 tonnes a day.

GENERAL

One of the three rayon grade pulp units is likely to substantially expand the capacity by 20,400 tonnes per annum during 1979–80.

Hindustan Paper Corporation (HPC) is engaged in the implementation of following projects :

(i) Kerala Newsprint Project (80,000 tonnes of newsprint per annum). (ii) Nagaland Pulp and Paper Project (33,000 tonnes per annum). (iii) Expansion of Mandya National Paper Mills Ltd. (39,600 tonnes per annum). (iv) Nowgong Pulp and Paper Project (100,000 tonnes). (v) Cachar Pulp and Paper Project (100,000 tonnes per annum).

However, many large mills conduct research for their own requirements.

Control: Under the paper control order promulgated on June 30, 1979, the Government announced a package of measures to ensure the availability of cultural varieties of papers at fair prices.

In early 1980, the Government conceded a big increase of 25 per cent in the price of white printing paper from Rs. 3,000 to Rs. 3,750 a tonne and that of cream wave paper from Rs. 3,785 to Rs. 4,781 a tonne.

PETRO-CHEMICAL INDUSTRY

PETRO-CHEMICAL industry is comparatively of recent origin, but is characterised by spectacular growth during the last three decades, because of its wide application in various fields. The products from petro-chemical industries have entered every aspect of human activity, contributing in a remarkable way to improvement of the quality of life.

Growth: The petro-chemical industry can be mainly grouped into plastics (polyethylene, PVC, polystyrene, polypropylene), synthetic fibres (polyester, nylon and acrylic), synthetic rubber (styrene, butadiene and polybutadiene) and synthetic organic chemicals as raw materials for plastics, synthetic fibres, dyestuffs, pesticides, synthetic detergents and pharmaceuticals. With the development of process technology using petroleum distillates as the main ingredient, the petro-chemical industry emerged to supply all the basic chemicals that were once derived from coal, alcohol and vegetable oils, and a large number of new chemicals were produced on a commercial scale.

RAW MATERIALS: The raw materials constituting the source for chemicals from petroleum may be divided into three categories : (i) gaseous, (ii) liquid and (iii) solid. Following are some of the important raw materials:

Natural gas: Natural gas is composed mainly of methane, ethane, propane, butane, pentane, hexane and higher hydrocarbons. The quantities of pentane and hexane determine what is known as wetness of the gas. Natural gas is found either associated with crude oil or non-associated. The non-associated gas may contain very small quantity of butane and higher hydrocarbons and as such it is called dry gas. Besides the hydrocarbons, natural gas may contain a certain amount of nitrogen, hydrogen sulphide, carbon-dioxide and helium.

Derivatives: Natural gases can be used for the manufacture of olefins which are the important building block feedstocks for a large number of petro-chemicals, ammonia, methanol and also carbon black.

Sources: The established fields of natural gas are in Naharkatiya and Moran oil fields in Assam and Ankleshwar, Kalol and Cambay oil fields in Gujarat and the offshore oil fields known as Bombay High and Bassein. Whilst the gases in the Ankleshwar and Kalol oil fields are wet with a high percentage of higher hydrocarbons, the Cambay gas is dry consisting mainly of methane, ethane and small quantities of propane and butane. The gas from Bombay High and Bassein fields is rich in ethane and propane making it an ideal raw material for the production of petro-chemicals. Natural gas is, therefore, a precious raw material and government has decided to use it mainly for the manufacture of fertiliser and petro-chemicals.

Refinery gas: This gas is produced at various stages in refinery operations mainly from the straight distillation units and the thermal and catalytic cracking and reforming processes. The cracked gases are generally very rich in olefins and can be co-polymerised to get high octane gasoline or used to produce petro-chemicals. The distillation gases are generally parafins and are normally used as fuels in the refinery itself. The refinery gases being rich in butane and propane have found extensive use as domestic and industrial fuel in liquefied form.

Naphtha: The most popular petro-chemical raw material from the liquid petroleum group is naphtha. A great deal of research and development effort is being made to use higher liquid fractions to manufacture petro-chemicals. It is considered more advisable to produce goods from the high-priced crude rather than use it as fuel.

The international oil crisis has had a decisive impact on the feedstocks for the petro-chemical industry. In India the petro-chemical and fertiliser industries have been planned on the basis of increasing availability of naphtha with the increasing demand for petroleum products. Till the sixties this valuable petroleum product was exported. Its utility as a feedstock for the production of organic chemical and plastics was appreciated in the mid-sixties.

Demand : The demand for naphtha in 1977–78 was about 2·34 million tonnes against a production of about 2·19 million tonnes requiring an import of 0·15 million tonnes. If the programmed production for fertiliser and petro-chemicals materialises the demand for naphtha would be 3·8 million tonnes by 1984-85.

Uses of Naphtha : Nitrogenous fertiliser is a rapidly growing item in developing countries. Naphtha reforming yields hydrogen, which is required for the synthesis of ammonia, a basic material in fertiliser production. To produce one tonne of ammonia less than a tonne of naphtha is required.

Olefins are the base for the bulk of petro-chemicals produced. Ethylene is the most important followed by propylene and butadiene. The cracking of naphtha to produce olefins is a major commercial process. Naphtha crackers are generally so designed as to give variable ratios of olefins according to market requirements of their end products.

Production of aromatics (e.g. benzene, toluene, xylenes, etc.) is another major use of naphtha. Aromatics are used for the production of synthetic fibres, high quality gasoline, etc.

Naphtha-based Industries : Four fertiliser plants — Trombay in Maharashtra, Gorakhpur in Uttar Pradesh, Kota in Rajasthan and Madras in Tamil Nadu — use naphtha. Three other fertiliser plants — at Goa, Cochin in Kerala and Durgapur in West Bengal — were operating at half capacity since 1973. At full capacity they will consume 500,000 tonnes of naphtha a year. During 1974–75 three more naphtha consuming fertiliser plants were to be erected at Tuticorin in Tamil Nadu, Mangalore in Karnataka and Barauni in Bihar which would need another 600,000 tonnes.

In India the industry has developed only during the last fifteen years. A beginning was made in mid-sixties by setting up a relatively small complex (20,000 tonnes/annum ethylene production) by M/s. Union Carbide near Bombay, using naphtha from the local refinery as the basic raw material. This was followed by M/s. Nocil's 60,000 tonnes/ annum ethylene complex, also near Bombay. Subsequently, a large petro-chemicals complex has been put up near Vadodara in Gujarat, by the Indian Petro-chemicals Corporation Limited, a Govt. of India enterprise.

With the availability of Petro-chemical Intermediates from the above petro-chemical complexes, particularly IPCL, the down stream industries e.g. Plastic processing Industries, Synthetic Fibre industry are set to develop in a big way. The present application of petro-chemicals in India are quite diversified. They are used in a host of products from simple shirt buttons to complex communication systems for aviation and rocket propulsion. They are also used in a variety of consumer products from packaging and insulating materials to staple fibre, filament yarn, electronic components, pipes and fittings, substitute for wool etc. The greatest impact of petro-chemicals is in vital areas like water-management, health-care, transport, housing and clothing etc.

PETROLEUM INDUSTRY

BRIEF HISTORY

REAL foundation of oil industry in the public sector was laid only during the Second Plan period (1956–61) when the Government of India launched a planned programme of exploration, production, refining and distribution. The Oil and Natural Gas Commission was set up in 1956 and the Ministry of Petroleum and Chemicals in 1963.

Oil exploration had been started by Assam Oil Company / Burmah Oil Company and their associates in the 19th Century confined to the Upper Assam region. From 1949 to 1960 the Standard Vaccum Oil Company explored the West Bengal Basin first alone and then with the Government of India as the Indo-Stanvac Petroleum Project. The project, however, did not succeed, though it produced valuable data which has since been made the subject of very detailed studies. Till May 1976, crude in commercial quantities was produced only in Assam and Gujarat. Since then commercial production has begun in the offshore region of 'Bombay High'. Currently, Bombay High crude production is 5 million tonnes per annum and is expected to increase to 8·4 million tonnes per annum by 1981-82. In addition, crude and gas reserves have also been established in the associated Bassein, Tapti structures.

Production : ONGC, Oil India Ltd. (OIL) and Assam Oil Company Ltd. (AOC) are the only three agencies engaged in the production of crude oil. The production in Gujarat, which is exclusively by ONGC, is about 4·2 million tonnes per annum. The production from offshore areas is 5·0 million tonnes. The production in Assam is about 4·5 million tonnes per annum, of which the contribution from OIL is 3·12 million tonnes.

During 1977, about 1,250 million cubic metres of associated and non-associated gas were supplied to various customers in Gujarat and Assam. Associated gas from the Bombay High field is also available.

Crude Demand : The estimated demand for crude in 1981-82 is about 32·22 million tonnes, of which indigenous production is estimated at approx. 17·12 million tonnes.

IMPORT BILL : In 1979-80, it was about Rs. 32,119·0 million for about 20·5 million tonnes of crude and petroleum products. Of this expenditure Rs. 21,869·3 million were for importing 16·1 million tonnes of crude. On present estimates, based on current costs of imported crude the likely import bill is estimated at Rs. 60,000 million for 1981-82.

Price of Imported Crude : In January 1979 the price was $13·45 for Iran crude. After the O.P.E.C. meeting at Bali the price of crude varies between $36 to $41 per barrel.

Pipelines : A crude pipeline intended for the pumping of imported and Bombay High crudes from Salaya in the Gulf of Kutch to Mathura refinery a distance of about 1,222 kms. has been completed and will be commissioned shortly. A branch from this pipeline to Koyali refinery to supply Bombay High as well as imported crude to its expansion units was commissioned on 5th September 1980. A product line from Mathura to Jullundur via Delhi and Ambala, a distance of 513 kms. is under construction.

OIL COMPANIES : There are four oil companies engaged in the refining and marketing of petroleum products. These are Indian Oil Corporation Ltd. (IOC), Bharat Petroleum Corpn. Ltd., Hindustan Petroleum Corporation Ltd. (HPC) and Assam Oil Company Ltd. (AOC). Of these only the last still remains in the private sector. Full ownership of Esso interests in HPC were acquired by Government in October 1976, Burmah Shell interests in India were fully acquired in January, 1976, under the name of Bharat Refineries Ltd. (later renamed Bharat Petroleum Corpn. Ltd.). Similarly, Caltex interests were fully acquired by the Government in December, 1976, under the name of Caltex Oil Refining (India) Ltd. till it was merged into Hindustan Petroleum Corpn. Ltd. in May, 1978.

In addition to these companies, there are two public sector companies (each with a minority foreign collaboration) — Cochin Refineries Ltd. (CRL) and Madras Refineries Ltd. (MRL) which are engaged only in the refining of petroleum products and one public sector company, Indo-Burma Petroleum Company Ltd. (IBP) which is engaged in the marketing of petroleum products.

Refinery	Capacity (1980) M.M.T.	Crude run (1979–80)
HPCL, Bombay	3·50	3·13
BPCL, Bombay	5·25	4·82
CORIL, Vizag	1·50	1·10
IOC, Gauhati	0·85	0·65
IOC, Barauni	3·30	2·28
IOC, Koyali	7·30	6·71
IOC, Haldia	2·50	2·49
CRL, Cochin	3·30	2·87
MRL, Madras	2·80	2·82
	31·80	27·47

Of the total refining capacity of 31·80 million tonnes per annum, 31·30 million tonnes per annum are in the public sector. Only 0·5 million tonnes per annum (AOC, Digboi) still remains in the private sector.

Refineries under construction : There is only one refinery presently under construction at Mathura (U.P.). The Mathura refinery will have a capacity of 6 million tonnes per annum and will be the biggest in the country. It is expected to cost Rs. 2,297 million and to go on stream in the second half of 1981.

ONGC is the only public sector undertaking engaged in exploration for and exploitation of crude oil and natural gas resources in various sedimentary basins of the country both onland and offshore. Its operations do not cover certain areas in the North East which have been leased out to Oil India Ltd. and Assam Oil Company. It has also undertaken oil exploration in foreign countries.

ONGC has extended its exploration operations to all sedimentary basins (about 1·41 million sq. kms.) of India. It has at present 9 geological, 26 seismic, 4 gravity magnetic, 2 shallow drilling, 22 electrologging parties and 32 deep drilling rigs in operation in various onland sedimentary basins in the country. Besides 4 offshore drilling units — one is acquired and three on charter hire — are conducting drilling and production testing operations in the offshore areas. ONGC's seismic vessel 'Anweshak' continues to conduct geophysical surveys in the various offshore areas. This vessel has been in operation since August 1975.

ONGC has undertaken (upto the end of March, 1980) drilling on 230 structures (186 onland and 44 offshore), of which 190 structures had been fully tested and the remaining were under testing or drilling. Of the 211 tested structures, 72 had been found to be oil or gas bearing — 44 in Gujarat, 8 in Assam, one each in Himachal Pradesh, Rajasthan and Tripura and 17 offshore areas. This gives a success ratio of 1 : 3.

ONGC had by the end of March, 1980 completed drilling of 1,718 wells on these structures with a total hole depth of 3·57 million metres. Of the 1,718 completed wells, 951 had proved oil bearing, 123 gas bearing, 32 water injection wells, 487 wells were dry and the remaining 125 wells were either under test or to be tested fully or to be repaired.

As a result of drilling, ONGC has been able to discover (as on 1-1-1980) 399·12 million tonnes of initial recoverable reserves of crude oil (onshore—142·18, offshore 240·00) and 301,716 million cubic metres of natural gas from onshore areas and the Bombay offshore areas.

Offshore drilling : The country has 385,000 sq. km. of offshore shelf area (where water depth is within 200 metres). ONGC has carried out surveys in the Gulf of Cambay, Arabian Sea, Gulf of Kutch, Coromandel Coast, the Krishna-Godavari Delta and the south of Sunderbans extending westwards and have discovered 17 structural features which are favourable for oil accumulation. Commission began drilling for oil in the Bombay High Structure in 1973. By the end of March, 1980, of the 44 structures drilled, 41 structures were tested and 17 were oil/gas bearing.

In order to speed up exploration Govt. of India had leased, on production sharing contract, two promising areas to two American companies one off the Kutch Coast to Messrs. Reading and Bates Oil and Gas Co. and the other in the Bay of Bengal to Messrs. Carlsburg Petroleum Corporation. Messrs. Reading and Bates drilled one well in the Kutch area and Messrs. Carlsburg drilled two wells in the Bay of Bengal and since February, 1976 and May, 1976 respectively. Messrs. Asmera Group of Companies of Canada, a joint venture between three Canadian oil companies and ONGC, took up exploration work in the Gulf of Mannar, under a production sharing contract. After conducting seismic surveys the group drilled one well and found it to be dry.

PRODUCTION — ONSHORE: Beginning with production of 100 tonnes of oil per day in September, 1961, ONGC has reached 16,000 tonnes per day which has however, now come down to 14,000 tonnes per day in view of disturbed conditions in Assam. Besides about 2 million cubic metres per day of associated gas is supplied to consumers in Gujarat and Assam. By the end of March, 1980 ONGC had produced and sold 62·49 million tonnes of crude oil and condensate at 6,710 million cubic metres of natural gas and saved the country over Rs. 23,325 million in foreign exchange. During the year 1980-81 ONGC expected to produce 6·00 million tonnes of crude oil from the onland fields in Assam and Gujarat.

PRODUCTION — OFFSHORE : Offshore production began on May 21, 1976, from two wells at an initial rate of 4,000 bbls. per day which was gradually stepped up, after completion of the fourth production platform, to 80,000 bbls. (about 3·83 million tonnes per annum) by January 16, 1978. After certain modifications to the two well-cum-production platforms (A&C) the production rate was expected to be stepped up to 100,000 bbls. per day by the end of December, 1978. By the end of March, 1980, ONGC had produced a total of 10·22 million tonnes of crude oil from the Bombay Offshore field. During 1980–81 the production expected from Bombay High is around 5·9 million tonnes.

Overseas Operations — Iraq : ONGC is presently operating one Rig 3D-67 under a contract for a period of two years effective from 29-1-1979. During the year 1979-80 four complete wells and two part wells, with a total metreage of 14,474 were drilled. Algeria : A team of ONGC officers visited Algeria during January 1980 to examine the possibility of entering into the joint venture of exploration and exploitation in the recently thrown open 120 blocks in Algeria. Based on the recommendations of the team, bids have been submitted, with the approval of Govt. of India for undertaking such ventures in two blocks in Algeria. So far no response has been received.

Research and Development : The Geoscience group makes an overall evaluation of all Indian Offshore and Onshore basins, fixes priorities for exploration and draws up broad based exploratory strategy. A new Institute is being set up at Ahmedabad for the study of Reservoir Engineering. It will play an important role in maximising recovery of hydrocarbons from proven oil fields. An Institute of drilling technology is being set up at Dehra Dun. The Institute will tackle drilling problems in difficult areas where high pressures and high temperatures are encountered. The commissioning of a Computer Centre at Dehra Dun in 1976 helped to process seismic data at a rapid date and also do mathematical modelling of all the reservoirs.

Chairman : S. P. Wahi.

OIL INDIA LTD. (H.O. Duliajan, Upper Assam) : With its equity held in equal proportion by the Government of India and The Burmah Oil Company, this private sector enterprise is concerned with exploration and production of crude oil and natural gas from its leases in Assam and its transportation to refineries in Gauhati (Assam), Bongaigaon (Assam) and Barauni (Bihar) through its 1,157 km. long oil pipeline system. A limited quantity of crude is also supplied to the Digboi refinery of the Assam Oil Company. The capacity of its pipeline system has been expanded from 3·1 mtpa gross to over 5·1 mtpa to carry additional crude to be supplied by the ONGC to meet the requirements of the refineries in North East. Natural Gas, mostly associated, is supplied to the Fertiliser Corporation of India (Namrup), the Assam Electricity Board, Assam Petrochemicals Limited, various tea gardens besides injecting the same in the fields for pressure maintenance. Oil India (O.I.L.) ended the year 1979, by producing a little under 3 million tonnes of crude oil from its limited concessions of 1,990·02 sq. km. of mining leases which constitute one per cent of the total sedimentary basin available in the country for exploration and development. Cumulative crude oil production as on 1st January 1979 was 44 million tonnes, roughly 40 per cent of the crude produced from offshore sources since the dawn of the petroleum era.

The "discovery" well NHK-1 was drilled in 1952-53. As on 1st January 1980, over 422 exploration/semi-exploration/extension/developmental wells had been drilled with a cumulative meterage of over 1·3 million. Out of these wells 275 are oil bearing and 26 are gas producing.

Crude oil production during the calendar year 1979 was a little under 3 million tonnes. Gas sales to the market approximated 565 million cubic metres. An outlay of Rs. 4,000 million has been proposed for 1980-85.

INDIAN OIL CORPORATION LTD. : (Regd. Office : 254–C, Dr. Annie Besant Rd., Prabhadevi, Bombay 400025). The Indian Oil Corporation comprises two divisions viz. Refineries Division and Marketing Division.

Refineries & Pipelines Division (Indianoil Bhavan, Janpath, New Delhi 110001) builds and manages oil refineries of the Corpn. At present, IOC has four refineries at Gauhati (Assam), Barauni (Bihar), Koyali (Gujarat) and Haldia (West Bengal).

Indian Oil is constructing its fifth refinery at Mathura (Uttar Pradesh) with a capacity of 6·0 million tonnes.

This Division also lays oil pipelines and manages Gauhati—Siliguri, Haldia—Barauni—Kanpur, Haldia—Rajbandh, Koyali — Ahmedabad and Salaya-Koyali pipelines.

Marketing Division with its headquarters in Bombay is responsible for distribution of petroleum products produced by the four refineries of IOC and two other public sector refineries at Cochin and Madras. This Division also handles crude imports as well as import of finished products.

Started in 1960, its marketing participation in 1979-80 stood at 60·8 per cent. The sales were 16·80 million tonnes.

Indian Oil has put up its own lube blending plant and also its own drum plant at Madras.

Research & Development Centre : IOC has its own Research & Development Centre at Faridabad near New Delhi. Various engines, rigs, analytical instruments have been imported and commissioned for evaluation and testing of lubricants and other petroleum products. The Centre gives formulations to Indian Oil Blending Limited, a subsidiary of Indian Oil Corporation, for blending all lubricants, specialities etc. Some meligenous lubricants under the brand name 'Servo' have been developed by the Centre for defence, railways, power houses and steel plants etc. The Centre has also developed 'Servoprime', a high grade turbine oil from indigenous base stocks and the same has been introduced as initial charge in turbo-generator sets at various power houses.

The Centre has obtained international approvals for some of IOC lubricants and is working on getting approval for other grades. With a view to conserving kerosene, the Centre has designed and developed a high efficiency wick stove (Nutan).

INDIAN OIL BLENDING LTD. : A fully-owned subsidiary of Indian Oil Corporation Ltd., has two lube blending plants in Bombay and Calcutta and a grease manufacturing plant in Bombay.

INDO-BURMA PETROLEUM CO. LTD. : (Regd. Off. : Gillander House, N. Subhas Rd., Calcutta 700001). It became a subsidiary of the IOC on 12th January, 1970, and the controlling interest was acquired by the President of India from IOC on 16th September 1972. The major business of the company is marketing of petrol and petroleum products.

The company has also diversified into manufacture of electronic equipments, bottling machinery, freeze driers, space simulation chambers, high vacuum equipment, liquid Nitrogen containers, slurry type of industrial explosives. In 1972 the Company took over the management of Balmer Lawrie Group of Companies. Balmer Lawrie and its associates have established a plant in Dubai for manufacture of barrels and cans, and propose to build freight containers in Cochin and Howrah. The Group is also implementing civil construction jobs abroad as well as turn-key projects. The Group's other activities, like civil construction, structural fabrication, manufacture of barrels and grease and electrical equipment like switch-gears and motors are being expanded gradually.

BHARAT PETROLEUM CORPORATION LIMITED : (Regd. Off. : Bharat Bhavan, Ballard Estate, Bombay 400038). A 100% public sector enterprise, Bharat Petroleum has acquired complete ownership of Burmah-Shell's interests in India including the second largest refinery (5·25 million tonnes per annum) and a nationwide marketing organisation.

The refinery has made substantial technological improvement over the years. In 1979-80, eleven different crudes were processed. The refinery was also the first to process offshore Bombay High crude in 1976, and the share of Bombay High crude in the crude mix has risen from 61% (2·87 million tonnes) in 1978-79 to 73% (3·52 million tonnes) in 1979-80.

On the marketing side, total sales increased by 8% to 4·97 million tonnes in 1979-80 compared to 4·60 million tonnes in the previous year, while the turnover increased to Rs. 9,361·8 million as against Rs. 7,771·2 million in the previous year.

At present, BPCL has 5 Port Installations, 2 Lubricating Oil Blending Plants, and 65 Depots besides a countrywide network of 3,302 retail outlets. The throughput of products handled rose from 15·646 million kls. in 1978-79 to 16·478 million kls. in 1979-80, while 30 new Company-owned and operated tanklorries were added to the fleet for use at Depots and Installations.

As regards the expansion and diversification plans of the Corporation, the Government has approved the following projects which are likely to be completed by 1984.

(a) Debottlenecking of primary crude distillation unit to raise the crude distilling capacity to 6 million tonnes per annum for any combination of Bombay High & Middle East crudes, and for providing matching secondary processing facilities with the necessary auxiliaries at a total estimated cost of Rs. 360·5 million ; (b) Manufacture of 61,000 tonnes per annum of benzene and 16,000 tonnes per annum of toluene estimated to cost Rs. 131·2 million ; (c) Installation of a plant at the Refinery to recover 5,700 tonnes per annum of sulphur from sulphur dioxide (estimated cost Rs. 31·9 million) with a view to improving the environment.

Chairman & Mg. Director : U. M. Kini.

HINDUSTAN PETROLEUM CORPORATION LTD. became fully Indian-owned on October 1, 1976, when the ESSO company's share was bought off by paying 3·1 million U.S. dollars for its 26 per cent share. Subsequently, Caltex Oil Refining (India) Ltd. merged with Hindustan Petroleum in May, 1978. The Corporation's main operations are petroleum refining, manufacture of lubricating oil base stocks and marketing of petroleum products. The Corporation has over 6,000 employees in its four operations.

FUELS REFINERY : Situated at Trombay near Bombay, the Fuels Refinery went on stream in 1954. It was built at a cost of Rs. 175 million. During 26 years of operations, it has increased its capacity from 1·25 million tonnes/year to 3·5 million tonnes/year.

The secondary processing facilities at the Fuels Refinery were expanded in 1978 at a cost of Rs. 47 million to bring them in line with the crude processing facilities of 3·5 million tonnes per year. These facilities will result in an increased yield of LPG and light and middle distillates, enabling the Corporation to save an additional amount of Rs. 12 million in foreign exchange annually.

LUBE REFINERY : The lube refinery originally known as Lube India Ltd., a joint sector enterprise between the Government of India and Esso, started operations in late 1969 adjacent to the fuel refinery. Original investment was Rs. 170 million. The refinery uses, as raw material, the reduced crude from the fuel refinery. It has been operating at 200,000 tonnes per annum higher than the original designed capacity of 164,000 tonnes per annum.

VISAKH REFINERY : Located at Visakhapatnam, has an installed capacity of 1·5 million tonnes of crude per annum. The Refinery produces liquid petroleum gas, naphtha, two grades of motor gasoline, aviation turbine fuel, mineral turpentine, kerosene, Hi-speed diesel oil, light diesel oil, furnace oil and asphalt.

Marketing Division : In addition to two lube blending plants at Bombay and Calcutta, it has 15 regional offices, 15 bulk plants, 100 depots and nearly 3,200 retail outlets. Since 1976, the Corporation has launched 108 multi-purpose distribution centres and 32 farm fuel centres to meet the fuel and servicing needs in rural areas. The Corporation markets 4·8 million metric tonnes of petroleum products, constituting about 17 per cent of the overall market share.

Chairman & Mg. Director : R. M. Bhandari.

BONGAIGAON (ASSAM) : With a capacity of one million tonnes per annum, this refinery went on stream in February 1979. Commercial production commenced from 1st April 1979. Since December 1979, this refinery has been closed due to agitations in Assam.

MATHURA (UTTAR PRADESH) : With capacity of 6 million tonnes this refinery is expected to cost Rs. 2,170 million, and is expected to go on stream by 1980–81 and will be the biggest in the country.

COCHIN REFINERIES LTD. : (P. Bag 2, Ambalamugal 682302, Ernakulam Dist., Kerala). This is a participatory refinery project in the public sector, the principal collaborators with the Government being Messrs. Phillips Petroleum Co., U.S.A. It was commissioned on 19th September, 1966.

The Refinery was originally designed to produce annually 2·5 million tonnes of petroleum products and the capacity has now been expanded to enable it to process 70,000 barrels of crude per day or 3·3 million tonnes annually. The present investment including expansion is Rs. 330 million.

A Secondary Processing Scheme has been approved by Centre for installation of one million tonne Fluid Catalytic Cracking Unit with all associated facilities at an estimated capital outlay of Rs. 522·5 million at 1980 cost.

PLASTICS INDUSTRY

BRIEF HISTORY

THE Indian plastic industry made a modest start around 1926 with the manufacture of combs, soap boxes, ash trays, etc., from imported materials.

In India, the first plant to be established in the plastics and petrochemicals sector was in 1958 by the Imperial Chemical Industries (ICI).

Location of the Industry : There are about 10,000 manufacturing units spread all over the country, 90 per cent of which are in the small-scale sector. Their individual capital investment varies from Rs. 5,000 to Rs. 500,000, providing employment to nearly 900,000 people directly and indirectly.

Capital Investment : The current total capital investment in plastics industry is about Rs. 4,000 million. For the development of the industry and to make it sufficiently strong, an annual investment of Rs. 2,500 million over the next ten years is needed.

Public Sector : The public sector made its debut with the incorporation of The Indian Petrochemicals Corpn. Ltd. (IPCL) at Vadodara in March, 1969, to develop petrochemical projects based on feedstock available from refineries. (See also chapter on Petro-Chemical Industry).

Per Capita Consumption : The per capita consumption of plastic goods in the country at present is estimated to be just 1 kg. In 1970, the per capita consumption in selected other countries was as follows : West Germany 59 kg , the U.S.A. 45·7 kg., Japan 36·9 kg., India 0·25 kg.

Agricultural use : Plastic appliances are increasingly used for agricultural operations by preventing seepage losses of water and thus raise irrigation potential.

The auxiliary duties of customs on these items have been re-fixed at 15 per cent for LDPE, Polypropylene and HDPE ; and at 5 per cent for PVC resins.

RUBBER INDUSTRY

RUBBER is obtained from the milky juice called latex of various tropical plants of which only a few like Castilloa, Manihotglaziovii, Ficus Elastica, Funtumia Elastica, Parthenium Argentatum and Hevea Braziliensis are of commercial importance. Hevea Brasiliensis (known as Para rubber) tree accounts for over 95 per cent of the world production of natural rubber.

BRIEF HISTORY

Columbus is credited with the discovery of rubber during his second voyage to America towards the end of the fifteenth century. He reported the existence of a gum which was used by the natives of America as balls for games. An Englishman used the term 'rubber' in 1770 when he found that the substance could be used for removing pencil marks. With the discovery of the process known as vulcanisation in 1836 by Goodyear, rubber came to be commercially used.

In India rubber was first planted in Travancore and Malabar in around 1880. Plantation on a commercial scale commenced in 1902.

No. of persons employed: More than 170,000.

Location of Rubber Plantations: Kerala State accounts for about 91 per cent of the total area under rubber and the Kanyakumari District in Tamil Nadu for about 5 per cent with Karnataka, Andaman and Nicobar Islands, Goa, Maharashtra and the North Eastern States contributing the rest. Table I gives a pattern of hectareage under rubber in 1979.

Production and Consumption: Production of natural rubber which was 147,758 tonnes in 1976 went up to 151,609 tonnes in 1977. The production during 1978 was 132,991 tonnes. Fall in production was due to adverse climatic conditions, and strike of plantation workers. Consumption of natural rubber went up from 133,494 tonnes in 1976 to 142,763 tonnes in 1977 and to 158,168 tonnes in 1978. Table II gives the trend in production and consumption since 1976.

Per Capita Consumption: In 1976 the per capita consumption of rubber in USA was 13·5 kgs., Canada 12·5 kgs., Germany (FR) 10·3 kgs., UK 8·9 kgs., France 8·6 kgs., Australia 7·8 kgs., Italy 7·1 kgs., and Japan 3·5 kgs. In India per capita consumption is as low as 0·27 kg.

The average yield per hectare in Indian plantation which was 806 kgs. in 1976–77, fell to 770 kgs. in 1977–78. In 1978–79, the yield was 710 kgs. per hectare. The yield was estimated at 710 kgs. per hectare in 1979–80.

Imports: As a result of the steady increase in consumption and fall in production, export of rubber was stopped and imports allowed from 1978-79 onwards. Quantity of natural rubber import was 14,750 tonnes in 1978 and 32,200 tonnes in 1979. The imports are effected through STC. Besides natural rubber, the industry is allowed to import synthetic rubber directly. The trend in imports of natural rubber and synthetic rubber, since 1975 are given in Table IV.

Rubber Goods: The total number of rubber goods manufacturing units in India is around 2,000, of which over 100 units are fairly well organised. The annual turnover of the industry is over Rs. 7,500 million and the number of persons employed over 100,000.

The industry's contribution to national income is expected to exceed Rs. 25,000 million per year during the next ten years creating additional employment to 20,000 people.

The industry is spread almost all over the country, though heavily concentrated in the States of West Bengal, Maharashtra and Tamil Nadu. With the exception of Haryana, Uttar Pradesh and Kerala, the industry has made comparatively little progress in other States. Natural and synthetic rubbers are the basic raw materials. Other important raw materials include carbon black, rubber chemicals, reclaim rubber, tyre fabrics (nylon, rayon/cotton), bead wire, tyre tube valves and miscellaneous chemicals. The automotive tyres and tubes industry constitutes the largest sector of the rubber goods manufacturing industry. About 52 per cent of the rubber consumed in the country is used by the automotive tyres and tubes industry including camelback. Cycle tyres and tubes account for about 14 per cent consumption, footwear about 11 per cent, belts and hoses about 6 per cent and the balance is accounted for by other products.

Export of Rubber Goods: There has been a steady decline in the value of rubber goods exports in recent years. From Rs. 272·3 million in 1976–77, the value of rubber goods exports fell to Rs. 269·9 in 1977–78 and to Rs. 222·8 million in 1978–79.

Synthetic Rubber: Production of synthetic rubber was started in India in 1963 when the factory of Synthetic & Chemicals Ltd., at Bareilly (U.P.) started producing synthetic rubber. Built with an initial rated capacity of 30,000 tonnes per annum, the varieties of rubber produced by this factory are styrene butadiene rubber and nitrile rubber called Chemaprene. Another synthetic rubber factory with a licensed capacity of 20,000 tonnes of poly-butadiene rubber has been established recently by Indian Petro-Chemicals Corpn. at Vadodara (Gujarat) and commenced production in 1978. The trend in production, consumption and import of synthetic rubbers since 1976 is given in Tables II & IV. The consumption of synthetic rubber is about 20 per cent of total rubber consumption. The tyre industry uses more than 60 per cent of the total synthetic rubber output.

Rubber Development Schemes: The Rubber Board is implementing various schemes for the development of rubber plantations in India. These include grant of subsidy for replantation, grant of loans and aids for new planting and maintenance of small holdings, distribution of high yielding varieties of planting materials, grant of subsidy on the cost of fungicides and fertilisers used by the small holders, grant of subsidy for construction of smoke-house by small holders, distribution of plant protection equipments, grant of financial assistance to co-operative societies for establishing processing centres and undertaking marketing of rubber. The Board also operates an extension and advisory service among rubber growers. Labour welfare measures also form part of the work of the Board.

In 1977 an agreement was signed by the Govt. of India and the World Bank which provided for financial and technical assistance to establish 9 block rubber processing factories in the co-operative sector and expansion of the existing factory in the sector. The project is to be implemented in a phased manner and is to be completed by1985.

SHIPPING INDUSTRY

BRIEF HISTORY

THE earliest evidence of shipping and ship-building activity is found in the archaeological remains of the Mohen-jo-daro, in the Indus valley, dating back to some 2500–1500 B.C. Ever since, the shipping and shipbuilding industries have passed through various vicissitudes of fortune.

On the eve of the country's Independence, in August 1947, India had only 48 coastal vessels of 119,000 GRT and 11 foreign-going vessels of 73,000 GRT.

Position Today: On January 1, 1980, there were 5·63 million GRT in operation and 0·39 million GRT on order. According to reports, the shipping tonnage target set in the Sixth Five-Year Plan (1980–85) is around 9·3 million GRT (8·3 million GRT in operation and 1 million GRT on order).

Ranking in the World: India in terms of GRT occupies the 15th position among the world maritime countries owning a total of 5·85 million GRT as on July 1, 1979.

Among the principal world merchant fleets (as on July 1, 1979), Liberia ranks first owning about (80·53 million GRT) followed by Japan (38·99 million GRT), Greece (37·35 million GRT), the UK (27·95 million GRT), USSR (22·90 million GRT) and Norway (22·34 million GRT).

National Maritime Day and Merchant Marine Flag Day: 5th April every year.

Indian Register of Shipping: Inaugurated on April 4, 1975 with its head office in Bombay. The National Classification Society supervises shipbuilding and ensures that in operation ships are properly maintained at the requisite standard of seaworthiness. The society has signed collaboration agreements with the American Bureau of Shipping, Det Norske veritas and Lloyd's Register of Shipping on the basis of dual class.

Chairman : Capt. J. C. Anand ; Chief Executive : H. S. Rao.

National Shipping Board: Statutory Advisory Board on Shipping on which all the interests concerned, including shipowners are represented.

Chairman : Daulat Sinhji Jadeja.

SHIPBUILDING INDUSTRY

A new public sector Cochin Shipyard is being built and will have the capacity to build 2 ships a year of the size of 85,000 dwt. each. The first series of ships to be built at the yard are 75,000 dwt, "PANAMAX" type bulk carriers. Production capacity of Hindustan Shipyard Ltd., and Cochin Shipyard Ltd. is expected to rise from 64,000 GRT in 1977–78 to 238,000 GRT in 1982–85. At present, India has the facility for building ships up to 80,000 DWT.

The tonnage on order at the beginning of this year was 0·39 million GRT, out of which 0·23 million tonnes were on order in India and 0·16 million tonnes in foreign shipyards. The public sector shipyards Mazagon Dock Ltd., Bombay and Garden Reach Shipbuilders and Engineers Ltd., Calcutta are intended mainly to cater to defence requirements but their capacity is also available for the construction of merchant ships. The Goa Shipyard is also engaged in shipbuilding activities in addition to other general engineering works. The Rajabagan Dockyard is engaged in building inland vessels and harbour crafts such as barges, launches, trawlers, tugs and dredgers upto 2,000 GRT. Two more public sector shipyards are proposed to be constructed at Hazira (Gujarat) and Paradip (Orissa).

There are several small shipyards under private sector spread over the country which are capable of constructing harbour crafts and inland vessels such as tugs, barges, launches, dredgers, trawlers etc.

Research Body: The Government of India has decided to establish a research organisation for designing ships. At present India has to purchase designs.

SILK INDUSTRY

BRIEF HISTORY

SERICULTURE in India falls into two sectors, mulberry and non-mulberry. Mulberry silk industry is better organised and accounts for nearly 87 per cent of the natural silk production. The non-mulberry sector comprises of tasar, eri and muga silk. India is the only country in the world which produces all the four commercially known varieties of natural silk.

LOCATION OF THE INDUSTRY: Andhra Pradesh: Produces mulberry and tasar raw silk. Mulberry in the Anantapur and Chittoor districts, and tasar in the forest regions along the banks of the river Godavari in Karimnagar, Warangal, Khammam and Adilabad districts. New areas in Srikakulam, Vizag, Medak and Hyderabad districts have also been selected for silk production. The State plans to increase mulberry production over 57,000 hectares by the end of 1984-85 from the present level of 8,271 hectares.

Assam: Produces muga, eri and mulberry raw silk mostly in Lakhimpur, Dibrugarh, Kamrup and Nowgong districts. Sibsagar is prominent for mulberry production. Recent investigations show possibilities for producing oak tasar silk in Garampani area.

Due to the formation of Meghalaya, most of the sericultural centres were bifurcated.

Bihar: Bihar ranks first in the production of tasar with nearly 80 per cent of production mainly in the districts of Hazaribagh, Ranchi, Singhbhum, Palamau, Bhagalpur, Begusarai, Monghyr and Santhal Parganas.

Jammu & Kashmir: The univoltine mulberry silk industry is mainly located in Anantnag, Baramulla and Srinagar in Kashmir valley and Udhampur, Doda, Rajouri and Jammu in Jammu province.

Karnataka: It is the biggest multivoltine mulberry silk producing State in India contributing over three-fourths of the total production. Bivoltine rearings have been introduced of late, during all seasons of the year. Production of this high grade bivoltine silk in 1977–78 was 100 tonnes. The industry is concentrated in the districts of Bangalore, Kolar, Tumkur, Mysore and Mandya and to a small extent in Dharwar, Belgaum and Raichur. It is found feasible to have tasar production in Belgaum, Karwar, Shimoga, Chickmagalur, South Canara, Mysore, Coorg, Dharwar and Bellary districts. Ericulture has also been introduced at Koila and Gerukatte, both in South Canara district. The State Government have initiated a World Bank aided sericulture development project involving an outlay of Rs. 800 million, which aims at doubling the production of raw silk over the levels existing before initiation of the project, to 4,500 tons during the next 5 years, and generating additional employment to 250,000-man years per annum at the end of 5-year period.

Madhya Pradesh: Is the second largest producer of tasar silk in the country. It is largely based in the districts of Bastar, Bilaspur, Raigarh and Surguja and to a small extent in Ambikapur, Raipur and Mandla districts. Mulberry is also cultivated to a small extent in Dhar, Indore and Sehore districts.

Maharashtra: Bhandara and Chandrapur districts have traditional tasar culture and there is one tasar seed farm at Armori. Mulberry (Tuti) has been successfully experimented at Bhagawati, Kolhar, Shrirampur taluk. Vast areas on either bank of the river Pravara now lying fallow also hold scope for development of mulberry sericulture.

North Eastern Council States: The north-eastern States comprising of Arunachal Pradesh, Assam, Manipur, Meghalaya, Mizoram and Nagaland hold out scope for large-scale development of the non-mulberry sector, more particularly oak tasar in Manipur, Mizoram, Nagaland and Garampani area of Assam. Ericulture is also largely practised in Assam, Arunachal Pradesh, Meghalaya, Mizoram and Tripura. Mugaculture is confined to Assam and parts of Meghalaya. Mulberry sericulture is confined to certain pockets of Assam, Manipur, Mizoram and Tripura. Under the plan programme, expansion of mulberry silk industry in these States has been taken up.

Orissa: Tasar is concentrated in Mayurbhanj and Keonjhar districts. Besides ericulture, mulberry sericulture is also practised to a limited extent.

Punjab: Mulberry silk is produced mainly in the districts of Amritsar, Gurdaspur, Hoshiarpur and to some extent in Ferozepur, Patiala, Ropar and Ludhiana.

Tamil Nadu: The sericultural industry is practised in the districts of Dharmapuri, North Arcot, Salem, Tirunelveli, Periyar, Madurai, Tanjore, Coimbatore and South Arcot. The State Government has a programme to increase mulberry production over about 41,000 hectares by the end of 1984–85 from the existing level of about 8,670 hectares.

Uttar Pradesh: Sericulture industry has been organised on co-operative lines both in the rearing and reeling sectors. The industry is extensively practised in the districts of Dehra Dun, Saharanpur, Nainital, Almora, Bahraich, Tehri Garhwal, Paurigarhwal and to a small extent in the districts of Etawah, Gorakhpur, Bijnore, Moradabad, Gonda, Rampur, Deoria, Meerut, Chamoli, Pithorgarh and Uttarkashi. Seasonal conditions permit raising of two bivoltine cocoon crops and one multivoltine cocoon crop per annum, the latter being raised mainly in the foothills. The State also holds scope for large-scale introduction of oak tasar culture in the hill districts fringing the Himalayas. Already a beginning has been made for systematic development of the industry in the State in collaboration with the Board's Regional Research Station functioning at Bhimtal. Development of tropical tasar in Mirzapur district for the benefit of tribal inhabitants has been programmed.

West Bengal: West Bengal occupies a prestigious position as a producer of both mulberry and tasar silks. It is the second largest producer of mulberry raw silk in the country accounting for nearly 12 per cent of the total output. The industry is practised mainly in the districts of Malda, Murshidabad, Birbhum, Midnapore and Bankura and to some extent in Nadia and West Dinajpur districts. Total area under mulberry is around 10,314 hectares.

Production of tasar silk is confined to the districts of Purulia, Midnapore and Birbhum. Ericulture is practised in Jalpaiguri and Cooch-Behar districts. Production of tasar and eri silk yarn is presently around 9,000 and 8,000 kgs. respectively.

Himachal Pradesh: Rears univoltine mulberry silkworms in Kangra and Mandi districts. The other regions where sericulture is practised are Una/Hamirpur and Nahan districts. Oak tasar rearing is also practised in the forests around Bir.

Manipur: Has both mulberry and eri silk cultivation and a potential for tasar culture. The Government have launched a project for large-scale development of oak tasar for the economic emancipation of tribal inhabitants. A quantity of 15,000 kg. oak tasar has been produced during 1979-80 and it is targetted to produce 50,000 kg. oak tasar silk by the end of VI plan (1984–85).

Tripura: Sericulture has been recently introduced. The State holds promise for large-scale development of mulberry silk industry.

Ranking in the World Market: With a production of 4,193 tonnes of mulberry silk and 612 tonnes of wild silk in 1979–80, India ranked third among the silk producing countries of the world. However, India is the only country in the world which produces the famed golden "muga silk" and is also the second largest producer of tasar silk, next only to the People's Republic of China.

SPUN SILK INDUSTRY: India also produces silkwaste — by-product of reeling sector, which constitutes the basic raw material for the spun silk industry. The total production of silkwaste during 1979–80 was 1,352 tonnes mulberry and 202 tonnes non-mulberry.

There are three spun silk mills, located at Channapatna in Karnataka, Jagi Road in Assam and Bhagalpur in Bihar having an installed spindleage of 7,500, 3,000 and 3,000 respectively.

Tariff Protection: Sericulture industry has been under tariff protection since 1934 which has been extended upto 31st December, 1979. The current rate of protective duty on raw silk is 30 per cent ad valorem plus 5 per cent auxiliary duty.

EXPORTS: Foreign exchange earnings from silk industry (in million Rs.) for the last six years: 1974 — 135·132; 1975 — 157·551; 1976 — 220·504; 1977 — 301·871; 1978 — 419·117; 1979 — 473·378.

IMPORTS of raw silk over the last six years (in million Rs.): 1974 — 4·57; 1975 — 3·76; 1976 — 7·69; 1977 — 19·58; 1978 — 14·25; 1979 — 21·80.

Central Silk Board: Central Silk Board is a statutory body, presently under the administrative control of the Ministry of Commerce. It has been entrusted with the overall responsibility of developing silk industry.

Sericulture is a cottage industry par excellence. With an agricultural base, industrial superstructure and an essentially labour intensive set up, sericulture is an effective tool for generating gainful employment. Presently, it provides whole-time and part-time employment to more than 3·8 million persons in the rural areas of the country.

The headquarters of the Board are located in Bombay. The Board has set up 4 regional offices to ensure close coordination of Central and State efforts to develop the sericulture industry. Head Office: Central Silk Board, 'Meghdoot', 95-B, N. SMALL-SCALE INDUSTRY

DEFINITION: Small-scale industries are the "Undertakings having investment in fixed assets in plant and machinery not exceeding two million rupees."

Production in small-scale units registered with State Directorates of Industries increased to Rs. 113,900 million in 1979-80 as compared to 85,900 million in the previous year.

The number of registered small-scale units in the country rose to 383,636 in 1979 compared to 333,837 in 1978.

The total value of production of small-scale units both registered and unregistered is estimated to have increased from Rs. 168,900 million during 1978-79 to about Rs. 209,300 million during 1979-80.

Exports: The value of exports from small-scale sector is expected to increase from Rs. 9.960 million in 1978-79 to Rs. 11,000 million in 1979-80.

District Industrial Centres: In pursuance of the statement on Industrial Policy (December 1977), the Government of India had decided to set up about 380 District Industrial Centres to promote small industries especially in non-metropolitan areas and to provide under one roof all the support services required by small and village entrepreneurs. By December 1979, 372 DICs had been sanctioned.

During 1978-79, at least 228 DICs had identified 96,013 entrepreneurs, and credit to the tune of about Rs. 865·8 million had been provided to them by financial institutions. About 275,000 persons were expected to have been employed by these assisted entrepreneurs/artisans. During 1979-80, as many as 137,000 units (including over 98,000 artisan-based ones) were expected to be set up, thus providing employment to 542,000 persons. The anticipated flow of funds to the small and decentralised sector assisted by DICs would be about Rs. 3,600 million out of which Rs. 2,356 million would be provided by financial institutions.

However, in the statement on industrial policy in 1980, Government had decided to review the scheme of District Industrial Centres, which apparently has not produced benefits commensurate with the expenditure incurred. Government, therefore, proposes to initiate more effective alternatives.

Ancillary Industries: Ancillary industries are supportive industries to other major industries, services and those manufacturing end products. Ancillary industries have bright scope for development as suppliers of both original equipments and auxiliary supplies to industrial markets and replacement markets. With rapid industrial development and increasing degree of integration of all markets taking place in the country an impetus is set in motion to strengthen forward and backward linkages between all industrial units. Accordingly Government in its new industrial policy statement of July 1980 have recognised setting up of nucleus plants and industries around major organisations to strengthen ancillary development and other allied industrial operations of common procurement, manufacturing and marketing of products. To facilitate the above process of industrial development the Government has also enhanced the ceiling of fixed investment of plant and machinery of a small ancillary undertaking from Rs. 1·5 to Rs. 2·5 million. While the Government will not allow concentration of economic power and monopoly development, it will encourage within the existing regulatory powers and the registering authorities, broadbased industrial development with formal linkages fostered between small units and large units amongst all industries and regions.

Major priority industries like power, transport, communication, electrical and electronics equipment, machine building, consumer durables, chemicals and drugs, rubber and plastics are likely to register higher annual growth and therefore the associated ancillary industries also will register higher growth rate between 10 per cent to 15 per cent annually.

Small Industries Development Organisation have set up Sub-contracting Exchanges in 16 major Small Industries Service Institutes in the country to assist small units to secure short and long term manufacturing service orders from other undertakings.

This service to small units can eventually transform them to become efficient ancillary units and undertake marketing abroad. Government is also extending technical testing and training facilities and assistance to small ancillary units. Fiscal and financial concessions are also periodically announced and extended to these units. Small-scale ancillary units can be promoted and registered for manufacture of any items in the small-scale sector where normally ban exists for other sectors of industries. However, the marketing restrictions and other constraints imposed by the Government for other reasons should be taken note of by the small entrepreneurs.

Registration and Magnitude of Small Scale Sector: Registration of small-scale units with the State Industries Departments is purely on a voluntary basis.

According to the annual report of the Small Industries Development Organisation (SIDO) the small-scale sector accounted for 62 per cent of the production by village and small industries in terms of value added or 23 per cent of the total industrial production in the country.

Employment doubled during the period (1973-74 to 1979-80) from three million to 6·46 million. Exports from this sector totalled Rs. 10,500 million or 16 per cent of the total exports in 1979-80.

In 1980-81, the production in the small-scale sector was estimated at Rs. 280,800 million at current prices.

The Sixth Five-Year plan aims at an 8·7 per cent annual growth in production by the small-scale sector. It is expected that by the end of 1984-85, a production level of Rs. 328,730 million would be achieved. The value of exports from this sector is expected to rise to Rs. 18,500 million and employment to 8·9 million.

The number of items reserved for the small-scale sector has gone up to 834. A total of 379 items have been reserved for exclusive purchase from this sector by Government and Public Sector organisations.

SPICES INDUSTRY

INDIA has always been the traditional home of spices and throughout history been associated with their trade. It was for spices that men from strange lands came to the shores of India and bartered their wares. Spices figure in the country's exports from ancient times.

Indian spices are of the finest quality and today the demand for them has considerably increased in all countries

PEPPER

Pepper, known as the 'King of Spices', is the most important foreign exchange earner. The Indian black pepper is considered to be superior in quality and fetches a better export price.

Pepper production in India accounts for about 20 per cent of the total world production of about 130,000 tonnes. More than 80 per cent of Indian production is exported every year.

A quantity of 326 tonnes of green pepper in brine valued at Rs. 4·897 million, 41·93 tonnes of dehydrated green pepper valued at Rs. 2·14 million and 6·15 tonnes of white pepper valued at Rs. 0·20 million were also estimated to be exported during the year 1979–80.

CARDAMOM

Cardamom, known as the ‘Queen of Spices’ usually earns the second highest amount of foreign exchange among spices. Indian exports amount to 90 per cent of total world exports. State wise break up of area and production during 1979-80 :

State	Area ('000 hectares)	Production ('000 tonnes)

Exports of cardamom (big) during 1978–79 were estimated at 74·3 tonnes valued at Rs. 2·04 million and during 1979–80 at 62·14 tonnes valued at Rs. 1·73 million.

GINGER

India is the leading ginger producing country and accounts for about 50 per cent of dry ginger output in the world. Cochin ginger produced in Kerala State is regarded as second only to Jamaican ginger which is considered to be the best variety in the world.

CHILLIES

The cultivation of chillies is widely scattered throughout the country. Its annual consumption varies from region to region, ranging from about 3·5 kg. per adult in Andhra Pradesh to around 5 kg. per adult in Maharashtra. In Punjab, Bihar, Uttar Pradesh and Orissa consumption is lower. State-wise break up of area and production for 1978–79 is given in the Table II.

Exports during 1978–79 were estimated at 30,259 tonnes valued at Rs. 292·52 million and during 1979–80 at 2,181 tonnes valued at Rs. 20·1 million.

TURMERIC

The major turmeric growing States in India are Andhra Pradesh, Maharashtra, Bihar, Tamil Nadu and Orissa. State-wise break up of area and production during 1978-79 is given in the Table II on p. 86.

Exports during 1978-79 were estimated at 10,299 tonnes valued at Rs. 110·49 million and during 1979-80 at 21,514 tonnes valued at Rs. 162·37 million.

SAFFRON

The major State in India cultivating saffron is Jammu and Kashmir. Area under saffron during 1977-78 was estimated at 3,185 hectares and production 1,164 kg. During 1978-79 it was 3,257 hectares and production 767 kg.

OTHER SPICES

Exports during 1977–78 were estimated at 21,857 tonnes valued at Rs. 148·98 million; during 1978–79 at 54,976 tonnes valued at Rs. 320·84 million; and 1979–80 at 51,983 tonnes valued at Rs. 448·99 million.

Spice Oils and Oleoresins : India has recently emerged as a potential major producer and exporter of spice oils and oleoresins.

GENERAL

Grading of spice commodities according to Agmark specifications has been made compulsory under the Sea Customs Act for export trade. Indian spices exports have increased from 166 million in 1960–61 to Rs. 729·60 millions in 1976–77 (56,000 tonnes) and to Rs. 1,358 millions in 1977–78 (73,000 tonnes). Regulated Market: With a view to preventing exploitation of producers and getting better prices for their produce several markets have been regulated under Agricultural Produce Market Act. About 644 markets for chillies, 331 for turmeric, 283 for garlic, 129 for ginger, 183 for cummin and 345 for other spices have already been regulated in different States of India.

Research : The agricultural research on spices is being carried out at the Central Plantation Crops Research Institute (I.C.A.R.), Kasaragod and its regional and sub-stations. The research on these post harvest technology and processing is being done at Central Food Technological Research Institute, Mysore and its regional centres.

Development : The Central Government has constituted an Indian Spices Development Council consisting of Government officials and non-officials representing the growers and the traders. It reviews the work of development already in progress and recommends further development programmes. These programmes are implemented through the Directorate of Cocoa, Arecanut and Spices Development functioning at 1/500, Cannanore Road, Calicut-673005, Kerala.

Development programme now under implementation are (i) large scale multiplication and distribution of rooted cuttings of hybrid pepper 'Panniyur-I' by establishing nurseries, (ii) production and distribution of seedlings of clove and nutmeg and seed rhizomes of high yielding varieties of ginger and (iii) implementation of a package scheme providing for field demonstrations to promote cultivation of the hybrid pepper and adoption of scientific package of practices etc.

STEEL INDUSTRY

BRIEF HISTORY

ALTHOUGH India occupied a pre-eminent position in iron and steel making in the ancient world, the industry on modern lines is about seventy years old. It came into existence with the launching of the Tata Iron and Steel Works at Jamshedpur, Bihar, in 1907. Before this, a number of attempts were made in different parts of India to start the industry by both private companies and the Government. Kulti Iron Works near Asansol (West Bengal) was one such venture which later became a part of Indian Iron and Steel Company (IISCO).

The Jamshedpur steel works went into operation by stages in 1911–12. In 1919 Indian Iron and Steel Company established a unit near Asansol, West Bengal. Meanwhile the first unit in the public sector was put up in Karnataka on the banks of river Bhadra. Production in Mysore Iron and Steel Works began in 1923.

Upto the end of World War II, these three were the only main units in India producing 1·7 million tonnes of pig iron and a million tonnes of steel ingots annually.

The development of modern steel industry began during the Second Five Year Plan with the setting up of three integrated steel plants in the public sector, each with 1 million tonnes ingot steel capacity at Bhilai, Durgapur and Rourkela. These plants came into operation in stages between 1956 and 1962. During this period capacity of TISCO at Jamshedpur and IISCO at Burnpur was doubled. The total ingot steel capacity thus rose to 6 million tonnes. With the expansion of Bhilai to 2·5 million tonnes ingots, Durgapur to 1·6 million tonnes ingots and Rourkela to 1·8 million tonnes ingots, the total capacity of the integrated steel plants was raised to 8·9 million tonnes between 1962–73. With the establishment of Bokaro Steel Plant in Bihar, ingot capacity within plants has now gone up to 11·4 million tonnes. Bokaro and Bhilai Plants are being further expanded from their present 2·5 million tonnes ingots each to 6 million tonnes ingots steel annually.

Private Sector:

Tata Iron and Steel Company Ltd. (Tisco) (Head Office: Bombay House, Homi Mody St., Bombay 400023) owns, in addition to the integrated steel plant at Jamshedpur, captive collieries at Sijua, Jamadoba and West Bokaro and an iron ore mine at Noamundi all in Bihar State and iron ore, manganese ore, limestone, dolomite and other mines in Orissa. The steel plant at Jamshedpur is the oldest integrated steel plant in the country. The installed capacity of the plant is 2 million tonnes of steel ingots per annum equivalent to about 1·5 million tonnes of saleable steel. The company produces a variety of steel items like bars, structurals, strips, plates, black and galvanised sheets, electrical steel sheets, railway materials and rolled rings, besides ferro-manganese, agricultural tools, sulphate of ammonia and benzol products.

The Steel Authority of India Ltd. (SAIL) was set up under the Companies Act on 24th January 1973, to provide co-ordinated development of both the private and the public sectors — as a holding company. It was restructured with the passing of "the Public Sector Iron and Steel Companies (Restructuring) & Miscellaneous Provisions Act, 1978". The Bill came into force from May 1, 1978. The restructured SAIL has two subsidiaries namely, IISCO and MSTC. The erstwhile subsidiaries of SAIL, MECON, HSCL, NMDC, Mandovi Pallet Ltd., MOIL were put under the direct charge of Ministry of Steel and Mines. The erstwhile Hindustan Steel Limited which controlled the steel plants at Bhilai, Durgapur and Rourkela was merged into SAIL. As such the integrated company of SAIL has its integrated plants at Rourkela, Bhilai, Durgapur, Bokaro and Burnpur. During the financial year 1979-80 SAIL plants produced 6,249,000 tonnes of ingot steel.

Steel Authority of India Ltd. is one of the largest industrial organisations in the world, representing an investment of over Rs. 40,000 million. The company controls all the Public Sector integrated steel plants in India including an alloy steels plant. SAIL also holds shares in the Visvesvaraya Iron & Steel Ltd. SAIL also represents the interests of the public financial institutions' investments in the iron and steel and allied industries. Besides controlling and directing operations of the public sector steel plants and marketing steel, SAIL is also charged with the responsibility of assisting the Government of India in bringing about integrated planning and development of the steel industry in India.

It was started in 1923 as a small blast furnace and was expanded from time to time and is now one of the main producers of alloy and special steels in the country. In addition, it also manufactures ferro-silicon cement, castings, etc. It is now a joint undertaking of the Government of Karnataka and Government of India through SAIL.

New Steel Plants: The Salem Steel Plant is estimated to cost Rs. 5,868 million. The plant will come up in two stages. First stage is estimated to cost Rs. 1,270 million. In this stage a cold rolling mill complex is coming up to roll stainless steel sheets. The plant is in final stages of construction and is scheduled to go into operation by the end of 1981.

Vishakhapatnam Steel Plant: Work on the plant has begun recently. Preliminary surveys and site levelling is almost complete and civil work for foundations has begun

This plant will come up in two stages to have an ultimate capacity of 3 million tonnes of hot metal. Final stage hot metal availability will be 1·62 million tonnes. The plant will have the largest coke ovens among Indian plants (7 metres high), largest blast furnaces 3,200 cu. metres volume and complete continuous casting route. Saleable products will have light and medium merchant products, wire rods, universal beams, billets, etc. Work on first stage is scheduled to be over by 1984–85.

SUGAR INDUSTRY

HISTORY

SUGAR manufacture in India got a spurt after the Government granted it protection in 1932. From dependence on imports the country became self-sufficient within four years thereafter.

In 1931-32 there were an estimated 32 working units. By 1935-36 the number rose to 130. The volume of sugar production which was 162,000 tonnes in 1931–32 increased to 947,000 tonnes by 1935–36.

Location of the Industry: Area under sugarcane cultivation in major producing States in 1979–80 was as follows ('000 hectares): Andhra Pradesh 115: Bihar 120 : Haryana 127 : Karnataka 149 : Maharashtra 222 : Punjab 77 : Tamil Nadu 165 : Uttar Pradesh 1,365 : Total (All India) : 2,666.

GENERAL

On 25th May, 1971, Government decontrolled sugar. A partial control was reimposed with effect from 1st July, 1972, the proportion between levy and free being 60 : 40. However, for the season 1972–73 Government reduced the share of free sugar to 30 leaving the balance 70 per cent for levy. The same position was maintained for the season 1973–74 but for 1974–75 the proportion between levy and free was changed to 65 : 35 respectively. The Government allowed 5 per cent free sugar to sugar industry to cover various cost increases with effect from January, 1975. The same proportions have been extended to 1976–77 and 1977–78 seasons. On 16th August, 1978, sugar was once again decontrolled by the Government of India. With effect from March 1, 1979, the industry adopted a voluntary scheme of regulation of monthly releases and the Government reinstated the monthly release system in the month of June, 1979. The Government imposed complete control on sugar with effect from 17th September, 1979. The policy was revised on 17th December 1979 to that of partial decontrol with 65 per cent for levy and 35 per cent for free sale.

Beet Sugar: Beet sugar has been produced for the first time in India by the State-owned Sri Ganganagar Sugar Mills in Rajasthan. During 1978–79 the plant diffused 191,034 quintals of beet and produced 21,613 quintals of

So far licences/letters of intent have been issued for establishment of 167 co-operative sugar factories. Of these 140 sugar factories are in operation. Others are in various stages of establishment. In the year 1979–80, the co-operative sugar factories produced 2·03 million tonnes of sugar which was about 53 per cent of the total production in the country in that year.

TEA INDUSTRY

BRIEF HISTORY

CHINA is believed to be the original home of the tea plant where it was first introduced as a medicine.

In 1823 the tea plant was discovered growing wild in Assam. It was then that China lost its monopoly of tea trade. The East India Company sent the first shipment of eight chests of Assam tea which were sold in London in May, 1834.

LOCATION OF THE INDUSTRY

The two main tea-growing regions in India are North-East India and South India the break up of which is given in Table I.

Auction Centres: Indian tea is sold through auction centres at Calcutta and Cochin, which are also the major ports for export of tea, where nearly 185 m. kgs. and 78 m. kgs. of tea respectively is sold annually. Tea is also auctioned at Gauhati, Siliguri, Amritsar and Coonoor.

About 35 m. kgs. of Indian tea is sold through the London auction centre, major portion of which is meant for consumption in the U.K.

The Central Government earned about Rs. 395·9 million and 602·2 million during 1978–79 on tea through the export duty and customs and central excise duties respectively.

Instant Tea: The production of instant tea in India is from green leaf rather than from manufactured black tea, as is the practice in the U.S.A. It is manufactured in India by Tata Finlay Ltd. and Food Specialities Ltd. exclusively for export.

Production of Instant Tea in Kgs.: 1971: 254,307; 1972: 237,932; 1973: 214,508; 1974: 350,957; 1975: 276,912; 1976: 588,166; 1977: 735,000; 1978: 638,000.

The United Planters' Association of Southern India (address: Coonoor, Tamil Nadu) has facilities for tea research in south India at the Central Laboratory and Field Station in the Anamallis and a sub-station in Kerala. The scientific problems of the tea industry in the Kangra Valley are looked into by a Tea Experimental Farm located at Palampur. All these tea research establishments in India receive substantial financial assistance from the Government through the Tea Board of India (address: 14, Brabourne Rd., Calcutta-700001) which also maintains a close liaison with these institutions. The Tea Board has its own research centre at Kurseong in Darjeeling Dist. The Tea Board also sponsors and finances independent research projects at different universities and technical institutions to supplement the work of the various tea research establishments in the country.

TOBACCO INDUSTRY

BRIEF HISTORY

ALTHOUGH the official history of the development of tobacco on commercial scale in this country dates back to the advent of the Portuguese in the early 17th century, large number of references to tobacco in Puranic tales and the Ayurveda show that tobacco was known to India from times immemorial.

The black porous soil in certain parts of east India, throughout the Coromandel coast, particularly Guntur, East and West Godavari and Prakasam districts of Andhra Pradesh are considered to be favourable to the growth of quality grades of tobacco.

The present total number of cigarette factories in the private sector is 19, of which 5 are in Maharashtra, 5 in Andhra Pradesh, 2 each in West Bengal and Uttar Pradesh and 1 each in Karnataka, Bihar, Madhya Pradesh, Tamil Nadu and Gujarat. Letters of intent have also been issued to set up cigarette factories. The cigar industry is concentrated in Tamil Nadu, whilst the production of bidis is a cottage industry on a country-wide basis.

The first joint sector cigarette factory at Bari Brahman, 18 kms. south of Jammu has been put up by the state-owned Jammu & Kashmir Industrial Development Corporation and the Golden Tobacco Co. Ltd. The factory has attained a production level of 1·5 million cigarettes per day.

There are about 19 zerda (chewing tobacco) manufacturing factories and 3 snuff factories in the country situated mostly in Tamil Nadu and Uttar Pradesh.

Public Sector: The State Industrial Development Corporation of Assam, Haryana, Jammu and Kashmir, Kerala and Tamil Nadu have each been issued a letter of intent to set up a cigarette manufacturing unit. Each unit will have a capacity of 4,500 million cigarettes annually, except the unit in Assam which will have a capacity to produce 3,000 million pieces per year. An application from the Madhya Pradesh Industrial Development Corporation is reported to be under consideration.

LOCATION OF THE INDUSTRY: The following table gives the area and production of tobacco in India in 1977–78 and 1978–79.

Tobacco is an excisable commodity and its movements, processing and manufacture from the stage of harvesting till it is consumed or exported are controlled by the Central Board of Excise and Customs of the Ministry of Finance.

Research: Research programmes on tobacco are implemented by the Indian Council of Agricultural Research. The Council has initiated an All India Co-ordinated Research Project on tobacco with its headquarters at Anand (Gujarat) with a view to conducting research for all round improvement of Indian tobacco.

The Central Tobacco Research Institute at Rajahmundry in Andhra Pradesh is mainly devoted to the investigation of fundamental problems connected with various aspects of tobacco. It also co-ordinates the work of other tobacco experimental farms and research stations (listed below), spread all over the country, which are carrying out research on different types of tobacco grown in the concerned regions.

1. Tobacco Research Station, Guntur, Andhra Pradesh.
2. Tobacco Research Station, Pusa, Bihar.
3. Bidi Tobacco Research Scheme, Anand, Gujarat.
4. Tobacco Research Station, Hunsur, Karnataka.
5. Bidi Tobacco Research Station, Nipani, Karnataka.
6. Tobacco Research Station, Vedasandur, Tamil Nadu.
7. Tobacco Research Station, Dinhata, West Bengal.

India Tobacco Co. Ltd., and their sister concern Indian Leaf Tobacco Development Co. Ltd. are conducting research on various aspects of tobacco at their research centre in Rajahmundry, Andhra Pradesh. Recently the company has established an integrated research centre at Bangalore.

The Indian Tobacco Development Council of the Government, formulates the tobacco development programmes, reviews the progress and considers the problems of marketing, trade and price policy.

The Tambaku Vikas Nideshalaya (Directorate of Tobacco Development) in the Ministry of Agriculture, with its headquarters at 3-A, Eldams Rd., Teynampet, Madras 600018, implements the development schemes, channels Government finances and renders technical advise and guidance.

Besides the development schemes, Tobacco Extension Units are also operating in the tobacco growing areas under the control of Agricultural Departments of the State Governments for educating and training the farmers in the improved methods of harvesting, handling and curing of tobacco.

The average Per Hectare Yield of tobacco in India during the last few years is given in the table below:

IMPORTS

The trend in imports of raw wool and other raw materials during 1976–77 to 1979–80 was as follows (value in million Rs.): 1976–77 : 389·93 ; 1977–78 : 322·662 ; 1978–79 : 234·967 ; 1979–80 : 182·613.

PRODUCTION

India's 42 million sheep produce about 35 million kgs. of raw wool each year. Fifty per cent of this is below 40s count. Some of it is exported and the rest used for making coarse garments and carpets.

GENERAL

Pashmina: Of the total 91,073 goats in Ladakh 70,000 are Pashmina bearing. A joint effort of the State and Central Governments is afoot to increase the size and production of Pashmina goats by cross breeding them with the Goran Altaksyia breed from U.S.S.R. and Angora bucks from Turkey.

With these measures the yield per goat is expected to increase from about 400 gms. at present to 1 kg. The maximum yield of Pasham wool recorded so far is 700 gms. the minimum being 200 gms. This means that the production of Pasham wool in Ladakh will increase from about 28,000 kgs. at present to 70,000 kgs. in due course.

A research project at Dhule, Maharashtra initiated by the Raymond Woollen Mills Ltd., Thane, spread over 4,100 hectares of forest land is engaged in intensive research to develop a sheep breed which will yield more wool per sheep. After several years of intensive research the farm has established a new breed of Indian Merino christened as "Gopal Merino".

DROUGHT

BACKGROUND

CONSTANT famine conditions in India compelled the British Government to appoint a commission in 1878 to draft the Famine Code which was formalised in 1883.

On an average the country receives 60.64 million cubic cms. of rain. But there is a variation in the seasonal and the annual distribution of rainfall. Some parts of Rajasthan get as low as 12.70 cms. of rain while hills of Assam get as much as 1,270 cms. About 12 per cent of the country's area receives less than 61 cms. of rain on an average and only 8 per cent more than 254 cms.

Drought : Though the definition of drought varies widely, drought in India refers to a situation when the normal rainfall is 5 mm or less for the week. Agricultural drought is a period of 4 such consecutive weeks in the period from the middle of May to the middle of October or 6 such consecutive weeks during the rest of the year. Droughts have been occuring, periodically, largely due to the variability of south-west monsoon from which 80 per cent of the annual rainfall is received during the period from June to September in most parts of the country. Not only a low rainfall but untimely distribution of fairly high rainfall can also lead to droughts. Approximate probability of deficient rainfall (deficiency equal to 25 per cent or more of the normal) is once in 4 to 5 years over large areas of the country.

In India, as many as 128 districts accounting for about 68 million hectares have low to medium rainfall under 1,125 mm. annually, and these also have very limited irrigation facilities. Of these districts, 25 are characterised by very poor rainfall in the range of 375-750 mm. annually with an irrigated area of 5-10 per cent of the cropped area. Another 91 of these districts receive annual rainfall ranging from 750 to 1,125 mm. The total net sown area in these districts is 42 million hectares of which about 5 million hectares are irrigated. Agriculture in these dry farming areas is faced with the twin problems of low productivity and high instability. Since, by and large, drought regions have low water resources, they may have to depend on rainfed agriculture with its attendant risk of instability in years of bad monsoon.

The chronically affected drought areas account for 19 per cent of the total geographical area of the country and 12 per cent of its population. With the exception of Kerala in the South, Punjab in the North and the States of North-Eastern region, every State in India has one or more drought-prone districts. Nearly 56 per cent of the geographical area of Rajasthan falls within the category of drought-prone areas; in terms of population the coverage is 33 per cent. Next to Rajasthan comes Andhra Pradesh, where about 50 per cent of the geographical area and 22 per cent of the population is within the ambit of the drought-prone areas. In Gujarat, about 29 per cent of the geographical area and about 18 per cent of the population are within the purview of the areas characterised as drought-prone. In Karnataka, the corresponding figures are 25 per cent and 22 per cent. These areas are the major factor contributing to regional imbalances in the country. Every third year, about 3 million inhabitants of arid zones take to migration with their livestock. These areas also remain a continuous source of strain on the financial resources of the country. The Irrigation Commission Report (1972) indicated the drought and chronic drought areas as follows:

(1) Drought areas (20 per cent probability of rainfall deficiency of more than 25 per cent of normal): Gujarat, Rajasthan and adjoining parts of Punjab, Haryana, West Uttar Pradesh and West Madhya Pradesh, Madhya Maharashtra, Interior Karnataka, Rayalaseema, South Telangana and parts of Tamil Nadu, a small portion of North-West Bihar and adjoining East Uttar Pradesh, and a small portion of North-East Bihar and adjoining portion of West Bengal.

(2) Chronically Drought Affected areas (40 per cent probability of rainfall deficiency of more than 25 per cent of normal): West Rajasthan and Cutch.

Drought-Prone Areas Programme (DPAP): Over the Plan period, several measures have been taken for the development of drought-prone areas. These include: (a) development of irrigation; (b) formulation of schemes specifically designed to benefit the drought-prone/dry areas; (c) agricultural research specifically oriented towards the problems of the low rainfall areas; (d) scarcity relief which also helped in creating additional production potential and provision of services like drinking water supply; and (e) special programmes like Emergency Agricultural Production Programme.

Drought-Prone Areas Programme (formerly known as the Rural Works Programme) which made a beginning in 1970-71 has been in operation in 54 districts primarily and contiguous areas of another 20 districts which have been identified as chronically drought prone. These districts have been identified on the following criteria:

(i) Incidence and pattern of rainfall; (ii) percentage of irrigated areas to the total area; and (iii) the frequency of drought over a period of time.

Gujarat: Panchmahals; Kutch; Jamnagar; Rajkot; Amreli; Banaskantha; Surendranagar. Haryana: Mohindergarh; Bhiwani; Rohtak. Jammu & Kashmir: Doda. Karnataka: Bijapur; Chitradurga; Kolar; Dharwar; Belgaum. Madhya Pradesh: Jhabua; Dhar; Sidhi; Betul. Maharashtra: Ahmednagar; Sholapur; Nasik; Pune; Satara; Sangli. Orissa: Kalahandi; Boudh Phulbani. Rajasthan: Jaisalmer; Barmer; Pali; Jalore; Bikaner; Churu; Jodhpur; Banswara; Nagaur; Dungarpur. Tamil Nadu: Dharmapuri; Ramanathapuram. Uttar Pradesh: Mirzapur; Banda; Allahabad; Varanasi; Hamirpur; Jalaun. West Bengal: Purulia; Midnapur; Bankura.

Contiguous areas selected under Drought-prone Areas Programme:

Andhra Pradesh: Ongole; Nalgonda. Gujarat: Mehsana; Ahmedabad; Bhavnagar. Jammu & Kashmir: Udhampur. Karnataka: Gulbarga; Raichur; Bellary; Tumkur; Chikmagalur. Madhya Pradesh: Khargaon; Shahdol. Rajasthan: Udaipur (Kharwara); Ajmer; Jhunjhunu.

Agricultural Research Oriented Towards Low Rainfall Areas: The All India Co-ordinated Research Project on dry land farming was introduced in 1970 in 15 centres and 9 sub-centres. Canadian assistance for this scheme was obtained under an Indo-Canadian agreement. This project provides research base for the integrated pilot dry land farming project. The Central Arid Zone Research Institute was also established at Jodhpur in 1959 and has been functioning as a focal point on research on agricultural problems of arid areas.

Loss due to drought in 1979: In 1979 drought had affected 97 districts in 11 States. The worst hit had been Andhra Pradesh, Bihar, Haryana, Himachal Pradesh, Jammu & Kashmir, Madhya Pradesh, Maharashtra, Orissa, Rajasthan, Uttar Pradesh and West Bengal. It is estimated that about 38 million hectares of cropped area, 200 million people and 123 million cattle were affected. The loss of kharif foodgrains alone is estimated to be over 10 million tonnes.

Relief: Nearly Rs. 1,569.5 million have been allocated for relief measures during 1979. Another sum of Rs. 1,100 million has been made available for development under various schemes. It has also been decided to import 20 drilling rigs to augment the supply of potable water in the drought-prone areas. Further one million tonnes of foodgrains have been earmarked for the affected States.

FLOODS

GAUGING STATIONS: The Central Water Commission is maintaining about 420 key gauging stations on various rivers of the country (excluding the Indus System) to WMO standards to collect accurate and reliable data of river flows for a scientific study of the country's surface water potential. These national stations are supplemental to observations that are being made by various States.

Surface Water Resources: According to the studies made by CW&PC in 1949, the total annual flow of all the river systems in India comes to 1,672,599 m.cu.m. (1,356 million acre feet). Another appraisal of the water resources of the country made in 1960 based largely on statistical analysis of the flow-data and on suitable rainfall run off relationship (wherever observed data was meagre) puts the total flow at 1,881,057 m.cu.m. (1,525 million acre feet). Scientific observations for various river systems are underway to assess the firm water potential of the country. Only one-third of water resources available in the country could be used for utilisable purposes.

Floods: Floods are almost an annual occurrence. The flood havoc is acute in the Ganga and Brahmaputra basins. The states affected by floods are Bihar, Uttar Pradesh, West Bengal and Assam as well as Orissa. As much as 60 per cent of the flood damage is caused by the Himalayan rivers.

Flood-prone river basins are: Sutlej, Beas, Ghaggar, Upper Yamuna and Yamuna (Sahibi), Upper Ganga, Gomti, Ghagra, Rapti, Gandak, Burhi Gandak, Bagmati, Kamla, Kosi, Mahananda, Sone, Punpun, Ajoy and Rupnarayan.

It is estimated that flood control measures taken since initiation of Flood Control Programme in 1954 have afforded protection to about 11 million h.a. till March, 1980.

According to the recent assessment made, the flood-prone area in the country is of the order of 40 million ha. of which about 32 million ha. can be considered as protectable area.

The region traversed by the Himalayan rivers is also subject to earthquakes and land-slides, which make large areas flood-prone. Growing frequency of floods in Andhra Pradesh, Maharashtra, Gujarat and Rajasthan is largely due to deforestation.

Flood Tool: As a result of floods in 1980, 1,868 people died in 19 States and in the Union Territory of Delhi. Uttar Pradesh recorded the largest number of deaths (1,309) followed by Andhra Pradesh (88), Orissa (73), Bihar (67). The floods affected over 54 million people and 5.6 million ha. of cropped area. Besides, 59,699 heads of cattle perished and 2.5 million houses were damaged. The total loss amounted to Rs. 8,556 million.

Flood Control: Since the initiation of flood control programme in 1954, considerable progress has been made in protecting areas from floods. The amount earmarked has also increased in successive plans. During the Fourth Plan the outlay on flood control was Rs. 1,330 million. In the Fifth Plan it rose to Rs. 3,453 million. In the Sixth Plan 1980-85 an outlay of Rs. 11,500 million has been proposed.

The Working Group on flood control for Sixth Plan (1980-85) set up by the Planning Commission, has proposed an outlay of nearly Rs. 16,000 million for this sector. This includes required outlay for modernising flood forecasting system and for flood plain zoning.

As per the assessment of the Working Group, an area of about 5 million ha. is likely to be afforded reasonable protection with this outlay.

Progress Summary: To summarise the progress of the various flood control schemes since the launching of the National Flood Control Plan in 1954 to the end of March 1980, protective measures have covered 11 million ha. out of the estimated total of 40 million ha. regarded as flood-prone. These measures comprised the following: 11,870 kms. of embankments, 21,370 kms. of drainage channels, 297 town protection schemes and raising of 4,700 villages above flood level.

In spite of these measures the damage due to floods has shown a rising trend. A synoptic account of flood damage is furnished in the table on previous page with the damage to crops given in brackets.

ENERGY

IRRIGATION

SINCE the beginning of planned development in 1951 over 149 major and 785 medium projects were taken up for execution. Of these 40 major and 500 medium have been fully completed and the rest partially commissioned.

Thus, the irrigation potential created from major and medium projects, which was only 9.7 million hectares in 1951, was 26.9 m.ha. at the end of 1979-80, against the ultimate irrigation potential of 58.5 m.ha.

Progress of Irrigation Development: Prior to 1951, the total area irrigated in the country was 22.6 m. ha. (9.7 m. ha. by major and medium projects and 12.9 m. ha. by minor schemes). The irrigation potential increased to 52.1 m. ha. at the end of the 5th Plan in 1977-78 out of which 24.8 m.ha. was created by major and medium projects and 27.3 m. ha. by minor projects. The actual additional irrigation potential created during the 4 years of the 5th Plan, ending March 1980, was 7.9 m. ha. (4.1 m. ha. through major and medium projects and 3.8 m. ha. from minor irrigation schemes).

Water Potential: The total water resources are assessed at 178 million hectare metres. However, because of limitations of physiography, topography, geology, dependability, quality and the present state of technology only a fraction of this will be utilised.

The land area that can be ultimately irrigated has been assessed to be 113.5 million hectares as against possible gross cropped area of 210 million hectares of full development of irrigation potential.

Expenditure: The following table gives details of expenditure incurred and potential created from major and minor irrigation programmes during the various Plans.

	Outlay in million Rs.	Additional irrigation potential created in million hectares
Pre-Plan	N. A.	9.7
1st Plan (1951-56)	3,800	2.5
Annual Plans (1966-69)	4,340	1.5
4th Plan (1969-74)	12,370	2.6

Programme for (1979-80): There has been a substantial increase in the outlay of major and medium irrigation programme from Rs. 10,340 million in 1978-79 to Rs. 11,130 million in 1979-80 with a target of creation of additional irrigation potential of 1.13 m. ha.

Minor Irrigation: There were 1.74 million tubewells in 1977-78 as against 3,000 in 1950-51. During this period there was a phenomenal increase in pumpsets from 30,000 to 5 million. The number of dug-wells was 7.7 million.

During 1978-79, the target was to add 3,500 public tubewells, 225,000 private tubewells, 275,000 dug-wells, and 353,000 electrical pumpsets.

There has, however, been a great imbalance in the development and exploitation of minor irrigation resources in the various regions. Whereas states like Punjab, Haryana (in the north), and Tamil Nadu and Andhra Pradesh (in the south) with 20 per cent of the total groundwater resources, have 50 per cent of the total number of pumpsets in the country, the eastern states, like Orissa, West Bengal, Bihar and Uttar Pradesh with 50 per cent of the groundwater resources have only 15 per cent of the pumpsets.

One of the reasons for this imbalance is the non-availability of electricity in rural areas.

Although agriculture contributes 50 per cent to the Gross National Product, it receives only 15 per cent of the total electricity sold.

The requirement of electricity for minor irrigation will go up from the present 8.5 billion units to 23.7 billion units by 1982-85.

POWER

Rural Electrification: Out of the 570,000 villages in the country, nearly 250,000 had been electrified by March 21, 1980. The total number of pumpsets energised were nearly 2.95 million.

Total Capacity and Energy Generation: The last decades saw a massive increase in installed generating capacity from 2,300 Mw in 1951 to the 1980 level of 31,000 Mw. From a unit size of five to ten Mw used in 1947 the country had graduated to 200 Mw units. So far 18 steam power plants of 200 Mw units had been installed and 13 of these were in commercial operation.

The nation is in the process of installing its first 500 Mw unit at Trombay. Similar units would be installed at Singrauli. During the next seven years, it had been programmed to add five such units elsewhere.

In 1979-80, 105 billion units of power were generated (an increase of 2.12 per cent over the previous year). In 1980-81, 115 billion units are expected to be generated, (9 per cent increase over the previous year).

Future Power Programme: The total installed capacity of 26,000 M.W. available in March, 1978, is proposed to be increased to about 446,000 MW by the end of 1982-83.

India has plans to add 20,000 MW of new generating capacity during 1980-85 and has also identified 27,000 MW of new projects for the Seventh Plan period.

Per Capita Consumption: The per capita consumption in March, 1979 was 131 units as compared to 121 units for the previous year. It was only 17.8 kwh in 1950-51.

The number of consumers went up to 26.363 million (anticipated) by the end of March, 1979 against 1.501 million in Dec., 1950 and 25.139 million (Provisional) in March, 1978.

Pattern of Energy Sales (Utilities): Percentage of total sales (March 1979): Domestic light and small power–10.3; commercial light and small power — 6.1; industrial power — 60.8; agricultural pumping — 14.8; railway traction — 3.7; others — 4.3.

Resources: Hydro: The Central Water and Power Commission survey done in 1953-59 placed the potential from this source at 221 TWH of energy generation per annum equivalent to a continuous output of 25.26 million kw.

This estimate, however, did not include the seasonal energy generation, particularly from schemes located in the Himalayan region which are mostly run-of-river type developments. The potential of small schemes was also not included which could be covered only by site investigations.

Subsequent surveys by State Governments indicated a much higher potential.

Of the 57 schemes cleared this year 14 are hydro-electric schemes with a capacity of 3,078 MW and ten thermal schemes with a capacity of 3,078 MW. Thirtythree schemes pertain to transmission and distribution projects involving construction of transmission lines of various voltages upto 400 KV and associated sub-station.

In 1980-81, power production is expected to be 69 billion units from thermal plants, and 46 billion units from the hydro projects.

Coal: Coal-based thermal power stations contribute about 56.6 per cent of the total power generation. The coal consumption of public utility power station was expected to go upto 31 million tonnes during 1978-79 from 29.8 million tonnes in 1977-78.

The latest estimates place the reserves of coal at 111,660 million tonnes. Of these resources about 22,600 million tonnes are of the coking variety and 89,000 million tonnes of non-coking variety.

The total lignite reserves are estimated at about 2,100 million tonnes of which 1,900 million tonnes are estimated to be around Neyveli. The reserves of tertiary coal is estimated at 900 million tonnes.

Oil and Gas: Oil and gas have played an extremely limited role in the production of electricity. India has a large sedimentary area covering 1.41 million sq. kms. of land and 0.26 million sq. kms. off-shore, which are considered as potential oil bearing regions. Only a few gas turbine power plants, located close to oil and gas wells and refineries, and diesel power plants in isolated regions and some industrial establishments for providing standby power supply exist.

Nuclear Energy: Nuclear power generation was initiated in 1969 with the commissioning of the Tarapur Atomic Power Station with an installed capacity of 420 M.W. The following nuclear power stations are under construction:

1. Rajasthan Atomic Power Station (near Kota) 2 x 200 MW.
2. Madras Atomic Power Station (near Kalpakkam) 2 x 235 MW.
3. Narora Atomic Power Station (Uttar Pradesh) 2 x 235 MW.

Of this the first unit of 200 MW at RAPS was commissioned in December 1973. The second unit of RAPS is in an advanced stage of erection.

At present the capacity of nuclear power plants in the country is 640 MW and they contribute about 2,200 million kwh.

Non-Conventional Sources of Energy: During the last three years considerable attention has been devoted to the possibilities of using solar energy, geo-thermal energy, tidal power and wind power. Solar energy is the most promising of the non-conventional sources of energy in India.

Solar Energy: The minimum and average solar radiation in some representative locations in India is given below:

Madras ..	765	605	720
Bangalore ..	746	562	668
Bombay ..	795	542	701
Calcutta ..	817	501	681
Delhi ..	827	421	655
Srinagar ..	738	239	631

Solar energy and bio-gas offer the greatest scope and very high priority has been accorded for their development. IIT (Madras), Bharat Heavy Electricals Ltd. and the National Physical Laboratories are associated with a West German firm to develop a 10 k.w. solar power generation unit for demonstration.

Geo-thermal Energy: Western Himalayas and the west coast are areas where geo-thermal manifestations occur. A project for carrying out explorations to establish geo-thermal potential is under way with help from UNDP. Present indications are geo-thermal energy would have very limited potential.

Tidal Power: Investigations on the use of tidal power have been carried out and the Gulfs of Kutch and Cambay on the West Coast and the Sunderbans areas on the East Coast have been identified as areas where tidal range is fairly high and where tidal power could be developed.

It is estimated that a single basin development would provide an annual energy potential of 15,400 gwh, with an installation of about 7,400 MW in the Gulf of Cambay and 3,000 gwh with an installation of 1,200 MW in the Gulf of Kutch. The sites in the Sunderbans area can provide outputs of only about 1,500 to 2,000 kw with annual energy potential of 3 gwh.

The main problem with tidal energy relates to the high initial cost, the variable nature of the output and the technical and economic problems involved in firming up this power.

Wind Power: It has been found that by and large wind velocities are low and winds are not steady enough to permit any significant use of this source of energy. Research and development work on development of suitable wind-mill designs for lifting water and generating electricity along the coasts and on the hills, is in progress.

Bio-gas: The programme of bio-gas development, as implemented till 1977 was oriented to establishing small size plants to serve the needs of individual families. This programme has been inadequate to harness the large bio-gas potential rapidly.

For economic and accelerated development of bio-gas potential, the government has found it essential to develop large size bio-gas plants serving a whole village.

India had only 85,000 plants in 1980-81. KVIC has proposed construction of 650,000 gobar gas (additional) plants during the Sixth Plan. As a consequence, the production of gas would be 1,597.44 million cu.metres valued at Rs. 1,528.9 million and manure of 17.18 million tonnes valued at Rs. 814 million. Together, the production would be Rs. 2,342.9 million in 1984-85. This is indeed a big task.

National Power Grid: In order to extend the concept of integrated operations of systems from regions to the all India level, it is necessary to develop a National Power Grid. With the plans on hand, for construction of power stations with large capacity units, it has become necessary to adopt higher voltages for the transmission of power. Since the parameters involved are large and the associated problems complex, for efficient integrated operation, computerisation has become inescapable. Accordingly, System Planning Studies are being done in the CEA in association with Messrs. Teshment of Canada for developing the optimal EHV network requirements on a long-term basis. The 400 kv system to be developed in the next 5-6 years would be shortly finalised. It is anticipated that about 16,000 circuit kms. of 400 kv lines would be required to be constructed in the next 5 years. For the first time a 400 kv line between Obra and Sultanpur in Uttar Pradesh was test-charged in December, 1977. Action is underway for establishing the National Load Despatch Centre at New Delhi. The present status of integrated operations of the power systems in the country is summarised as follows:

(i) In the Northern, Western, and Southern regions, all the constituent systems are interconnected and are operating in an integrated manner.

(ii) In the Eastern Region, the Bihar, West Bengal, DPL and DVC and Orissa Systems are interconnected. While the West Bengal, DPL and DVC Systems are operating in parallel, the Orissa Systems (which is operating in parallel with the Southern Region) is catering to certain loads in Bihar radially.

(iii) In the North-Eastern Region, the Assam and Meghalaya Systems are operating in parallel. Mizoram, Nagaland and Arunachal Pradesh are partly fed from Assam.

FORESTS

TOTAL forests: 75 mill. hectares. Percentage of forests to land: 22.8; Per capita forest area 0.13 hectares as compared to world average of 1.08 hectares. An average of 3.6 million people are engaged in forestry activities.

By composition, coniferous forests constitute 4.2 million hectares, the broad-leaved species such as sal and teak aggregate 61.2 million hectares, while miscellaneous trees and bamboo forests account for 9.6 million hectares. The forests are owned by the State (95.2 per cent), by corporate bodies (3.1 per cent) and by private individuals (1.7 per cent).

The forests are unevenly distributed and the production is also proportionately low, being only 0.5 cu. m. per hectare per year as against the world average of 2.1 cu. m. per hectare. Forests are located mostly in hilly terrain or remote interior areas where communications are not properly developed. Madhya Pradesh has the maximum forest area and accounts for about 23 per cent of the country's total forest area. Other important wood-rich States are Andhra Pradesh, Assam, Himachal Pradesh, Karnataka, Maharashtra, Orissa, Rajasthan, Uttar Pradesh and Andaman and Nicobar Islands.

Classification: Forests in India can be broadly classified in the following major groups: (i) Tropical forest; (ii) Montane sub-tropical forest; (iii) Montane temperate forest and (iv) Alpine forest.

Each of these groups has a number of types which are in turn divided into sub-types. 16 broad climatic forest groups are recognised in this country. These are:

1. Tropical West Evergreen Forest — 4.5 million hectares including semi-evergreen forests (Parts of Assam, West Bengal, Karnataka, Kerala and Andaman and Nicobar Islands).
2. Tropical Semi-Evergreen Forest—1.9 million hectares (Parts of Assam, West Bengal, Orissa and Andamans).
3. Tropical Moist Deciduous Forest — 22.4 million hectares (Parts of Andamans, Uttar Pradesh, Madhya Pradesh, Maharashtra, Karnataka, Orissa, Tamil Nadu and Kerala).
4. Tropical Dry Deciduous Forest — 29.7 million hectares (Almost all over India).
5. Littoral and Swamp Forests — 0.7 million hectares (Deltas of big rivers).
6. Tropical Thorn Forest—5.2 million hectares (Parts of Punjab, Haryana, Rajasthan, Uttar Gangetic plains, the Deccan Plateau and Lower Peninsular India).
7. Tropical Dry Evergreen Forests—0.1 million hectares (Restricted to a small area of the East Coast in Tamil Nadu).
8. Sub-Tropical Dry Evergreen Forests—0.2 million hectares (Siwaliks and the Western Himalayas up to about 1,000 m).
9. Sub-Tropical Broad-leaved Hill Forests — 0.3 million hectares (Lower slopes of the Himalayas in W. Bengal and Assam and other hill ranges such as Khasi Hills, Nilgiris and Mahableshwar).
10. Sub-Tropical Pine Forests — 3.7 million hectares (North-West Himalayas, between 1,000 m to 1,800 m and in Khasi, Manipur and Naga Hills).
11. Montane Wet Temperate Forests — 1.6 million hectares (Tamil Nadu and Kerala above 1,500 m and in the Eastern Himalayas, viz., W. Bengal, Assam, Arunachal Pradesh from 1,800 m to 3,000 m).
12. Himalayan Moist Temperate Forests — 2.7 million hectares including dry temperate forests. (Entire length of Himalayas between the pine and sub-alpine forests in Kashmir, Himachal Pradesh, Punjab, Uttar Pradesh and Sikkim between 1,500 m to 3,300 m).
13. Himalayan Dry Temperate Forests — 0.2 million hectares (Inner ranges of the Himalayas where S-W monsoon is very feeble).
14. Sub-Alpine Forests
15. Moist Alpine Scrub
16. Dry Alpine Scrub

Over 16 per cent of the total forest area is inaccessible and 45 per cent of these could yield timber and other forest products.

Education and Research: Forest research and education are centralised in the Forest Research Institute and Colleges located at Dehra Dun and its regional centres all over the country. The Institute is recognised by the F.A.O. as a centre for training in forestry for South-East Asia

The Forest Research Institute and Colleges are under the administrative control of the Ministry of Agriculture and Irrigation (Dept. of Agriculture), Government of India. Its administrative head is designated the President. It has under its control four Regional Forest Research Centres, one each at Bangalore, Jabalpur, Coimbatore and Barnihat to deal with the special problems pertaining to the area. Forestry education is imparted through Indian Forest College and Northern Forest Ranges College at Dehra Dun and State Forest Service College. Southern Forest Rangers College, Eastern Forest Rangers College and Central Forest Rangers College at Barnihat, Coimbatore, Kurseong and Chandrapur respectively.

The institute has five directorates working under the President, viz. (1) The Directorate of Forest Education training professional foresters for Indian Forest Service, State Forest Service and Rangers for Centre and the States; (2) the Directorate of Forestry Research with ten branches — the silviculture branch, the logging branch, the forest genetics branch, the minor forest products branch, the forest economics branch, the forest ecology branch, the forest physiology branch, the forest influences branch, the forest soils branch, and the forest management and mensuration branch; (3) the Directorate of Biological Research with four branches—the systematic botany branch, the forest pathology branch, the entomology branch and the wood anatomy branch; (4) the Directorate of Forest Products Research with eight branches—the wood seasoning branch, the composite wood branch, the cellulose and paper branch, the timber mechanics branch, the timber engineering branch, the chemistry of forest products branch, the wood preservation branch and the wood working, saw milling and finishing branch; (5) the Directorate of Wildlife Research & Training.

Besides forestry training, the institute also imparts training in wood seasoning, wood preservation and pulp and paper technology and also imparts vocational training in forest based industries. It also provides research facilities for post M.Sc. and post doctorate research on forestry subjects to university scholars.

To train Indian Forest Service personnel in modern business aspect of forest resource management, an Indian Institute of Forest Management has been established recently in Ahmedabad with the assistance of Swedish International Development Agency.

Central Schemes: During the Fifth Five Year Plan the Govt. has sanctioned the implementation of 47 research schemes dealing with various aspects of forestry. Out of them 8 schemes are in the Directorate of Forestry Research, 7 in the Directorate of Biological Research, 10 in the Directorate of Forest Products Research, 5 in the Directorate of Forest Education, 1 in the Directorate of Wild Life Education & Research and 6 in the Publicity and other Central Branches. In addition, there are 10 field-oriented schemes for carrying out research in different climate and edaphic regions.

These satellite research centres are also expected to provide necessary extension support to bring about greater cohesion between research and implementation of the research results in the field. The problem-oriented multi-disciplinary research centres are carrying out research on the following aspects:—(i) Method of cultivation, exploitation, processing and storage of important minor forest products; (ii) Chemical and biological control of weeds; (iii) Survey, classification and determination of soil characteristics and correlating the same to vegetation; (iv) Identifying species and provenances of tropical pines and investigation of the most economic and effective method of raising plantations with a view to bridging the gap between demand and supply for coniferous pulpwood; (v) Study of hydrological behaviour of watersheds and effect of vegetation on atmospheric precipitation, run-off and soil loss; (vi) Raising cash crops in conjunction with forest vegetation and their economics; (vii) Setting up of seed banks, seed improvement and tree breeding centres to develop genetically superior and disease resistant strains for forest species; (viii) Best method of tapping for increased production of resin; (ix) Combat spike disease of sandal, including investigation on host-parasite relationship; (x) Establishment of popular research centres aimed at increasing production of industrial wood to meet the anticipated raw material shortage; (xi) Establishment of eucalyptus research centre to identify suitable species and provenances and their planting techniques for higher yield of pulpwood; (xii) Setting up a high level coniferous research centre to identify factors affecting natural and artificial regeneration so as to evolve suitable natural and artificial regeneration techniques of selected coniferous species for plantation in spruce-silver fir zone with a view to augmenting production of industrial wood; (xiii) cold desert afforestation research and demonstration centre.

Development Programmes: Forestry development includes elements such as rehabilitation of degraded forests, soil and moisture conservation, farm forestry, road-side and canal bank plantation, creation of wind breaks, wood lots on community land and pasture development. Emphasis is being laid on arresting the process of deforestation both for ecological reasons and to check soil erosion.

The programme of pasture development is being linked with sheep development through a scientific selection of suitable grass species for different agro-climatic zones. It is also expected that farm forestry would provide enough fuel wood for consumption so that organic manure will be available for utilisation on the soils for crop production. During 1976-77 plantation was undertaken on 176,500 hectares. Farm forestry and extension forestry was undertaken on 2,323 hectares and 639 kms. respectively. An area of 6,261 hectares was also brought under improved pastures.

Forest Produce: The forest produce can be broadly divided into two groups:—

(ii) Minor forest produce — the commercially important items under this are bamboos, canes, gums, resins, dyes, tans, lac, fibres, floss and medicinal plant material.

Government is the largest timber producing agency in the country. Sale of timber is done mostly by auction and in standing form.

Teak is by far the most important species which occurs over an area of 8.9 million hectares. More than 50 per cent of total area under teak is in Madhya Pradesh. The next are the States of Maharashtra, Andhra Pradesh, Karnataka, Kerala and Gujarat.

Sal ranks next to teak in its utility and value. Sal forests cover an area of 11.6 million hectares and are distributed in Assam, Bihar, Madhya Pradesh, Orissa, Tripura, Uttar Pradesh and West Bengal.

Cedrus deodara (Deodara) is by far the most important coniferous species highly valued as constructional timber.

Pinus roxburghii (Chir pine) ranks second best for constructional purposes and for resin. Abies pindrow (Fir) and Picea smithiana (Spruce) represent the valuable long fibre resource for pulp and paper industry.

The total production of wood is estimated at 26.5 million cu.m. of which 11.1 million cu.m. constitute industrial wood. Fuel wood production is 15.4 million cu.m. including wood for charcoal. This represents an increase of about 15 per cent over the production figures of 1966.

There are about 3,000 saw mill units. Their capacities range from 10 tonnes to 200 tonnes per day. There is an increasing tendency of opening departmental saw mills in various forest departments to obtain rational utilisation of forest produce. Some of the saw mills have introduced their own seasoning kilns.

Exports and Imports of forest products: The exports of total forest products (major and minor) went up from Rs. 656 million in 1973-74 to Rs. 858 million in 1974-75. On the other hand, imports during 1974-75 showed an increase and stood at Rs. 766 million as against Rs. 463 million in 1973-74.

Forest Development Corporations: Have been set up in selected States and Union Territories. These, apart from attracting institutional finance would promote marketing of timber and other forest produce, and also make available industrial and fuel wood. By 1978-79, 16 forest development corporations had been set up and were expected to achieve a target of 35,000 hectares of plantation and create employment for 13 million man-days during the year.

Preservation of Wild Life: Wild Life Protection Act, 1972 which governs the wild life conservation and protection of endangered species both inside and outside forest areas, has been extended to most of the States and Union Territories.

Trade in wild life and its products has been brought under the purview of the Act, and further restrictions have been imposed on the export trade of a number of animals, birds and their products. The export of rare and endangered species has been totally banned and a number of other products have been brought under quota system to regulate the export.

During 1978-79, a high-altitude National Park, known as 'Kanchanjunga National Park', was set up in Sikkim, and four sanctuaries of the Andaman and Nicobar Islands, three of Uttar Pradesh and one of Andhra Pradesh were declared as National Parks. At present there are 202 sanctuaries, 47 zoological gardens and 19 national parks and States are being given financial assistance to manage them scientifically. The total area of national parks and sanctuaries at present is 75,700 sq. km., which works to about 10 per cent of the total forest area.

Project Tiger: The alarming decline in the number of tigers (which numbered 2,000 in 1971) led to the launching of the Project Tiger on 1st April, 1973, at the Corbett National Park (U.P.) to protect and perpetuate the tiger.

The Project with 11 project areas, covers a total area of 15,800 sq. kms. in 10 States. It is proposed to eliminate all the disturbing factors at least from a core area of 4,963 sq. kms. of 11 Project Tiger reserves. A census in 1979, showed 711 tigers in the project areas and 3,015 in the whole country.

Following National Development Council decision, the Scheme has been changed from Central Sector Scheme to Centrally Sponsored Scheme to be implemented on a 50:50 basis (cost sharing basis) by the Centre and the concerned States. For 1979-80 Rs. 6.35 million was provided for grants-in-aid to States.

For 1980-81 a sum of Rs. 6.9 million has been provided for the scheme in the budget. The scheme will be continued in the Sixth Plan period.

Wild Life Societies: The following are some of the important societies concerned with conservation in India: (1) Assam Valley Wild Life Society, Pratapgarh, TE, P. O. Sootea, Darang 784175 Assam; (2) The Bihar Natural History Society, Patna 800001; (3) Indian Board of Wild Life, Dept. of Agriculture, Krishi Bhavan New Delhi 110001; (4) Gujarat Natural History Society, 57 Preetamnagar, Ellis Bridge, Ahmedabad 380001; (5) Peermade Wild Life Preservation Society, Stagbrook Estate, Peermade 685531, Kerala; (6) High Range Game Association, Munnar 685612, Kerala; (7) Bombay Natural History Society, Hornbill House, Shahid Bhagat Singh Road, Bombay 400001; (8) World Wild Life Fund Indian National Appeal, Hornbill House, Shahid Bhagat Singh Road, Bombay 400001; (9) Birdwatchers' Field Club of India, 32-A, Juhu Lane, Andheri, Bombay 400058; (10) Nilgiri Wildlife Association, Ootacamund 643001; (11) Wild Life Preservation Society of India, 7, Ashley Hall, Dehra Dun 248001

The World Wild Life Fund (India) has organised 492 Nature Clubs covering 14 States with over 10,000 members

FOOD AND AGRICULTURE

Employment :

AGRICULTURE (including animal husbandry, fishery and forestry) provided employment to 167 million in 1971 as against 138 million in 1961. The break-up of the work force in agriculture is as under :

Category	1961		1971
	No. in million	Per cent to total	No. in million	Per cent to total
Cultivators ..	99·62	72	110·61	66

Total ..	137·80	100	167·33	100

The share of agriculture in the total labour force of 227 million was 74 per cent in 1971.

According to Planning Commission, about 192 million persons were engaged in agriculture and allied occupations in 1978.

Basic Facts (1978-79) : Gross cropped area: 173·30 million hectares; gross irrigated area: 50·65 million hectares; soil conservation on agricultural land; 22·60 million hectares; consumption of fertilisers: 5·12 million tonnes; foodgrains production: 132 million tonnes; procurement of food grains (1979): 14 million tonnes; per capita daily availability of food grains (1979): 480 grams.

Growth Rates : In recent years, agricultural production has maintained a steady uptrend, partly due to favourable weather and due to technological factors like improved farm practices, extensive use of high-yielding seeds and increase in the consumption of fertilisers. There is little doubt that the production potential of Indian agriculture is now much higher than what it was in the sixties. Compared to just 60 million tonnes in 1952-53, the output of foodgrains in 1978–79 was of the order of 132 million tonnes.

This, however, is the aggregate picture. In respect of cereal crops like jowar, of pulses and cash crops like jute, cotton and oilseeds, the production trends have been unsatisfactory. This is evident from the data on compound growth rates of production between 1960–61 and 1978–79.

The share of agriculture in India's net domestic product of Rs. 812,280 million in 1978–79 was Rs. 357,400 million or 44 per cent which includes forestry and fishery. This underscores the crucial role of agriculture in the Indian economy.

Per Capita Availability : The per capita availability of foodgrains is satisfactory from the overall point of view. But, given the abysmal poverty of the masses, it is doubtful whether they have the capacity to satisfy their biological demand for food in adequate measure. For this reason, the average picture would be grossly misleading. In any case, the per capita availability of pulses which is important from the nutritional point of view, is steadily declining. The data are given below for selected years.

Yield per Hectare : The major weakness of Indian agriculture is the extremely low levels of yield. This is evident from the data on yield per hectare of selected crops in India and selected countries in 1979 (in kilograms) given below.

High-yielding Varieties Programme : The high-yielding varieties programme was launched in 1966-67 as part of the new agricultural strategy to boost the production of foodgrains. The programme covers five crops — paddy, wheat, maize, jowar and bajra. In respect of all these crops, the coverage has steadily increased in recent years. During 1978–79, this programme was undertaken in 41 million hectares as against 11·40 million hectares in 1969-70. The details are tabulated in the next page.

Agricultural Production (1978-79) : Thanks to favourable seasonal factors, the production of both food and cash crops showed a marked increase in 1978–79 as compared to 1977–78. The outturn of rice rose by 1·1 million tonnes to 53·77 million tonnes, of wheat by 3·8 million tonnes to 35·51 million tonnes and of food-grains as a whole by 5·5 million tonnes to 131·90 million tonnes. Among non-food crops, the production of sugarcane (gur) declined by 2·2 million tonnes to 15·73 million tonnes in 1978–79. Of five major oilseeds by 0·35 million tonnes to 9·35 million tonnes and of cotton by 0·72 million bales to 7·96 million bales.

The index of agricultural production (base : triennium ending 1969–70 = 100) registered a fall of 16 per cent in 1979-80 at 116·5 ; the index of food-grains output decreased by 18 per cent to 113·9 and of non-foodgrains by 9 per cent to 122·1 . Recent trends in the index numbers of agricultural production are given above.

Exports of Agricultural Commodities

Exports of agricultural commodities are a major source of foreign exchange for the country and account, on an average, for about 40 per cent of the total export earnings. The value of exports of some of the agricultural products during 1978-79 is as follows : Rice (Rs. 387 million) ; Wheat (Rs. 664 million) ; Tea (Rs. 3,405 million) ; Jute manufacturers (Rs. 1,656 million) ; Oilcakes (Rs. 1,158 million) ; Cashew Kernel (Rs. 1,158 million) ; Tobacco (Rs. 1,163 million) ; Coffee (Rs. 1,451 million) ; Sugar (Rs. 136 million) ; spices (Rs. 1,481 million) ; fish and fish preparations (Rs. 2,238 million) ; and vegetable oils (Rs. 189 million).

The Task Force under the Chairmanship of Secretary (Agriculture and Rural Development) carried out an in-depth review of the export potential of agricultural products, keeping in view the domestic requirements and production possibilities of various farm commodities. It estimated that, if certain measures are taken, the export of agricultural products can rise to Rs. 31,250 million tonnes in 1982–83 from about Rs. 12,170 million in 1975–76.

Food Consumption : The per capita consumption in India of all food items in terms of calories compares as follows : Canada : 3,346 ; U.S.A. : 3,537 ; U.K. : 3,305 ; Japan : 2,847 ; India : 1,949.

The increase in population by about 12 million persons per year in itself requires one million tonnes of additional grain. For an increase of the per capita intake of 100 calories per day the country would require an additional five million tonnes per year.

Foodgrain Loss : Six million tonnes of foodgrains valued at Rs. 10,000 million are lost every year because of non-scientific and old methods of storage.

Credit to Farmers : The long-term loans to farmers by Land Development Banks amounted to Rs. 2,460 million in 1975-76, Rs. 2.500 million in 1976-77 and Rs. 2,710 million in 1977-78. The target for 1978-79 is Rs. 4,320 million.

National Seeds Corporation Ltd., 4-E, Jhandewalan, New Delhi 110055 and the Tarai Seeds Development Corporation, Pantnagar, P.O. Haldi, Nainital (U.P.), were set up for the supply and production of foundation/certified seeds of the high yielding varieties.

Mechanised Farms : There are 14 Central and State mechanised farms in operation. They are located in Khammam (Andhra Pradesh) ; Kokilabut (Assam) ; Hissar (Haryana) ; Raichur (Karnataka) ; Aralam (Kerala) ; Lokjchera and Lushiachera (Mizoram) ; Jharsuguda (Orissa) ; Ladhowal (Punjab) ; Suratgarh and Jetsar (Rajasthan) ; Chengam (Tamil Nadu) ; Bahraich and Rae Bareili (Uttar Pradesh).

The cultivated area of these farms is about 35,000 hectares. Apart from providing improved varieties of seeds they help local farmers with land development, levelling, reclamation and harvesting on a commercial basis.

Food Corporation : The Food Corporation of India was set up as a statutory body in January, 1965, to purchase and store foodgrains and later distribute them as required. (See chapter on " Government of India Undertakings").

Canning Centres : Twenty-three community canning and preservation centres were under operation for popularising vegetable and fruit preservation. The units organise demonstrations, lectures and film shows on techniques of preservation and canning. 15 more were to be opened before the end of the Fifth Plan in 1979.

Community Canning and Preservation Centres in major cities are at : 1. 108, Magadi Chord Rd., Bangalore 560040 ; 2. Abhyudaya Nagar No. 1, G. D. Ambedkar Marg, Bombay 400033 ; 3. 107, B, BI ' F ' New Alipore, Calcutta 700069 ; 4. 2-2-2-University Rd., Hyderabad 500007 ; 5. Food & Nutrition Board, Shastri Bhavan, 35, Haddows Rd., Madras 600006 ; 6. 35, Raj Park, New Delhi 110060 ; 7. D26, C. C. Colony, New Delhi 110007.

Tractors: There are about 293,000 tractors in the country. Sixteen factories have been licensed with a total manufacturing capacity of 135,000 tractors per annum.

Fertilisers : (See Chapter on " Fertiliser Industry ").

Agricultural Education : Refer to chapter on Education.

Agricultural Research: The Indian Council of Agricultural Research is the apex organisation for sponsoring, coordinating and directing agricultural research and education in the country. The Council now has 29 research institutes under it.

Soil Conservation: All-India Soil and Land Use Survey Organisation, Pusa Rd., New Delhi 110012 carries out soil survey in selected river valley projects and priority watersheds for soil conservation works. Similar centrally sponsored schemes are also under operation in the catchment of major river valley projects.

Research Centres: Eight research-cum-training centres for soil conservation under the jurisdiction of Indian Council of Agricultural Research have been established at the following places :—

1. Ootacamund (Tamil Nadu) for erosion control in the Nilgiri and other hills ; 2. Bellary (Mysore) for soil conservation studies in black soils ; 3. Kotah (Rajasthan) with sub-centre at Agra for erosion control in the Chambal and Jumna ravines ; 4. Dehra Dun (U.P.) for studying problems of afforestation in the Sivalik hills with the sub-station at Chandigarh for training chos (hill torrents) ; 5. Vasad (in the Gujarat tract) for erosion control in the ravines along rivers in Gujarat ; 6. Chandigarh (outer Sivaliks) ; 7. Agra (Yamuna ravines) ; 8. Ibrahimpatnam (Andhra) for tackling red soil problems.

The centres train gazetted officers and assistants to man the soil and water conservation projects.

Minor Irrigation : Minor irrigation includes schemes relating to small storage tanks, river pumping projects, tube-wells, filter points, dug wells, small flood protection embankments and drainage schemes. The Central Ground Water Board, Jamnagar House, New Delhi 110011 is fully responsible for ground-water exploration in the country and most of the States have set up Ground Water Organisations for development of ground-water resources for agricultural purposes.

LAND REFORMS : Legislative provisions have been made in most States conferring ownership rights on cultivating tenants, protecting tenants against wilful ejectment and regulation of rent payable. Consolidation of holdings has been accorded high priority. About 46 million hectares have already been consolidated.

Under the land ceiling laws, 648,000 hectares of surplus land have been distributed among 1·055 million farm families so far. Emphasis has been laid on proper maintenance of land records and their regular updating. The Government has accepted the recommendations of the Raj Krishna Committee that land reform laws should continue to enjoy constitutional protection by their inclusion in the Ninth Schedule and that disposal of land reform cases pending in courts should be expedited.

Average size of Land Holdings : The average size of a farm in India is 2·30 hectares. The State-wise average is as follows : Andhra Pradesh 2·87 hectares ; Assam 1·46 hectares ; Bihar 1·53 hectares ; Gujarat 4·49 hectares ; Jammu & Kashmir 1·43 hectares ; Kerala 0·75 hectare ; Madhya Pradesh 3·99 hectares ; Tamil Nadu 1·49 hectares; Maharashtra 4·65 hectares ; Karnataka 4·11 hectares ; Orissa 1·98 hectares ; Punjab 3·89 hectares ; Rajasthan 5·5 hectares ; Uttar Pradesh 1·78 hectares ; and West Bengal 1·56 hectares.

The total number and area of operational holdings according to size are furnished in the following table :

ANIMAL HUSBANDRY

INDIA has the largest cattle, buffalo and goat population. According to the 1972 census, there are about 179 million cattle, 58 million buffaloes and 68 million goats in the country. About one-sixth of the cattle, about half of the buffalo and one-fifth of the goat population in the world are in India. Animal husbandry plays an important role in the national life and accounts for about 10 per cent of the national income. In particular, the contribution of the cattle and buffalo to the economy is considerable. They are the main source of draught power in agricultural operations and rural transportation; they provide essential foods like milk and meat as also large quantities of animal by-products like hides, bones, blood and guts, as well as valuable original manure. Meat and meat products alone earn about Rs. 400 million by way of foreign exchange.

Census: The 12th quinquennial livestock census was due to be conducted in different States with April 15, 1977 as the reference date. But only a few States carried out the census as per schedule while others had to postpone it for a variety of reasons. Hence data in the consolidated form are available only for 1972, the year of the previous census.

The break-up for 1972 is: Cattle—178.9 million; sheep—40.4 million; goats—68.0 million; buffaloes—57.9 million; horses and ponies—1.0 million; pigs—6.5 million; camels—1.1 million and other livestock 1.2 million. Poultry makes up an additional 136.8 million.

Unofficial estimates place the latest population of buffaloes, sheep and goats at 64 million, 44 million and 75 million respectively.

Meat Production: There are nearly 2,800 slaughter houses operating under local bodies. Excepting a few, many of them lack even elementary facilities for hygienic production and handling of meat and for collection and utilisation of animal by-products. About 37.3 million sheep and goats, 1.5 million pigs and 1.4 million cattle and buffaloes are slaughtered annually in the organised slaughter houses. The percentage of the animals slaughtered to their respective population is : cattle: 0.9; buffaloes: 1.4; sheep: 32.5; goats: 36.8; pigs: 22.0; others: 6.4. (The percentage of cattle slaughtered in developed countries is between 30 per cent to 40 per cent.)

The yearly production of meat is around 720,000 tonnes consisting of 190,000 tonnes of beef and buffalo meat, 390,000 tonnes of mutton and goat meat, 50,000 tonnes of pig meat and 90,000 tonnes of poultry meat. National Commission on Agriculture has estimated that demand for meat will range between 1.6 and 2.1 million tonnes in 2000 A.D.

Modernisation of Slaughter Houses: For the establishment of modern slaughter houses, six corporations have been set up—Modern Meat Complex Ltd., Panaji (Goa); The Bangalore Animal Food Corpn. Pvt. Ltd. (Bangalore); Modern Slaughter Houses Development Corpn. (Hyderabad); West Bengal Livestock Processing Corpn. Ltd.; Tamil Nadu Meat Industries Corpn. and Delhi Livestock Products Processing Corpn. Ltd. The modern abattoir at Deonar (Bombay), provides clean and wholesome meat and also caters to the needs of export market as regards buffalo meat.

Hide-Flaying and Carcass Utilisation: A model training-cum-production centre at Bakshi-ka-Talab, Lucknow, established with financial and technical assistance from the Government of Netherlands and Food & Agriculture Organisation of the United Nations, imparts training in hide-flaying, tanning, carcass utilisation, foot-wear making, etc. The Animal By-products Plant, Kesarpalli, Andhra Pradesh is handling, in addition to fallen animals, other raw materials such as bone chips, fish waste etc. and converting them into sterilised bonemeal, fish-meal and meat-meal. Hide-flaying and carcass utilisation centres are also situated at Dehra Dun, Jhansi, Mathura, Delhi, Koothatukulam, Madras and Bombay. Two more carcass utilisation centres are being organised at Cuttack and Srinagar.

Animal Health: At the end of 1979-80 there were 12,110 veterinary hospitals/dispensaries in the country as against only 904 during the 1930s. The production of veterinary biological products increased to 333.5 million doses in 1979-80 compared to 191.9 million doses in 1974-75.

CATTLE: The best Indian cattle breeds are found in the Punjab, Rajasthan, Saurashtra, parts of Maharashtra, Tamil Nadu, Karnataka and Andhra Pradesh. In the eastern parts of the country and in the coastal areas, the animals are non-descript and are poor milk yielders.

Milch Breeds: Sahiwal, Gir, Red Singhi and Deoni are some of the outstanding breeds of this group. The Sahiwal yields between 2,725 and 3,175 kgs. of milk in a lactation period of 300 to 325 days. The average yield of Gir is 1,675 kgs. The average milk yield of Singhi and Deoni varies from 1,135 to 1,725 kgs.

Draught: Cows of these breeds are poor milk yielders but the bullocks are excellent draught animals. About 42 per cent of the cattle in the country are draught animals. The Amritmahals and Hallikar (Karnataka) are the well-known draught breeds of India. Other important breeds are Malvi (Madhya Pradesh), Nagori (Rajasthan), Kenketha and Ponwar (Uttar Pradesh), Bahaur (Bihar), Bargur, Kongayam (Tamil Nadu) and Khillari (Maharashtra).

General Utility Breeds: The cows are fairly good milk yielders and the bullocks are good for draught purposes. Hariana (Haryana and Delhi); Kankrej and Tharparker (Gujarat and Rajasthan); Ongole (Andhra Pradesh), etc., which give about 1,500 to 2,000 kgs. of milk in the lactation period are some of the well-known breeds of this type.

Cattle Breeding: The Intensive Cattle Development Projects (ICDPs) was formulated during the latter half of the Third Plan with a view to increasing the milk production potential of cows and buffaloes. At present there are 90 such projects. In addition there are 625 key village blocks functioning on the same lines. These 2 projects together cover about 15 million breedable bovines. 500 regional artificial insemination centres and over 11 thousand artificial insemination sub-centres are functioning under these projects.

Development work has made further progress at the Central Cattle Breeding Farms, which have been set up to achieve a breakthrough in milk production. It was envisaged to set up 6 centrally administered Cattle Breeding Farms for some indigenous cattle and buffalo breeds and some exotic cattle breeds. Of the 6 farms, three farms were established during the Third Five Year Plan, and the remaining three during the Fourth Five Year Plan. The Five Year Plan (1978-83) envisages completion of the development work at the six cattle breeding farms at Suratgarh (Rajasthan), Dhamrod (Gujarat), Koraput and Chiplima (Orissa), Avadi (Tamil Nadu), and Andesh Nagar (Uttar Pradesh).

The Central Frozen Semen Bank at Hessarghatta, Bangalore, continued to supply frozen semen to the neighbouring States for cross-breeding purposes. A number of frozen semen stations have been set-up recently in places like Bangalore, Bhopal, Gurgaon and Amritsar and many more are likely to come up in the near future.

BUFFALOES: Buffalo is customarily classified into two types—the swamp and the river buffalo. The buffaloes in India are of the second type. There are seven breeds of Indian buffalo. It should, however, be noted that the breed classification of Indian livestock especially buffalo is not satisfactory. They are the Murrah of Haryana, the Jaffarabadi (Saurashtra region), Surti (Kaira, Anand and Nadiad districts) and Mehsana (Mehsana district) of Gujarat, Nagpuri of Maharashtra, Nili-Ravi of Punjab and Bhadawari of Uttar Pradesh. The average yield of milk in a single lactation period (which varies from 250-300 days) is 1,360-2,270 kgs. in the case of Murrah, 1,655 kgs. in the case of Surti, 1,360-1,825 kgs. in the case of Mehsana and 1,585 kgs. in the case of Nili-Ravi.

SHEEP: According to the 1972 livestock statistics, India has 40 million sheep and ranks fourth among the countries of the world in sheep population. Most of the sheep are concentrated in the arid zones with low rainfall and poor agriculture where they form a major source of livelihood for the people. The productivity of most of the sheep-stock is low in terms of wool and mutton. The average annual yield of wool per sheep in India is only 700 grams as against 5-7 kgs. in the case of some of the exotic breeds of sheep. As regards mutton, the average weight of sheep varies from 25 to 30 kgs. The exotic sheep weighs as much as 3 times this figure.

Wool: India produces over 39.5 million kgs. of wool annually with 36 per cent of this coming from Rajasthan alone. The bulk (57 per cent) of the wool produced is coarse and is used largely in the manufacture of carpets, druggets and coarse blankets. The rest (43 per cent) of the wool is of the apparel type. About 15 per cent of the total apparel wool produced in the country is of the combing quality. There is a demand of 68.70 million kgs. of apparel wool, as per spindlage available, with the woollen industry in the country. The demand for carpets has gone up in export market from Rs. 600 million to Rs. 800 million.

Rajasthan Sheep and Wool Development Corporation was established during the year 1978-79 with the objective of shearing, grading and marketing of wool. (See also Woollen Industry.)

Breeding: Sheep development involves cross-breeding of indigenous sheep using imported strains of Merino type sheep such as Rambouillett Stavrovoi, etc. About 400 Rambouillett sheep were to be imported during 1980-81. Recently the Govt. of Australia had allowed export of a limited number of Merino rams out of which India imported 93 good quality Merino rams to be distributed to various sheep breeding farms in India.

The Central Sheep Breeding Farm, Hissar, was set up in 1969 to produce and supply rare Corriedale and crossbred rams to various States for sheep development programmes. About 2,000 rams have been distributed to different States during the last ten years. The number of exotic breeds imported so far is 10,000.

Five Centrally sponsored large sheep-breeding farms have been set-up at Mamidipally (Andhra Pradesh), Challakeri (Karnataka), Daksum (Jammu & Kashmir), Bhainsora (Uttar Pradesh) and Fatehpur (Rajasthan). Action has been initiated for the establishment of two more sheep-breeding farms—one at Shivpuri (Madhya Pradesh) and another at Chatra (Bihar).

A large scale sheep shearing wool grading and marketing programme has been undertaken in Rajasthan with the assistance of Food and Agricultural Organisation. Another significant development was the setting up of the Central Sheep and Wool Research Institute, in 1962.

GOATS: Goats constitute an important source of animal protein and account for about 3 per cent of the total milk production. They account for 35 per cent of meat production. Exports of goat skins, casings and hair earn substantial foreign exchange.

Among the important breeds are Bakarwah, Assam Hill, Chamba, Gaddi and Gegu in the Northern temperate region, Beetah, Jamnapari, Kutchi, Marwari, Mehsana, Sirohi and Zalwadi in the North-Western region and Osmanabadi and Mahabari/Tellicherry in the Peninsular region.

POULTRY: There are only 26 chickens per 100 persons in India as against 540 in Denmark and 373 in Canada. The annual laying capacity of an Indian hen is about 60 small eggs in a year as against 180 large eggs of the American (exotic) breeds like White Leghorn.

Poultry production has made rapid strides in the last decade. The annual egg production increased from 2,500 million eggs in 1971 to about 12,000 million eggs in 1979. The production of poultry meat through broiler industry has touched a level of 20 million in 1979 compared to just 4 million in 1971. However, the per capita availability is very low when reviewed against world standards. The poultry industry has become nearly self-sufficient in respect of modern poultry equipment which has, now, found even export markets. However, the availability of eggs in India is estimated at only 12 per person per year as against 295 in U.S.A., 282 in Canada and 249 in West Germany. The annual per capita availability of poultry meat too is low, being estimated at 131 grams in India as compared with 13.18 kgs. in U.S.A. and 2.47 kgs. in other European countries.

PIGGERY: Pig is one of the most efficient feed converting animals among domesticated stock, and in India an important source of protein-rich meat. The total pork production is around 53,000 tonnes and accounts for 7.4 per cent of meat production in India. In the Second and later Plans schemes were drawn up for the setting up of bacon factories, regional pig breeding stations, pig breeding farms/units and piggery development blocks. By the end of the Fourth Plan 8 bacon factories were set-up in different States—Andhra Pradesh, Maharashtra, West Bengal, Uttar Pradesh, Kerala, Bihar, Punjab and Rajasthan—but none of them is working at even half of their installed capacity. The total turn-over of these units was anticipated to be about Rs. 15 million. 2,000 exotic variety sows were made available to the farmers from the 8 regional pig breeding farms. Two more regional pig breeding farms are being set up in Mizoram and Arunachal Pradesh. There are 79 State pig breeding farms and 300 pig breeding stations all over India. Special efforts are made to promote piggery in North-east States.

The Centre has drawn up a comprehensive piggery development programme with the help of Danish International Developmental Agency. Under this scheme, a regional pig breeding station will be set up in Shillong with seven sub-units for all other North-Eastern States.

Export: The quantity of meat exported is roughly about 1 per cent of the total mutton production and 5 per cent of beef production. The number of live sheep and goats exported (during 1977-78) worked out to about 0.1 per cent of the total population against 2.5 per cent in Australia. As regards buffalo meat, since there is little market for its meat 70 per cent can be exported. The exports of meat and meat products, which amounted to Rs. 100 million in 1978-79, are expected to amount to Rs. 400 million in 1980-81.

Plan Targets: Against a base level production of milk of 23.2 million tonnes in 1973-74, the latest Plan document (1978-83) expects the production to reach 35.5 million tonnes by 1982-83. The target for egg production is 16,000 million, and wool 38 million kgs. (greasy). As against an outlay of Rs. 4,380 million for the Fifth Plan, the outlay for the Five-year Plan (1978-83) according to the draft is about Rs. 8,250 million.

FISHERIES

EXTENT of Resources: India has a long coast line of 6,535 kms. and an exclusive economic zone of 2 million sq. kms. which offer large stocks of the sardine group, the mackerel, the tuna and other scombroids, catfishes, the group of sharks and rays, Bombay duck, ribbonfishes, prawns, squids and cuttle-fishes, the pomfrets, solefish, the carangids, the perches, polynemids, sciaenids etc.

The country has an inland culturable water area of about 1.5 million hectares to raise indigenous and exotic carps, air-breathing fishes, hilsa, trouts etc. It also has a brackish water spread of about 2.6 million hectares, a portion of which could be brought under culture for raising prawns, mullet, milk fish, pearl spot etc. There are also good possibilities of producing shell-fishes, fin-fishes and algae through mariculture in the coastal belt.

India occupies eighth place in fisheries production in the world. Marine fisheries account for about 63 per cent of total production with 37 per cent contributed by inland fisheries. The present per capita consumption of fish is only 4.0 kg. a year against the desired consumption level of 31 kg. as recommended by the nutrition advisory committee on human nutrition.

An eight-fold increase in fish production is considered necessary to meet adequately the increasing demand for fish in the country.

Growth since Independence: From an estimated figure of 0.7 million tonnes in 1947, the catch increased to 2.37 million tonnes in 1978 of which 1.47 million tonnes were marine fish.

Development Programmes: At the end of 1977-78 there were about 14,282 mechanised fishing boats in operation as against only 13 at the commencement of the First Plan. Trawling deserve special mention, a method of fishing, which was practically unknown at the time of Independence, is now most popular.

In order to give a fillip to deep-sea fishing, it is proposed to have a fleet of 300 vessels by 1982-83. By the end of 1978-79, there were 123 vessels, of which 68 were on charter arrangements with foreign countries. Authorisation has been issued for import of more than 100 off shore/deep sea fishing vessels and provisional measures have been taken for the construction of such vessels at the indigenous shipyards.

Indian Fisheries: Fifty Fish Farmer's Development Agency Projects have been set up in different States for augmenting fish production through intensive fish-culture practices. The fish seed required for intensive fish culture is also being augmented, through bund breeding and induced breeding in small water areas like ponds and lakes. These practices will also help in spawn production and fish seed supplies. Attention will also be paid to the creation of additional nursery areas. Fingerlings production was 698 million during 1976-77 and 757 million during 1977-78. The total nursery area available for spawn rearing during 1976-77 was estimated at 1,135 hectares and for 1977-78 it was estimated at 1,402 hectares.

Of the 1.5 million hectares of ponds and tanks only 1.0 million hectares are now being partially utilised for the production of fish. It is proposed to bring more and more of the partially utilised area under intensive fish culture and reclaim the remaining area to make it suitable for fish farming.

Fish production during 1978-79 was expected to be 2.76 million tonnes—1.76 million tonnes from marine sources, and 1 million tonnes from inland sources.

Job Opportunity: All the schemes of the fisheries sector taken together will directly generate an additional employment potential of 400,000 persons including skilled and semi-skilled workers by the end of 1982-83. In addition to this, employment potential will also be generated in the ancillary industry and for marketing and transportation of fish to the extent of 80,000.

Research: A multi-pronged research and technological effort is under way to double the present annual fish catch in the next few years.

The research activities are being carried on by the Central Marine Fisheries Research Institute and the Central Institute of Fisheries Technology, both located at Cochin and the Central Inland Fisheries Research Institute at Barrackpore. These Institutes have their subordinate establishments also. The National Institute of Oceanography, the Central Institute of Fisheries Education, the Pelagic Fisheries Project, the Zoological Survey of India, some of the agricultural universities and conventional universities and some fisheries departments of the State Governments also carry out research in different disciplines of fishery science.

Exports: The export of marine products during 1977-78 which was valued at Rs. 1,810 million, rose to Rs. 2,346.2 million in 1978-79 and to Rs. 2,488.2 million in 1980-81. The quantity exported was 86,657 tonnes (1978-79).

For augmenting the exports of sea foods, the Government of India has set up a Marine Products Export Development Authority at Ernakulam, Cochin 682016.

Main Buyers: These exports are directed to the sophisticated markets of Japan, America, Europe, and Australia.

Imports: There were no imports of fish during the years 1977 and 1978.

Rolling Plan: In the Plan for 1978-83, the principal objectives would be: (i) to step the fish production, (ii) to organise the inland fish production based on individual family basis and on high labour, low-investment technology so as to improve the socio-economic conditions, (iii) to organise intensive marine fishing survey and promote exploitation, distributed equitably among the different sectors and (iv) to improve and diversify the processing and marketing facilities. The Planning Commission has envisaged a target of 3.4 million tonnes of fish production for this five-year period. The target of fish production in 1979-80 was 2.626 million tonnes. The outlay for 1979-80 for Central, Centrally sponsored and State schemes was about Rs. 715 million.

Fishing Harbours: Besides limited facilities for landing and berthing of fishing vessels already available at about 80 centres, medium size fishing harbours have been completed at 4 sites, and work on large size fishing harbours is in progress at Cochin, Madras, Bombay and Calcutta. First stage harbours works at Visakhapatnam have been completed in all respects and harbour has been commissioned. Cochin harbour has also been commissioned while the fishing works are in progress. Construction of sizable fishing harbours are also in progress at Malpe, Honnaver, Ratnagiri, Porbunder, Bhavanapadu and Mangalore.

With the World Bank assistance, construction of integrated marine fisheries projects including fishing harbour has also been taken up at Veraval and Mangrol in Gujarat and at Visakhapatnam Stage-II, Kakinada and Nizampatnam in Andhra Pradesh.

NUMBER of Universities rose from 47 in 1960 to 118 (108 universities and 10 institutions deemed to be universities) as in 1979. Number of Colleges increased from 1,542 in 1960-61 to 4,460 in 1978-79 excluding pre-university, Intermediate and Junior Colleges.

As regards enrolment, the average growth rate in universities and colleges, excluding pre-university/Intermediate/pre-medical during the decade 1969-70 to 1978-79 was 5.3 per cent per annum. There were about 2.62 million students in the universities and colleges in 1978-79. The affiliated colleges accounted for 83.2 per cent of the total enrolment. The enrolment at post-graduate level in proportion to total enrolment at the University and Colleges level was 10.6 per cent.

The University Grants Commission (UGC) in its survey revealed that 1,678 colleges (57 per cent) of the 2,923 affiliated colleges in the country have less than 500 students each and 520 colleges have students between 100 and 200. The percentage of students going in for higher education in all States is about 3 per cent.

Number of Illiterates in 1981 was 446 million as against 386 million in 1971. However, the percentage of literacy according to 1981 census rose to 36.17 per cent from 29.45 per cent in 1971. Adult illiterates were estimated to be about 100 million by 1977. Sixty five million adults are to be covered under the adult education programme during the VI Plan (1978-83). The target for the year (1979-80) was about 4.5 million. A provision of Rs. 2,000 million has been made for Adult Education Programme in the Plan 1978-83 which represents nearly 10 per cent of the total plan provision for education. (See Chapter on Population.)

Adult Education: About 95,000 adult education centres are functioning in the country as on Oct. 1, 1979. Of these, nearly 33,000 are being run by voluntary organisations.

During 1979-80, 4.5 million more adults were expected to be covered by the National Adult Education Programme.

Some 603 voluntary agencies have been approved so far for financial assistance amounting to Rs. 47.30 million for running 27,956 adult education centres in 17 States and four Union Territories.

Fifty-five universities and 600 colleges were sanctioned funds by the University Grants Commission for running 7,330 adult education centres. About 80 universities and over 2,000 colleges have decided to participate in the NAEP. Most of them are conducting surveys and organising discussions to determine the manner of their involvement and the size of the programme to be undertaken by them.

SUBJECTS OF STUDY

(Derived with permission from 'Directory to Subjects of Study at Indian Universities' published in the annual Commonwealth Universities Yearbook by the Association of Commonwealth Universities, London and University Grants Commission, New Delhi.)

This directory contains a list of selected subjects which may be studied at Universities in India, some in the departments or constituent colleges of universities themselves, some in colleges affiliated to universities, and others in both. The list is not exhaustive but it does cover most of the main subjects in which facilities for study or research are available. Many of the universities which provide courses for bachelor's or master's degrees in a subject also provide facilities for research in aspects of it which may lead to a doctorate.

Subjects marked † may, depending on the university, either (a) form a greater or lesser part of the course for a bachelor's degree, or (b) be studied for a master's degree, or (c) both.

MERCHANT NAVY TRAINING INSTITUTIONS

Merchant Navy Training Board at Jahaz Bhavan, Walchand Hirachand Marg, Bombay 400038, advises Government on all matters pertaining to the training of merchant navy personnel.

Shri Narotam Morarjee Institute of Shipping, 76, Jolly Maker Chambers No. 2, Nariman Point, Bombay 400021, imparts training and conducts examinations in subjects pertaining to the commercial side of shipping—chartering, ship broking practice, marine insurance etc.

The Government of India has set up six training establishments for the training of merchant navy officers and ratings. The training ship "Dufferin" which started functioning in 1929 was replaced by T.S. "Rajendra" in 1972. It provides pre-sea training facilities of one year duration for navigating cadets. The new training ship has an intake of 250 cadets per year. The Directorate of Marine Engineering Training at Bombay and Calcutta provides four years' course for engineering cadets. The boys desirous of undergoing training in the "Rajendra" as well as D.M.E.T. are selected on the basis of marks obtained and are drawn from all parts of the country through a competitive entrance examination followed by interviews and medical and eyesight tests.

Rules for Entry into T.S. "Rajendra" and D.M.E.T. are as follows: Age Limit: Candidate must have completed 16 years of age and must not have exceeded 20 years on September 1 of the year of entry. Eligibility: A candidate is eligible provided he has passed intermediate science examination of any University with mathematics and physics.

The pre-entry qualifications for engineering cadets for entry into D.M.E.T. is a pass in higher secondary examination or equivalent of a recognised board of secondary examination or a University in the science stream with physics, chemistry and mathematics as elective subjects. The duration of the course is 4 years.

The Lal Bahadur Shastri Nautical and Engineering College at Hay Bunder, Tank Road, Bombay 400033 provides post-sea training instructional courses for both navigating and engineering officers and apprentices who are preparing for Ministry of Transport Certificates of Competency Examination. There is a Life Boat School attached to the college.

Candidates with the requisite educational qualification and within the age group prescribed for "Rajendra" and D.M.E.T. training are also admitted by shipping companies as Direct Entry Cadets. The Shipping Corpn. of India and the Great Eastern Shipping Company have established special pre-sea training schemes of their own for such cadets.

Ratings' Training Establishments: The Training Ships "Bhadra" (Calcutta), "Mekhala" (Visakhapatnam) and "Naulakhi" (Navlakhi, Gujarat) are ratings' training establishments. These institutions provides a six months' course for deck and engine room ratings. Candidates between the age group 18 to 22 with minimum educational qualification of 8th standard pass are eligible for admission, if medically fit. Advertisements are published in all important newspapers in India in different languages once in a year or when necessary for selection of candidates for pre-sea training courses and they are selected on merits after an interview at Bombay by the Director, Seamen's Employment Office and at Calcutta, Navlakhi and Visakhapatnam by the respective Captain Superintendents of the training ships according to the number required each year.

SPACE RESEARCH

THE Indian Space Programme began in the year 1962 when the Indian National Committee for Space Research (INCOSPAR) was formed in the Department of Atomic Energy of the Government of India. In 1969, the Indian Space Research Organisation (ISRO) was created to plan, manage and execute the nation's growing activities in Space Science, Space Technology and Space Applications.

The Government of India established the Space Commission in June 1972, backed by the Department of Space (DOS) and entrusted DOS with the responsibility for conducting India's space programme. ISRO functions under DOS as its research and development organisation.

The Space Commission, the Department of Space and the Indian Space Research Organisation have their Headquarters in Bangalore.

The primary aims of the Indian Space Programme are the applications of space science and technology to further national developmental objectives in mass communication and education via satellites; the survey and management of natural resources through remote sensing technology from space platforms and the development of space technology with the maximum degree of self-reliance.

The activities of ISRO are carried out at its four Space Centres: (1) Vikram Sarabhai Space Centre (VSSC), Trivandrum, Kerala; (2) ISRO Satellite Centre (ISAC), Bangalore, Karnataka; (3) SHAR Centre, Sriharikota, Andhra Pradesh and (4) Space Applications Centre (SAC), Ahmedabad, Gujarat.

In addition, DOS provides major support to the Physical Research Laboratory (PRL) at Ahmedabad which is India's prime centre for research in space sciences.

Vikram Sarabhai Space Centre (VSSC): Named after the late Prof. Vikram A. Sarabhai, the founder of the Indian space programme, VSSC encompasses work related to the development of sounding rockets and satellite launch vehicles, scientific and technological payloads, ground-based and vehicle-borne instrumentation and production facilities for propellants and rocket hardware. VSSC is also responsible for building and launching the Menaka and Rohini (including Centaure) series of sounding rockets for meteorological and scientific investigations of the upper atmosphere. India's first satellite launch vehicle SLV-3, successfully launched on July 18, 1980, was developed at this centre. This four-stage solid propellant rocket placed a 35-kg indigenous Rohini Satellite (RS-1) into a near-earth orbit and all the systems of SLV-3 worked satisfactorily. The 22.7-metre-long SLV-3 is being augmented with strap-ons to achieve a vehicle (ASLV) capable of putting 150 kg satellites into a low earth orbit. A Polar Satellite Launch Vehicle (PSLV) for putting 600 kg class satellites into a sun-synchronous orbit is another programme on the anvil.

The Space Science and Technology Centre (SSTC) of VSSC is the main research and development laboratory. Solid propellant for the rockets is produced at the Rocket Propellant Plant while the rockets and other hardware are made at the Rocket Fabrication Facility (RFF). The Propellant Fuel Complex (PFC) produces special materials required for the processing of propellants. Liquid propellants for rockets have also been developed on a laboratory scale. An experimental plant for the production of Ammonium perchlorate used as oxidiser in solid propellants has been set up at Alwaye, Kerala.

VSSC operates and maintains the Thumba Equatorial Rocket Launching Station (TERLS) which has been recognised by the United Nations Organisation (UNO) as an international facility for sounding rocket experiments to investigate problems of meteorology and ionosphere over the geomagnetic equator running close to Thumba and for other experiments. Since November 1963, when the range became operational, more than 1,300 sounding rockets of different makes have been launched for meteorological, ionospheric, aeronomic and astronomical studies. Scientists from Bulgaria, France, Federal Republic of Germany, Japan, the U.K., the USA and the USSR have participated, in co-operation with their Indian counterparts, in many of these experiments.

ISRO Satellite Centre (ISAC) is responsible for the design, fabrication and integration of spacecraft and the development of satellite technology. The first Indian satellite, Aryabhata, named after the famous ancient Indian astronomer and mathematician, was designed and fabricated by this Centre. This 360-kg satellite was launched on April 19, 1975 into a near-circular orbit of 600 km at an inclination of 51^0 to the equator from a Soviet Cosmodrome using a Soviet Intercosmos rocket. The spin-stabilised satellite survived in orbit well beyond the design lifetime of six months. All the technological systems on-board the satellite have been functioning well.

With the launching of Aryabhata, India has acquired indigenous capability in satellite technology, namely, to design and fabricate a space-worthy system and evaluate its performance in orbit, evolve the methodology of conducting a series of complex operations on the satellite and set up the necessary receiving, transmitting and tracking systems besides the establishment of the infrastructure for fabrication of satellite systems.

The second Indian satellite, Bhaskara, was launched on June 7, 1979, from a Soviet Cosmodrome, for earth observations. The 444-kg experimental satellite named after an ancient Indian astronomer, was designed and built by ISRO. It contained sophisticated instruments for carrying out remote sensing experiments over India, using TV cameras and microwave radiometers. Bhaskara experiments are useful in the fields of forestry, hydrology snow-cover and snow-melt, geology, soils, land use and ocean surface studies. The orbital period of the satellite was 95.2 minutes and the inclination 50.7^0. The maximum height of orbit above surface of earth (apogee) was 557 km and the minimum height (perigee) 512 km.

Rohini Satellite (RS/D1) went into orbit on May 31, 1981.

Rohini Satellite (RS-1): Polyhedral in shape, weighing 35 kg and developed at ISAC, RS-1 was the first Indian satellite to be launched from India using the indigenous SLV-3 vehicle. A series of Rohini satellites covering selected scientific and application payloads for launch by future SLV vehicles are under development at the centre.

Apple Satellite: India's first three axis body stabilised geostationary experimental satellite, Apple, developed here was launched on 19th June 1981 using the third Ariane launch vehicle of the European Space Agency (ESA). The spacecraft weighing about 660 kg will provide India expertise in the technology necessary for the building and operation of geosynchronous satellites. While the communication payloads of the satellite were built at SAC (Space Applications Centre), important subsystems like ABM (Apogee Boost Motor) and secondary propulsion systems were built at VSSC. Under Apple project, a series of experiments aimed at speeding up the tempo of space communications in India would be carried out.

Indian Remote Sensing Satellite (IRS): Space-based remote sensing of natural resources being one of the major goals of ISRO, efforts are underway to develop an operational Indian Remote Sensing Satellite (IRS) by mid-eighties. The spacecraft will need to be placed in sun-synchronous near polar orbit at a nominal altitude between 550 km & 1,000 km, the orbit depending on the mission requirement.

SHAR Centre: The SHAR Centre at Sriharikota island, off India's east coast, is about 100 km. north of Madras city. It is being developed as a range for launching bigger satellite launch vehicles like ASLV and PSLV. India's first satellite launch vehicle SLV-3 was launched from here.

A comprehensive test facility for conducting various ground tests of rocket motors and subsystems has been set up at Sriharikota. This test facility is being augmented for PSLV programme.

The ISRO Telemetry, Tracking and Command Network (ISTRAC) which has been set up to manage the telemetry and telecommand network of ISRO has supported all ISRO missions such as Aryabhata, Bhaskara and RS-1 with its network stations at SHAR Centre, Ahmedabad, Car Nicobar and Trivandrum.

Space Applications Centre (SAC) is engaged in the planning and execution of the space application projects of ISRO. Its objective is to apply space science and technology to practical uses. To achieve this goal SAC has taken up work in telecommunications and television broadcasting and reception via satellites; use of remote sensing techniques to survey natural and renewable earth resources; studies in space meteorology and satellite geodesy.

This Centre conducted the Satellite Instructional Television Experiment (SITE), the year-long (August 1st, 1975 to July 31st, 1976) experiment in direct broadcast of television programmes via the NASA satellite, ATS-6. During the experiment, community TV sets were installed in 2,400 villages in Rajasthan, Bihar, Orissa, Madhya Pradesh, Karnataka and Andhra Pradesh and instructional programmes were beamed directly via the satellite.

Under an agreement between ISRO and the Symphonie organisation, one of the two transponders aboard the Franco-West German Symphonie satellite with a bandwidth of 90 MHz, was made available for Indian experiments in satellite telecommunications for two years, beginning from June 1977. Known as the Satellite Telecommunications Experiments Project (STEP) this two year project was taken up by ISRO in collaboration with the Posts and Telegraphs (P & T) Department of the Ministry of Communications. Under STEP, experiments in remote area communications using transportable terminals, radio-networking, emergency communications, digital communications, multiple access, integration of satellite circuits into terrestrial net-works and multiple audio-video transmissions were conducted. The project was mainly aimed at providing a system test of geo-synchronous communication satellite and to sharpen India's expertise in the design, development, fabrication and operation of communication systems involving geo-stationary satellite.

The ground network for STEP consisted of the following: The earth stations at Ahmedabad, Delhi and Madras, Transportable Remote Area Communication Terminal (TRACT) and the Emergency Communication Terminal (ECT).

Except for the Madras Earth Station, the modification, fabrication and operation of all other earth stations were the responsibilities of ISRO. ISRO was also responsible for fabricating the antenna system and the high-power amplifier for the Madras Earth Station. TRACT was fabricated at SAC and was tested with ATS-6 in July 1976. ECT, a miniaturised and ruggedised communication system, is mounted on a jeep in such a way that it can be detached easily and the whole unit air-lifted in emergencies like natural calamities when the terrestrial communication system is disrupted.

One important area of SAC activity is the remote sensing of natural and renewable resources. ISRO and the Indian Council of Agricultural Research (ICAR) conducted, during 1974-75, a joint experiment called the Agricultural Resources Inventory and Survey Experiment (ARISE), employing remote sensing techniques, to assess crops and land-use pattern in Anantapur District of Andhra Pradesh and Patiala district of Punjab.

The remote sensing techniques are being applied for a wide range of purposes such as collection of data relating to agriculture (crop vigour, crop census, classification of soil, etc.) detection of minerals, management of water resources, forest inventories and meteorological studies. SAC is developing sensors for use from balloons, aircraft and spacecraft to collect data for these applications. Some of these sensors are: infra-red scanner, multispectral scanner, microwave radiometer and the vidicon TV camera.

About ten remote sensing experiments have so far been conducted to study aspects of agriculture and landscape features over sites in Pune, Bombay, Sriharikota island, Jaipur, Bangalore, Anantpur district in Andhra Pradesh, Patiala district in Punjab and Panchmahals district in Gujarat.

INSAT: The Department of Space, in close cooperation with the Ministries of Communications, Tourism and Civil Aviation and Information and Broadcasting, has taken up the establishment of the Indian National Satellite (INSAT) system. The INSAT system is a multi-purpose operational space system providing telecommunications, meteorology and television services from a common satellite in geostationary orbit. The proposed system envisages a very significant telecommunications component providing for long-distance telephony, communication with remote areas and islands and emergency communications. The meteorological capability includes 24-hour observation of weather system, data collection and relay from remote, unattended platforms and a disaster warning. Television capability relates both to direct TV broadcasting from satellite to community TV sets in rural areas and to radio networking. The Government of India has approved the implementation of the INSAT-1 system which is expected to be operational in 1982. DOS has entered into a contract with the Ford Aerospace Communication Corporation (FACC) of USA for the supply of two INSAT-1 spacecraft along with certain satellite control equipment for the Master Control Facility (MCF) in India. The launch and associated services for INSAT-1 system are being obtained from United States National Aeronautics and Space Administration (NASA) on a cost reimbursible basis as per Agreement concluded in November 1980.

Ahmedabad Earth Station (AES): SAC operates the Ahmedabad Earth Station (AES), Ahmedabad, which is an international Centre for training in satellite telecommunications technology.

STARS: The Satellite Tracking and Ranging Station (STARS) came into operation on January 23, 1977 at Kavalur in Tamil Nadu. In addition to the tracking cameras there is a Ranging Laser at the station. This facility is used to determine orbits of satellites. The data collected by this station will be useful for geodetic purposes.

PRL: The Physical Research Laboratory has been the cradle of space science in India and is being further developed as a national centre in this field. Its activities are supported mainly by DOS. PRL conducts basic research in many areas of space sciences for understanding the structure and dynamics of the earth's upper atmosphere, the solar terrestrial relationships, plasoma physics and astrophysical problems. For these studies, data are collected through laboratory experiments, ground-based observations and measurements with rocket-borne instruments. PRL participates in many rocket-borne experiments at TERLS. It also uses data received from various orbiting scientific satellites of other countries. Investigations on lunar samples and meteorites and laboratory studies of plasma for understanding certain ionospheric phenomena and astrophysical problems are also conducted. Climatological, archeological and hydrological studies are also undertaken.

Sponsored Research: Various universities and academic institutions in the country are identified and encouraged by ISRO to undertake research and development studies in Space Science, Space Technology and Applications relevant to the Indian Space Programme.

ATOMIC ENERGY

PROGRAMME

THE Indian atomic energy programme was launched chiefly to supplement the limited conventional energy resources to meet the long-term electricity needs of the country, to produce nuclear power and to utilise nuclear techniques in agriculture, industry, medicine and other areas. The Atomic Energy Commission was constituted in 1948 as the policy-making body of the Government of India for the development and utilisation of atomic energy.

The Atomic Energy Establishment was set up at Trombay in 1957 (renamed in 1967 as Bhabha Atomic Research Centre) for carrying out research in basic sciences, development of nuclear technologies based on indigenous resources, and demonstration of their economic viability.

The production of nuclear fuels, control instruments, reactor components, plant and machinery, research equipment, high purity metals and materials required for the atomic energy programme is undertaken either under the aegis of the Department of Atomic Energy or by the industry with technical assistance from the Department.

Over the last few years, the Department has placed considerable emphasis on the following areas in addition to its main task of nuclear research and development producing commercial nuclear power and applying nuclear techniques to agriculture, industry, medicine etc. These activities are :

(a) Training and development of personnel in different fields of science and technology related to the atomic energy programme.
(b) Development of the nuclear equipment/industry, both in the public and private sectors.
(c) Transfer of technology from research centres to industry in several non-nuclear areas.
(d) Planning and implementation of pilot level and semi-commercial demonstration projects to extend the benefits of atomic energy in industry, medicine, agriculture and research.
(e) Assistance, both financial and otherwise, to various academic and other institutions for promoting research and other activities that are beneficial to the atomic energy programme.

Its fields of research include : electron microscopy, EPR spectroscopy, mass spectrometry, microwave absorption spectroscopy, molecular biology, NMR spectroscopy, NCR spectroscopy, nuclear activation, nuclear reactions, nuclear spectroscopy, radiochemistry, solid state physics, structural crystallography, technical physics and theoretical nuclear physics.

It aims at development of polarised target facilities, development of high power Hd. glass laser, and studies of radioactive isotopes etc.

POWER

Nuclear power provides an alternative and long-lasting source of electricity and its role is expected to enlarge with installation of more PHW (Pressurised Heavy Water) reactors and Fast Breeder Technology. The total nuclear power generation capacity expected to be achieved (by 1979), out of a total power generation capacity of 28.79 million KW, was 0.640 million KW (about 2.2 per cent).

To meet the requirements of heavy water for the PHWR atomic power stations, following heavy water plants have been set up:

1. Heavy Water Plant, Tuticorin: The plant, designed to produce 71.3 tonnes of heavy water per annum became operational in July 1978. It started continuous operation from January 1980 and is expected to produce around 35 tonnes of heavy water in 1980-81. Modification works to improve the stream factor are expected to be completed in 1980-81.
2. Heavy Water Project, Baroda: Designed to produce 67.2 tonnes of heavy water per year had become operational in April 1977, but had to be closed for extensive repairs as a result of fire and explosion in the plant in December 1977. The plant is expected to produce around 32 tonnes of heavy water during the year 1980-81.
3. Heavy Water Plant, Kota: This plant with a capacity to produce 100 M.T.S. per year of nuclear grade heavy water was expected to be completed by July 1980, and the connected activities were expected to be completed within two months thereafter. The plant is expected to be ready for testing with nitrogen water system by November 1980, and for production towards the end of 1981.
4. Heavy Water Plant, Talcher: This plant is designed to produce 62.7 tonnes of heavy water per year and is linked with the Ammonia Plant of Fertiliser Corporation of India at Talcher. The mechanical testing is planned for completion by Oct./Nov. 1980 if power supply severely cut in 1979 is resumed by July 1980 and supply of Syn-Gas commences by October 1980. Commissioning activities will be taken up with a view to start production by July 1981.
5. Heavy Water Plant, Nangal: This plant was commissioned in August 1962. It has an annual capacity of about 14 tonnes.

For fabricating the fuel bundles the Coolant and the Colandria Tubes required for the Nuclear power stations in the country, the Department has established the Nuclear Fuel complex at Hyderabad.

Nuclear Fuel Complex, Hyderabad: This complex is designed to fabricate fuel elements for meeting the requirements of nuclear power reactors. All the plants of the complex except the Ball Bearing Steel Tubes Plant have already become operational. The Ball Bearing Steel Tubes Plant is designed to produce 21.000 metric tonnes of S.S. Tubes for the Ball Bearing Industry, and 3.000 metric tonnes of drill pipes for O.N.G.C. The plant is expected to be operational in 1980-81. The expansion of non-enriched fuel fabrication facilities is being taken up to meet the fuelling needs of the power reactors already under construction in order to achieve self-sufficiency in this regard.

The Power Reactor Fuel Reprocessing Plant, Tarapur, has been built by the Bhabha Atomic Research Centre. This plant processes the irradiated fuel from the Tarapur and Rajasthan Atomic Power Stations.

The Atomic Minerals Division is responsible for surveying, prospecting and exploratory development of atomic minerals required for the atomic energy programme.

During 1979-80 it has carried out Reconnaissance Radio-metric Survey over an area of 20,994 sq. kms. and have brought to light a number of zones of uranium mineralisation. The total meterage of drilling carried out in the different prospects during the year was 15,890 metres. Investigations for location of new sources for Niobium-Tantalum and Beryllium were also continued, covering an area of 1,150 sq. kms.

The Tarapur Atomic Power Station, 100 kms. north of Bombay, is the first atomic power station in India. It was built by General Electric Co. of U.S.A. It has two boiling water type reactors fuelled by enriched uranium with a total output of 420 MWe, has been supplying power to Maharashtra and Gujarat since October 1969.

The value of production of uranium concentrates in expected to be of the order of Rs. 59.54 million in 1979-80.

GENERAL SURVEY

The Variable Energy Cyclotron (VEC), Calcutta, was commissioned for the internal beam. A circulating beam of alpha particles accelerated to energies where it can produce radioactivity in copper, was first obtained at 6 a.m. on June 16, 1977. An external beam of 30 MeV alphas was first obtained on July 8, 1978. During the subsequent runs, alpha particles were accelerated upto the full radius of 99 cms. which is the design radius for the extraction of the beam outside the cyclotron chamber. The complete assembly was done by BARC entirely indigenously with the assistance of some of the leading public and private sector industries in the country. The programme for obtaining an external beam is continuing.

The 100 MW thermal research reactor project (R-5), with 100 per cent indigenous design and detailed engineering, is progressing at Trombay. Its building superstructure is almost complete and major components such as the reactor vessel, coolant channel assemblies etc. are under fabrication. The reactor will give great impetus to research and development activities in the country in the fields of nuclear engineering, physics, chemistry activation analysis and biology. It will also produce radioisotopes of specific activities higher than what is hitherto possible at Trombay.

Another important R & D project on hand is Magneto hydrodynamics (MHD) Power Generation. Located at Tiruchirapalli, the Project is a joint venture of BARC and Bharat Heavy Electricals Ltd. The MHD technique relates to the direct conversion of thermal energy to electrical power. The technology is expected to improve the thermal efficiency of fossil-fired power plants from the present 30-40 per cent to 50 per cent, and even higher.

BARC has also built and commissioned a flash X-ray generator in a national laboratory at Chandigarh. The flash X-rays have many applications in high-speed radiography, pulse radiolysis and X-ray cinematography.

Production of wide range of radioisotope preparations and associated equipment is a major activity at the BARC. During the year, the Centre supplied over 32,000 consignments of various radioactive products to users in India and abroad.

Important developments in this area include installation of a 50,000 curies cobalt-60 panoramic batch irradiator at Baliapatam, Kerala and receipt of an order for the supply and installation of a similar unit with 75,000 curies of cobalt-60, on a turn-key basis, at the Pasar Jumar Research Centre, Indonesia. A scale-up process for wood-polymer composite has also been developed. This process will help the country tide over the scarcity of high-grade timber by upgrading the inferior native timbers with monomer impregnation and gamma irradiation. The Nuclear Research Laboratory at Srinagar, has also been carrying on radiation polymerisation studies on cheap and fast growing local woods, willow and poplar, to assess the commercial feasibility of using them in the wood-carving industry.

Isomed, the radiation sterilisation plant at Trombay, sterilised a total of 1,610 cu.m. of various medical products during the year. Some 150,000 ready-to-use surgical kits were also supplied for use in minor surgical operations.

Trombay Groundnut (TG) strains were multiplied in Saurashtra, Maharashtra, Madhya Pradesh and Andhra Pradesh. About 2,500 tonnes of improved seeds were raised for further distribution. Yield studies have shown that TG-17 is suitable for Gujarat and TG-3 for Madhya Pradesh.

The country-wide personnel monitoring service for evaluating radiation exposure covered around 45,000 workers from nearly 2,400 institutions. The country-wide radiological protection surveys, covering source-loading operations of teletherapy units also, were conducted in 150 institutions consisting of 122 medical, 11 industrial and 17 research institutions.

The first peaceful underground nuclear explosion at Pokhran in the Rajasthan desert was conducted on May 18, 1974. The plutonium device used was designed to yield about 12 kilotons of TNT explosive energy.

In 1978-79 due to natural calamities like drought and floods the total production of foodgrains amounted to only 2.3 million tonnes but jute production rose to 0.9 million bales. For jute production the acreage under improved seeds has been stepped up during 1980-81 from 55,000 hectares to 75,000 hectares.

AGRICULTURE: Agriculture provides about 55 per cent of net domestic product of the State, gives employment to 80 per cent of the working population, of which two-thirds are cultivators and the rest are labourers.

The State has about 5.3 million farming families cultivating 18.5 million hectares of land. Marginal farmers with less than one hectare operate 32 per cent of all holdings using only 3.40 per cent of the State cultivable land. Small farmers with holdings between 1 and 2 hectares operate 17 per cent of all holdings on 6.3 per cent of the cultivable land.

Percentage contribution to India's total production of crops is rice 8 per cent, sorghum 17 per cent, maize 9 per cent, small millets 10 per cent, wheat 11 per cent, barley 7 per cent and oil-seeds and pulses 8 per cent.

About 11 per cent of the cropped area is irrigated. The gross cropped area is 20.8 million hectares. Food production level which was a mere 8.576 million tonnes in the year 1956-57 has risen to 12.339 million tonnes in 1977-78.

This is one of the few States where both Kharif and Rabi crops are grown in substantial areas, though Kharif covers a major portion of the total agricultural area. Against a target of 12.1 million tonnes the production of foodgrain in the State during 1980-81 was estimated at 11.8 million tonnes.

(This former Union Territory became a full fledged State on January 21, 1972.)

State Boundaries: The State is bound in the North-West, West, South and South-East by Bangladesh and in the North-East by Assam and Mizoram.

State Language: Bengali is predominantly spoken.

AGRICULTURE: About 65 per cent of the land is forest. Only 23 per cent area is available for agricultural use and other purposes out of which 0.2470 million hectares can be put under field crops. The principal crops are paddy, wheat, jute, mesta, sugar cane, potato and oil seeds. Out of 0.2470 million hectares net available for cultivation, the State had put 0.2586 million hectares (gross) under cereals and produce 0.3100 million tonnes.

Forest: The total area of Reserved Forest and proposed Reserved Forest is at present 3,930.21 sq. km. and that of protected forest is 2,067.76 sq. km. The protected forest is mainly being used for the purpose of different Government projects for resettlement of landless people.

The extent of natural tree forests is a little more than 372 sq. km. which is 8.52 per cent of the total forest area. The rest of the forests is mostly degraded owing to jhumming.

By 1976-77, 47,827 hectares of plantations of various economic species had been raised in Tripura. Besides rubber plantation has also been taken up extensively in Tripura since 1964-65 and till 1976-77, 647.53 hectares of land had been brought under rubber. The plantation created up to 1976-77 form 12.3 per cent of the total forest area in the State.

An additional area of about 1,100 sq.km. bamboo forest has also been burned down for jhumming. However, bamboo forest, which survive, along with the new man-made forest (Plantations) are enough to feed a paper mill of 150 tonnes capacity per day.

Power: The installed capacity of this State is 14.72 MW with the firm availability of 10 MW. The additional load growth would likely to be met with by import of power from ASEB. All the three major stations: Two 132 KV substations, one at Agartala and the other at Dharmanagar have since been commissioned at 132 KV and the third one at Udaipur is operating at 66 KV. It is expected that the transmission line from Agartala to Dharmanagar would soon be commissioned to 132 KV. The total length of the line and number of consumers, being 1,300 km. and 25,000 respectively, are likely to increase by 150 % in the 6th Five Year Plan.

INDUSTRY

(See chapter on 'Food & Agriculture' for area and production of different crops.)

The State is the largest producer of food-grains and oil seeds in the country. It leads all the States in the production of wheat, maize, barley, gram, sugar-cane and potatoes.

Land Ceiling: The ceiling area was fixed at 7.30 hectares of irrigated land for a tenure-holder having a family of five members with two additional hectares of irrigated land for each additional member in excess of five, and two hectares of irrigated land for each landless adult son subject to the condition that the additional area so allowed shall not exceed six hectares.

For the purpose of determining ceiling area, the land has been classified into two broad categories—irrigated and unirrigated. One and a half hectares of unirrigated land has been deemed to be equal to one hectare of irrigated land. For grove land and usar land, it has been provided that two and a half hectares of grove land or usar land shall be equal to one hectare of irrigated land.

Irrigation : In the year 1979-80, inspite of the unprecedented drought, a record irrigation of 5.45 million hectares was achieved through State Irrigation works including canals and tubewells. A remarkable feature of the year was, construction of 50,000 Guls to avoid wastage of canal and tubewell water.

POWER: Uttar Pradesh increased its installed capacity from a mere 397 M.W. in 1960-61 to 3,182 M.W. in 1978-79.

In the State, hydel power generation totalled 1,068 M.W. and thermal power generation 2,077 on 31 March, 1980. As many as 38,577 villages 14,094 harijan's bastis, 344,145 private tubewells, 17,503 government tubewells were energised. The power is supplied to 2,089,942 consumers.

The number of power consumers increased from 1,713,534 during 1976-77 to about 1.91 million during 1978-79. The draft Sixth Plan (1978-83), as prepared by the U.P. State Electricity Board, envisages an addition of 2,606 M.W. in installed capacity of power, laying of 8,646 of main transmission lines, electrification of 26,460 villages and 25,300 harijan bastis and energisation of 300,000 private tubewells and pump-sets.

Animal Husbandry: After agriculture, animal husbandry is the most important economic activity in the State. In 1978 the State accounted for 26.12 million cattle, 12.592 million buffaloes, 0.230 million horses and ponies, 6.610 million goats, 1.956 million sheep and 3.920 million poultry.

Fisheries : Fisheries development programme started in the State in 1944. The bulk of the catch is exported to W. Bengal. Out of 1.165 million hectares of water area nearly 0.324 million hectares consist of confined waters. A total of 0.1413 million hectares is under pisciculture.

The total production of fish during 1979-80 was 17,792.34 quintals. There was also an increase in the production of Fingerlings from 30.145 million in 1978-79 to 32.691 million in 1979-80.

HOUSING

Background : There were 93 million houses used for residential purposes partially or fully to house 548 million people during 1971. These included 32·2 million semi-pucca houses and 34·8 million katcha houses.

The total number of households in 1970 was 97·0 million — 78·0 million in rural areas and 19·0 million in urban areas. Their numbers rose to 103·1 million at the beginning of the Fifth Five Year Plan in 1974 — 81·4 million in rural areas and 21·7 million in urban areas. It is estimated that the growth of population alone demands 2 million dwelling units every year.

Shortage: The shortage of housing units at the beginning of the Fifth Plan (on the criterion that (i) every household in urban areas should have a pucca house or semi-pucca house; and (ii) every household in rural areas should have a pucca, semi-pucca, or serviceable katcha house) has been estimated by the National Building Organisation at 15·6 million units — 11·8 million in rural areas and 3·8 million in urban areas respectively at the beginning of the Fifth Five Year Plan. By March 1980 the housing shortage was expected to be 20·1 million units — 15·1 million units in rural areas and 5·0 million units in urban areas.

Rate of Construction : The net annual addition to housing stock is estimated at 1·67 million units — 0·60 million units in urban areas and 1·07 million units in rural areas.

The Problem : In the last decade there has been a large influx into urban areas. Six of the 9 large urban agglomerations, each having more than a million population, recorded between 43·5 per cent and 63 per cent increase in population during 1961-71.

Towns with population of 100,000 recorded a 52 per cent increase during the same period. Whilst on an all India basis the urban population increased at the rate of 38 per cent.

Overcrowding : The influx into urban areas has caused an acute shortage of housing facilities, resulting in overcrowding.

Household Incomes: Family incomes, naturally, play a great part in a family's ability to acquire or afford a home. Incomes of families in urban areas are much higher than families in rural areas. For instance in Greater Bombay 56 per cent families have an income of less than Rs. 350 a month and 28 per cent less than Rs. 600 a month.

In the Asansol Industrial area of West Bengal 80 per cent families earned less than Rs. 350 a month and 19 per cent less than Rs. 600.

Household Expenditure : It is observed that an increasing amount of a family's income goes towards the purchase of food alone. A low income family's inability to pay for shelter can be seen from the expenditure pattern of the various income groups compiled by the Town and Country Planning Organisation, New Delhi. The survey covers South Delhi and is deemed to be representative for all major urban areas of the country.

Co-operative Housing : It is estimated that upto the end of June 1977, 28,900 co-operative housing societies with 1·8 million members would have constructed 440,000 houses.

Work on development of indigenous fibre glass materials for gliders/aircraft is also being carried out.

POST AND TELEGRAPH

HISTORY: The first postal system was introduced in 1766 by Lord Clive, for official purposes only. In 1837, it was opened to the public and the first issue of postal stamps was made in Sind in 1852. The basis of authority of the existing postal system in India, is Act 6 of 1858. The first official airmail flight was taken on 18 Feb., 1911, by M. Pequet, a French aviator.

The first experimental telegraph line from Calcutta to Daimond Harbour was laid by Dr. William B. C. Shanghnessy. The first telegraph line was opened for traffic in October, 1851. Telegraph circuits were gradually extended to all parts by 1867.

Administration: The Indian Posts and Telegraphs Department, the second largest civil employer in the country, comes under the administrative control of the Ministry of Communications. The Secretary of the Department holds charge of the office of the Director General, Posts and Telegraphs as also that of the Chairman of the Posts and Telegraphs Board.

OVERSEAS COMMUNICATIONS SERVICE

The Overseas Communications Service (OCS), a Department of the Government of India, Ministry of Communications is responsible for all external telecommunication services of India. The services are provided through its four gateway centres at Bombay, New Delhi, Calcutta and Madras.

Nearly 99.5 per cent of the international telephone calls, 99.7 per cent of telex calls and 83 per cent of telegrams are carried via high quality international satellite communications system. The Vikram Satellite Earth Station at Arvi near Pune and the Ahmed Satellite Earth Station at Dehra Dun of OCS work with the INTELSAT Satellite in the Indian Ocean Region. OCS has direct satellite links to 28 countries.

OCS provides a wide variety of international telecommunication services like phototelegraph, high speed data, leased telegraph channels, PBS, news broadcasts, etc. in addition to conventional public telephone, telex and telegraph services. Telephone service is available to 210 countries, telex service to 195 countries and telegraph service to practically any destination in the world. Over a hundred customers (international trading houses, airlines, banks, etc.) are provided with international leased telegraph channels.

As on 1.4.1980 OCS operated via satellite medium 300 public telephone circuits, 495 telex circuits, 31 telegraph circuits and 103 leased telegraph circuits including 11 press bulletin service circuits.

The bulk of international telephone service is at present operated in the semi-automatic mode. ISD Telephone subscriber dialling service is available for Bombay, New Delhi, Madras and Calcutta subscribers to the whole of UK on round-the-clock basis.

Since the commissioning of the Stored Program Controlled (SPC) fully automatic International Gateway Telex Exchange (GATEX) at Bombay in Oct. 1977 and at New Delhi in 1980 direct subscribe dialling facility for Indian telex subscribers has been made to 34 countries in the world.

Net profit earned by the Govt. through OCS in 1978-79 was Rs. 326.1 million. It was expected to go upto Rs. 360 million during 1979-80. The Plan outlay on OCS projects has been fixed at Rs 702.2 million.

BROADCASTING

History: Organised broadcasting was started in India in 1927 by private, Indian Broadcasting Company from Bombay and Calcutta. This lasted till 1930. Government of India decided to run radio stations in 1932. In 1935, broadcasting was constituted into a separate department. All India Radio replaced the earlier Indian State Broadcasting Service on June 3, 1936. Real break in broadcasting came with World War II. Most of the news services and external services originated during the war years.

Akashvani: All India Radio operates this service over a network of broadcasting stations located throughout the country. It caters to the complex needs of all communities in the country.

Broadcasting constitutes the most powerful medium of mass communication covering 85 per cent of our population. At the end of February 1978, there were 84 broadcasting centres with 158 (124 medium wave, 32 short wave and 2 F.M.) transmitters in India, covering 89 per cent of population.

An outlay of Rs. 865 million has been fixed during the Sixth Plan for development projects.

Commercial Broadcasting: Commercial services were started in November, 1967.

The earnings of Commercial Broadcasting Service of Akashvani during 1979-80 were Rs. 102.9 million.

Broadcast Receiver Licences: The number of Broadcast Receiver Licences and TV licences in force as on 30-9-1979 for the three quarters of calendar year 1979 was 16,467,890 and 887,384 respectively. It was expected that the number of Broadcast Receiver Licences and TV licences may go upto 21,200,000 and 1,000,000 respectively by the end of 31-12-1979. During the calendar year 1978 the number of unlicensed sets detected was 304,773 Radios and TVs together and Rs. 3,855,230 as license fee and Rs. 3,401,409 as surcharge were collected.

TELEVISION

Television at Delhi started as an experimental service in 1959 and since then it has grown considerably. In 1961, an educational TV service was also started in Delhi with the help of the Ford Foundation and in collaboration with the educational authorities of Delhi. A regular daily service was started from Delhi in 1965. The duration of the general television programme in the evening transmission has been increased to 3 hours from July, 1970. Bombay television station started on 2nd October 1972. It started with programme time limited to 2 hours and 15 minutes daily, which has been increased to 3 hours on week days and 3½ hours on Saturdays and Sundays. Commercial TV started in India on 1st January, 1976.

At present Television has 7 full-fledged centres at Srinagar, Bombay, Madras, Calcutta, Lucknow, Delhi and Jullundur-Amritsar; 3 Programme Production Centres at Delhi, Cuttack and Hyderabad; 7 SITE on-going transmitters at Hyderabad, Muzaffarpur, Sambalpur, Raipur, Jaipur, Gulbarga and Ahmedabad; and 3 Relay centres at Mussoorie, Kanpur and Pune. The most recent station in the network was commissioned at Jullundur on April 13, 1979.

At present TV network covers an area of 0.2 million sq. km. (6.1 per cent of the total) with a population of 83.21 million out of which 48.16 million is rural and 35.05 million is urban.

The Sixth Plan of TV service envisages setting up of 3 new centres at Ahmedabad, Bangalore and Trivandrum and providing for programme production facilities at Raipur, Gulbarga, Jaipur and Muzaffarpur. Ten additional centres are also proposed to be set up.

Commercial TV was started from January 1, 1976. Ten per cent of the total transmission time is available for commercials every day.

From a revenue of Rs. 7.7 million in 1976-77 the year 1978-79 recorded a revenue of Rs. 49.7 million. The budget provision for 1979-80 was Rs. 50 million and against this TV had already earned a revenue of about Rs. 43.5 million by the end of December 1979.

PORTS

THERE are ten major ports in India, 21 intermediate ports and 152 working minor ports.

The ten major ports are Bombay, Calcutta, Cochin, Kandla, Madras, Mormugao, New Mangalore, Paradeep, Port of Tuticorin and Visakhapatnam.

State-wise distribution of intermediate ports and the number of minor ports respectively are:

Andhra Pradesh: Masulipatam, Kakinada and five minor ports. Gujarat: Okha, Porbandar, Bhavnagar, Navalakhi, Bedi, Veraval, Bharuch, Mandvi, Sikka, Surat and 40 minor ports. Karnataka: Karwar, Mangalore and 19 minor ports. Kerala: Alleppey, Kozhikode, and nine minor ports. Maharashtra: Ratnagiri, Redi, and 46 minor ports. Orissa: Two minor ports. Pondicherry: One minor port of Pondicherry only. Tamil Nadu: Cuddalore, Nagapattinam, Tuticorin and eight minor ports. Andaman & Nicobar Islands: 15 minor ports. Lakshadweep Islands: Seven minor ports.

Nine major ports are administered by Port Trusts, which are statutory bodies, whilst New Mangalore Port is administered directly by the Govt. of India. The intermediate and minor ports are administered by State Governments.

The National Harbour Board: The Board advises the Central Government on matters of general policy relating to port management and development including the effects on industry, commerce, shipping, railways etc. so as to ensure integrated consideration of all important port matters.

Port Development: A provision of Rs. 6,000 million has been suggested to the Planning Commission for the development of major ports in the Five Year Plan (1980-85). The Annual Plan outlay for 1980-81 for major ports is Rs. 990 million.

LIGHTHOUSES: There are 345 lighthouses, 8 lightvessels, 13 fog signals, 9 M.F. radio beacons, 2 harbour control radars, 3 Dacca navigator chains, 4 Racons and several hundreds of lighted and unlighted beacons, land marks etc. serving as aids to navigation—strewn over the coastline of approximately 7,000 kms. including Andaman, Nicobar and Lakshadweep Islands.

BOMBAY: The port of Bombay owns landed estates extending over 761 hectares from Pilot Bunder to Wadala and the docks cover an area of 283 hectares. There are 3 enclosed wet docks with a total area of 46.30 hectares, and quayage of nearly 7,776 metres inside the wet basin and 853 metres along the harbour wall. Sassoon Dock has a water area of 1.5 hectares and limited facilities for five ships of 1,000 tonnes.

Besides the docks there are a number of "Bunders" or open wharves along the harbour front with a total quayage of about 12.5 kms.

Repair facilities for shipping are provided at two drydocks—Hughes and Merewether.

The port maintains its own railway system which serves the docks, ten local stations and a large number of sidings on the Port Trust estates. It also connects the main line railways.

Of all Indian ports, the Bombay port handles the largest number of containers and their number is increasing. In 1977-78 the port handled 13,599 containers, weighing 109,142 tonnes, and in 1979-80 it handled as many as 77,832 containers, weighing 857,392 tonnes.

The number is expected to exceed 90,000 in 1980-81.

Considering the severe congestion at the port and the need for modern port facilities and a deeper port for handling larger volumes of bulk cargo traffic, the Central Govt. has cleared a proposal for commissioning a detailed project report on the construction of a satellite port at Nhava Sheva. The new port, after construction, is expected to ease congestion of the Bombay port.

Chairman: K. K. Uppal; Dy. Chairman: N. R. Mane; Secretary: R. U. Pai.

CALCUTTA: There are two impounded docks, known as Kidderpore Dock and Netaji Subhas Dock. The third and subsidiary deep water modern dock at Haldia meant for handling bulk carriers and bigger vessels has been commissioned in Feb. 1977. Ore and coal berths have started shipment. Cement, fertilisers and container ships are also being handled there. The Haldia Dock project in its first phase provided for one riverside oil jetty and two fully mechanical berths for loading ore and coal, three other berths for foodgrains, general cargo, heavy lift and containers and a finger jetty for salt and other similar type of cargo within an impounded dock

There are five dry docks—two in Netaji Subhas Dock, and three in Kidderpore Dock No. 1.

Two riverside jetties are also available at Garden Reach for sea-going vessels. Of late, containers are also being handled at Calcutta at 'D' Netaji Subhas Dock. Taking into account the differences in size, design and mode of berthing the port can hold about 75 to 90 vessels in impounded docks, riverside jetties and river moorings.

Kidderpore Dock No. 2 has two coal berths.

The port including the new oil jetty at Haldia can handle over 14 million tonnes of traffic annually.

The Cochin Harbour Railway is connected with the broad gauge system of the Southern Railway. Inside the harbour there are 11 stream berths, 2 coal berths, 8 wharf berths, 1 boat train pier jetty, one open berth and 2 tanker jetties. The south coal berth has been modified with storage facilities for bulk import of liquid ammonia for the needs of the Cochin division of FACT. During the Sixth Plan (1980-85) it is proposed to provide additional container handling facilities at Q-9, floating craft like tugs etc and improvement of infra-structural facilities. An integrated scheme for port development consisting of an oil terminal and a fertiliser berth with 40 ft. draught is one of the most important schemes of the port's Sixth Plan.

RAILWAYS

HISTORY: First railway (consisting of 14 four-wheeled teak coaches carrying 400 passengers) in India ran over a distance of 33.6 kms. from Bombay to Thana on 16th April, 1853. Development of rail communications, however, took place after 1858. Upto 1857, railway was practically unknown, except for a few miles around Bombay, Calcutta and Madras.

The freedom movement highlighted the need for proper communications. Thus by 1871, a general system connecting the different provinces and the hinterland of each province with its ports was completed.

Zonal Administration: The entire Government Railway system is now grouped into nine administrations (Headquarters within brackets): Southern Railway (Madras); Western Railway (Bombay); Central Railway (Bombay); Northern Railway (Delhi); Eastern Railway (Calcutta); South-Eastern Railway (Calcutta); North-Eastern Railway (Gorakhpur); North-East Frontier Railway (Maligaon, Gauhati); South Central Railway (Secunderabad).

New trains introduced during 1978-79: Madras-Ahmedabad Navjivan Express; Bhubaneswar-Secunderabad Konark Express; Secunderabad-Bombay Minar Express; Dur-Varanasi Sarnath Express (Bi-weekly); Howrah-Jammu Tawi Himagiri Express (Bi-weekly); Ahmedabad-Udaipur City Express; Ahmedabad-Bhavnagar–Porbandar Gandhigram Express and Jaipur-Bikaner Express (metre gauge). During 1980: Bombay VT-Varanasi Mahanagari Express; Puri-New Delhi Nilachal Express.

Development expenditure on Roads: The current years' budget provisions for Plan schemes and the revised estimates for 1980-81 in brackets show the trend of development expenditure on central road programmes. National highways Rs. 1,019.0 million (Rs. 929.1 million); roads of Inter-state importance Rs. 44.5 million (Rs. 51.2 million); border roads Rs. 120 million (Rs. 155 million); planning and research Rs. 10.5 million (Rs. 16.0 million). Partly, the increase in plan expenditure during the current year which is budgeted to a total sum of Rs. 1,226.1 million (as compared to Rs. 1,037.7 million in 1980-81) will be on account of construction of fly-over bridges for Asian games in Delhi and higher outlay under National highways for execution of major works. The non-plan provision of Rs. 323.1 million (against Rs. 277.4 million in 1980-81) are for works undertaken by Border Roads Development and for budgetary support to Indian Roads Construction Corporation

MUNICIPAL CORPORATIONS (1980)

CIVIC rule in India is a little over a hundred years old. Now there are 1,500 Municipal Councils and 38 Municipal Corporations in India. They are functioning at : Agra, Ahmedabad, Allahabad, Bangalore, Bhopal, Bombay, Calcutta, Calicut, Chandranagore, Cochin, Delhi, Gangtok, Gauhati, Gwalior, Hubli-Dharwar, Hyderabad, Indore, Jabalpur, Kanpur, Kolhapur, Lucknow, Madras, Madurai, Nagpur, Patna, Pune, Raipur, Rajkot, Solapur, Simla, Surat, Trivandrum, Amritsar, Jullundur, Ludhiana, Ujjain, Vadodara and Varanasi.

As a general rule the Municipal Councils and Municipal Corporations are established in towns having a population of more than 20,000 and cities having a population of more than 300,000 respectively.

The State Government makes an assessment of the revenue and population of the town/city through the district collector prior to the establishment of the Municipal Council/Corporation.

When a city's revenue exceeds Rs. 20 million, the Council representing the city is upgraded with the concurrence and approval of the State Government.

In fact it is the responsibility of the States to establish Municipal Councils and Corporations. Schedule 7 of the Constitution of India, elucidates this point. The rules and regulations and powers of the Municipal Councils and Corporations vary from State to State.

NEWSPAPER STATISTICS

BRIEF HISTORY: Press had its beginnings in India when the first newspaper, a weekly double sheet called "Bengal Gazette", was started by James Augustus Hickey on January 29, 1780 at Serampore, near Calcutta.

Many other newspapers followed in quick succession (19 were started before the end of the century). Most of these were in English and were published, edited and read by Englishmen. In spite of their interesting editorial contents which consisted of political and private scandals the newspaper circulation did not exceed 100.

The first Indian owned newspaper the "Bengal Gazette" was published by Gangadhar Bhattacharjee in 1816 (price Re. 1/-). Many independent and well-conducted papers flourished during the administration of Governor-General Lord Hastings, who adopted a liberal policy of self-censorship for the press in 1818. One such magazine was "Calcutta Journal" a bi-weekly with a circulation of 1,000.

However, a revision of policy by John Adam in 1823 necessitated the closure of "Calcutta Journal". Later under liberals like William Bentinck who replaced John Adam in 1828 and Sir Charles Metcalf who succeeded Bentinck, press in India enjoyed greater freedom.

Many other Indian language newspapers were started between 1816-1822. "Shri-Mumbai-na-Samachar", started as a Gujarati weekly in 1822, by Fardoonji Marzban. It became a daily in 1832 and is the forerunner of the oldest living newspaper today, the "Bombay Samachar".

In Bengal between 1818 and 1833 as many as 99 newspapers and periodicals were started. The average life of each of these publications was 5 years. During the same period only 10 newspapers were published in the north and an insignificant number in the south.

The first railway line in 1853 and the first telegraph line in 1851 contributed to the growth and dissemination of news.

After the mutiny of 1857 restraints on the press were reimposed by Act XV of 1857. Of the 35 publications of 1853, six survived till 1857.

Important Legislation:

1. Act XXV of 1867 - regulating printing presses and newspapers.
2. Vernacular Press Act of 1878 - to restrain the vernacular press. Repealed four years later.
3. Indian Official Secrets Act was passed in 1889.

Important Dates:

1865	"Pioneer" was started in Allahabad.
1868	"Amrit Bazar Patrika" was started in Calcutta.
